This is now, the present, the year. It has been an experience in understanding. An experience in which we have tried to place values on the many thoughts which race through our moments of sorrow, hours of cheer, and seemingly endless time spent at study. But is it not also a period in which we attempt to place ourselves in the pursuit of perfection?

We hope that these pages might serve as a springboard by which we may recall the moments spent in seeking a deeper meaning to our days at Arkansas.

*This is College — the Pursuit.
And I am Man — the Pursurer.*

*She is order, discipline, scheme.
I am chaos and rebellion.*

*We are juxtaposed.
Will we coalesce? Will we form pattern, then understanding?*

I stand, hesitant, on the brink of Pursuit.

I see her challenge; her doors, opened and closed and opening.

I see her strength, baked in the autumn gold of dying leaves.

I hear her breath — the reviving regularity of perception and response. And I know that she is Pursuit of the Art of Living.

But I am afraid of her potent substance. I am afraid of being suffocated under her mass of knowledge.

I am afraid of the contest in Pursuit . . .

But I have no choice . . .

For I must find reason to call myself Man.

The days are hot, and I am fatigued. I am limp, languid.

The days are cold, and I am fatigued. I am hard, stolid.

*My books are heavy, and their context confuses me.
But knowledge reaches me; experience makes me flexible.
I know that I must take my place in the Pursuit.*

I am introduced to the arts — the expression of beauty or significance.

I try to cultivate the aesthetic, I gaze at those more sensitive than I.

I contemplate their creations and strive to find meaning.

My face becomes radiant with enlightenment or I simply shrug my shoulders and walk away.

I mingle with the athlete who recognizes achievement in the physical — in disciplining the corporal for precision, form and technique.

I praise his endeavor, his triumph.

His seriousness of purpose is evident in his determination.

His effort is for himself or for his team.

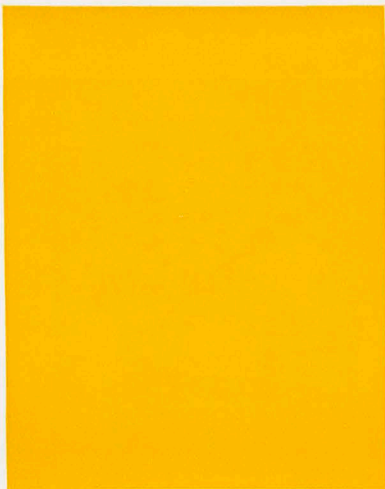

I scream with the excitement, or stand and stare at it.

I wonder if now I am a success or failure, or if maybe the glitter of these bravos and banners are tarnishing my sense of values.

But youth is so unique, temporary; there is no time for concern.

So I put tomorrow into my pocket and pursue amusement today.

I encounter those with distinctive or notable personal character

And they are my leaders, and sometimes I am a leader.

And I look at my followers,

And I wonder if I am worthy of the Pursuit of distinction.

Many are the interests and activities encompassing me

And I must integrate myself to their overwhelming motif — Participation.

So I join . . . to complete the forum . . . and help select next year's committee.

Then exhausted by the complexities I have been an accessory to, I long for the freedom of an un-Parliamentary hour.

Crowded among my contemporaries in the myriad of ideas and behaviors, I am alone.

I must organize. I must seek out those among the holocaust with whom I can harmonize.

I am awakened to the danger of losing my identity within my categorized community.

*I look through the broad spectrum of life at the society
I have created, and ponder whether my vision has been blurred.*

*This is College — the Pursuit.
And I am Man — the Pursurer.
She spies me hiding among my fears of future disappointments
And chides me for allowing my emotions
such strength.
She beckons me to abandon my world of yesterday's failures
And challenges me to expose my dreams
of Camelot
To the poignant and beautiful world of human experience.
But dare I unwrap the folds of ignorant bliss
And take on enlightened and mature responsibility?
I shall not cower.
I ready myself for the Pursuit . . .
And plunge forward into the fountainhead
of human progress . . .
And taking command of the contest . . .
I shall find reason to call

administration

Ever since he was a fledgling politician, Faubus has been interested in highways. Here he explains how he could cover Arkansas with asphalt and concrete with the passage of a bond issue.

GOVERNOR OF ARKANSAS

Orval E. Faubus, after defeating Winthrop Rockefeller this fall, is now serving his sixth term as Governor of Arkansas. A truly successful politician, he has become the symbol of Arkansas to many people across the United States.

Faubus began his rise to political prominence as postmaster of his hometown, Huntsville. He was then County Clerk of Madison County, a member of the State Highway Commission, an administrative assistant to Governor Sid McMath, and finally, in 1954, he waged the first of his successful gubernatorial campaigns.

Faubus has continued to show an interest in the development of the University, and under his administration, the University has been granted funds by the State Legislature to aid in its expansion and building program.

University President

Dr. Mullins greets one of the guests at the Hotz Hall dedication.

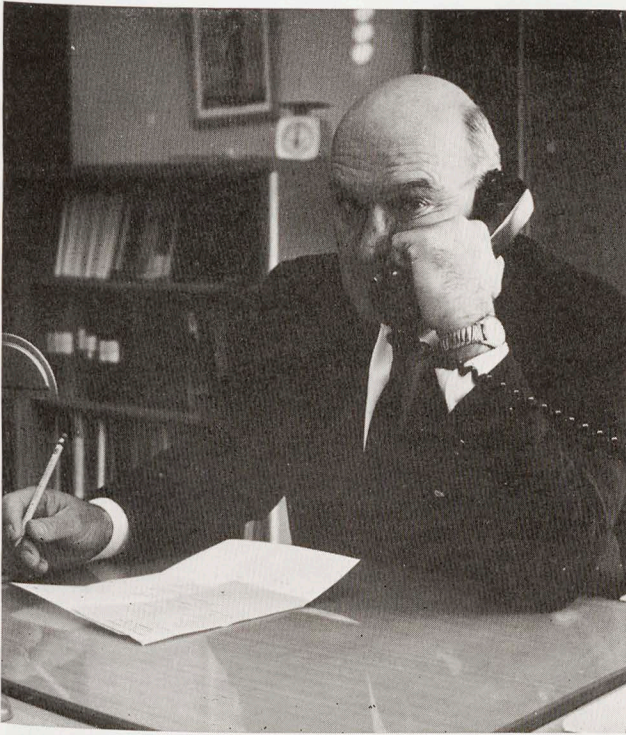

UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT

David Wiley Mullins led a distinguished career as a teacher and administrator in the field of higher education before becoming President of the University in 1960. Under his leadership, the University has experienced rapid and extensive growth in all areas.

Dr. Mullins was born in Ash Flat and graduated from the University in 1931. He earned his Master of Arts at Colorado and obtained his Ph.D. at Columbia University in 1941. Since that time, he has held various positions at Alabama Polytechnic Institute's College of Education and Auburn University. He served as Research Professor of Education at Auburn and attained the position of Executive Vice-President which he held for eleven years before coming to the University of Arkansas.

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

The College of Arts and Sciences is the University's largest college and had an enrollment of 2600 during the fall semester. The faculty, used to sharing classrooms, welcomed the completion of the Science and Engineering building, for it gave several of the twenty-four departments new rooms and offices.

Under the administration of a new dean, Robert F. Kruh, and his assistant, Robert S. Fairchild, the college works toward the goal of giving students the components of a general education. It offers four baccalaureate degrees attained by completion of a basic curriculum, including designated courses in the fields for which the college is named, and extensive specialization in a major field.

An outstanding feature of the College of Arts and Sciences is the Honors Program. This program, co-ordinated by Harold D. Hantz, gives the superior student opportunities for independent study and special library privileges. Small honor sections, in which students go more deeply into the subject matter, are offered as well as special discussion groups during the junior-senior years. This year the colloquium subjects were "Freud in the Twentieth Century," "Science and Religion," and "Greek Ways of Life." With this excellent addition to its regular program, the College of Arts and Sciences continues to maintain its reputation for high educational standards.

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE AND HOME ECONOMICS

GERALD T. HUDSON
Dean of Agriculture and Home Economics

The University of Arkansas, as the Land Grant College of the state, has the responsibility for the leadership in agriculture and home economics which it fulfills through the Division of Agriculture. The Division includes programs of resident teaching in the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, research in the Agricultural Experimental Station, and extension in the Agricultural Extension Service. Students from all areas of the United States and numerous foreign countries study at the college.

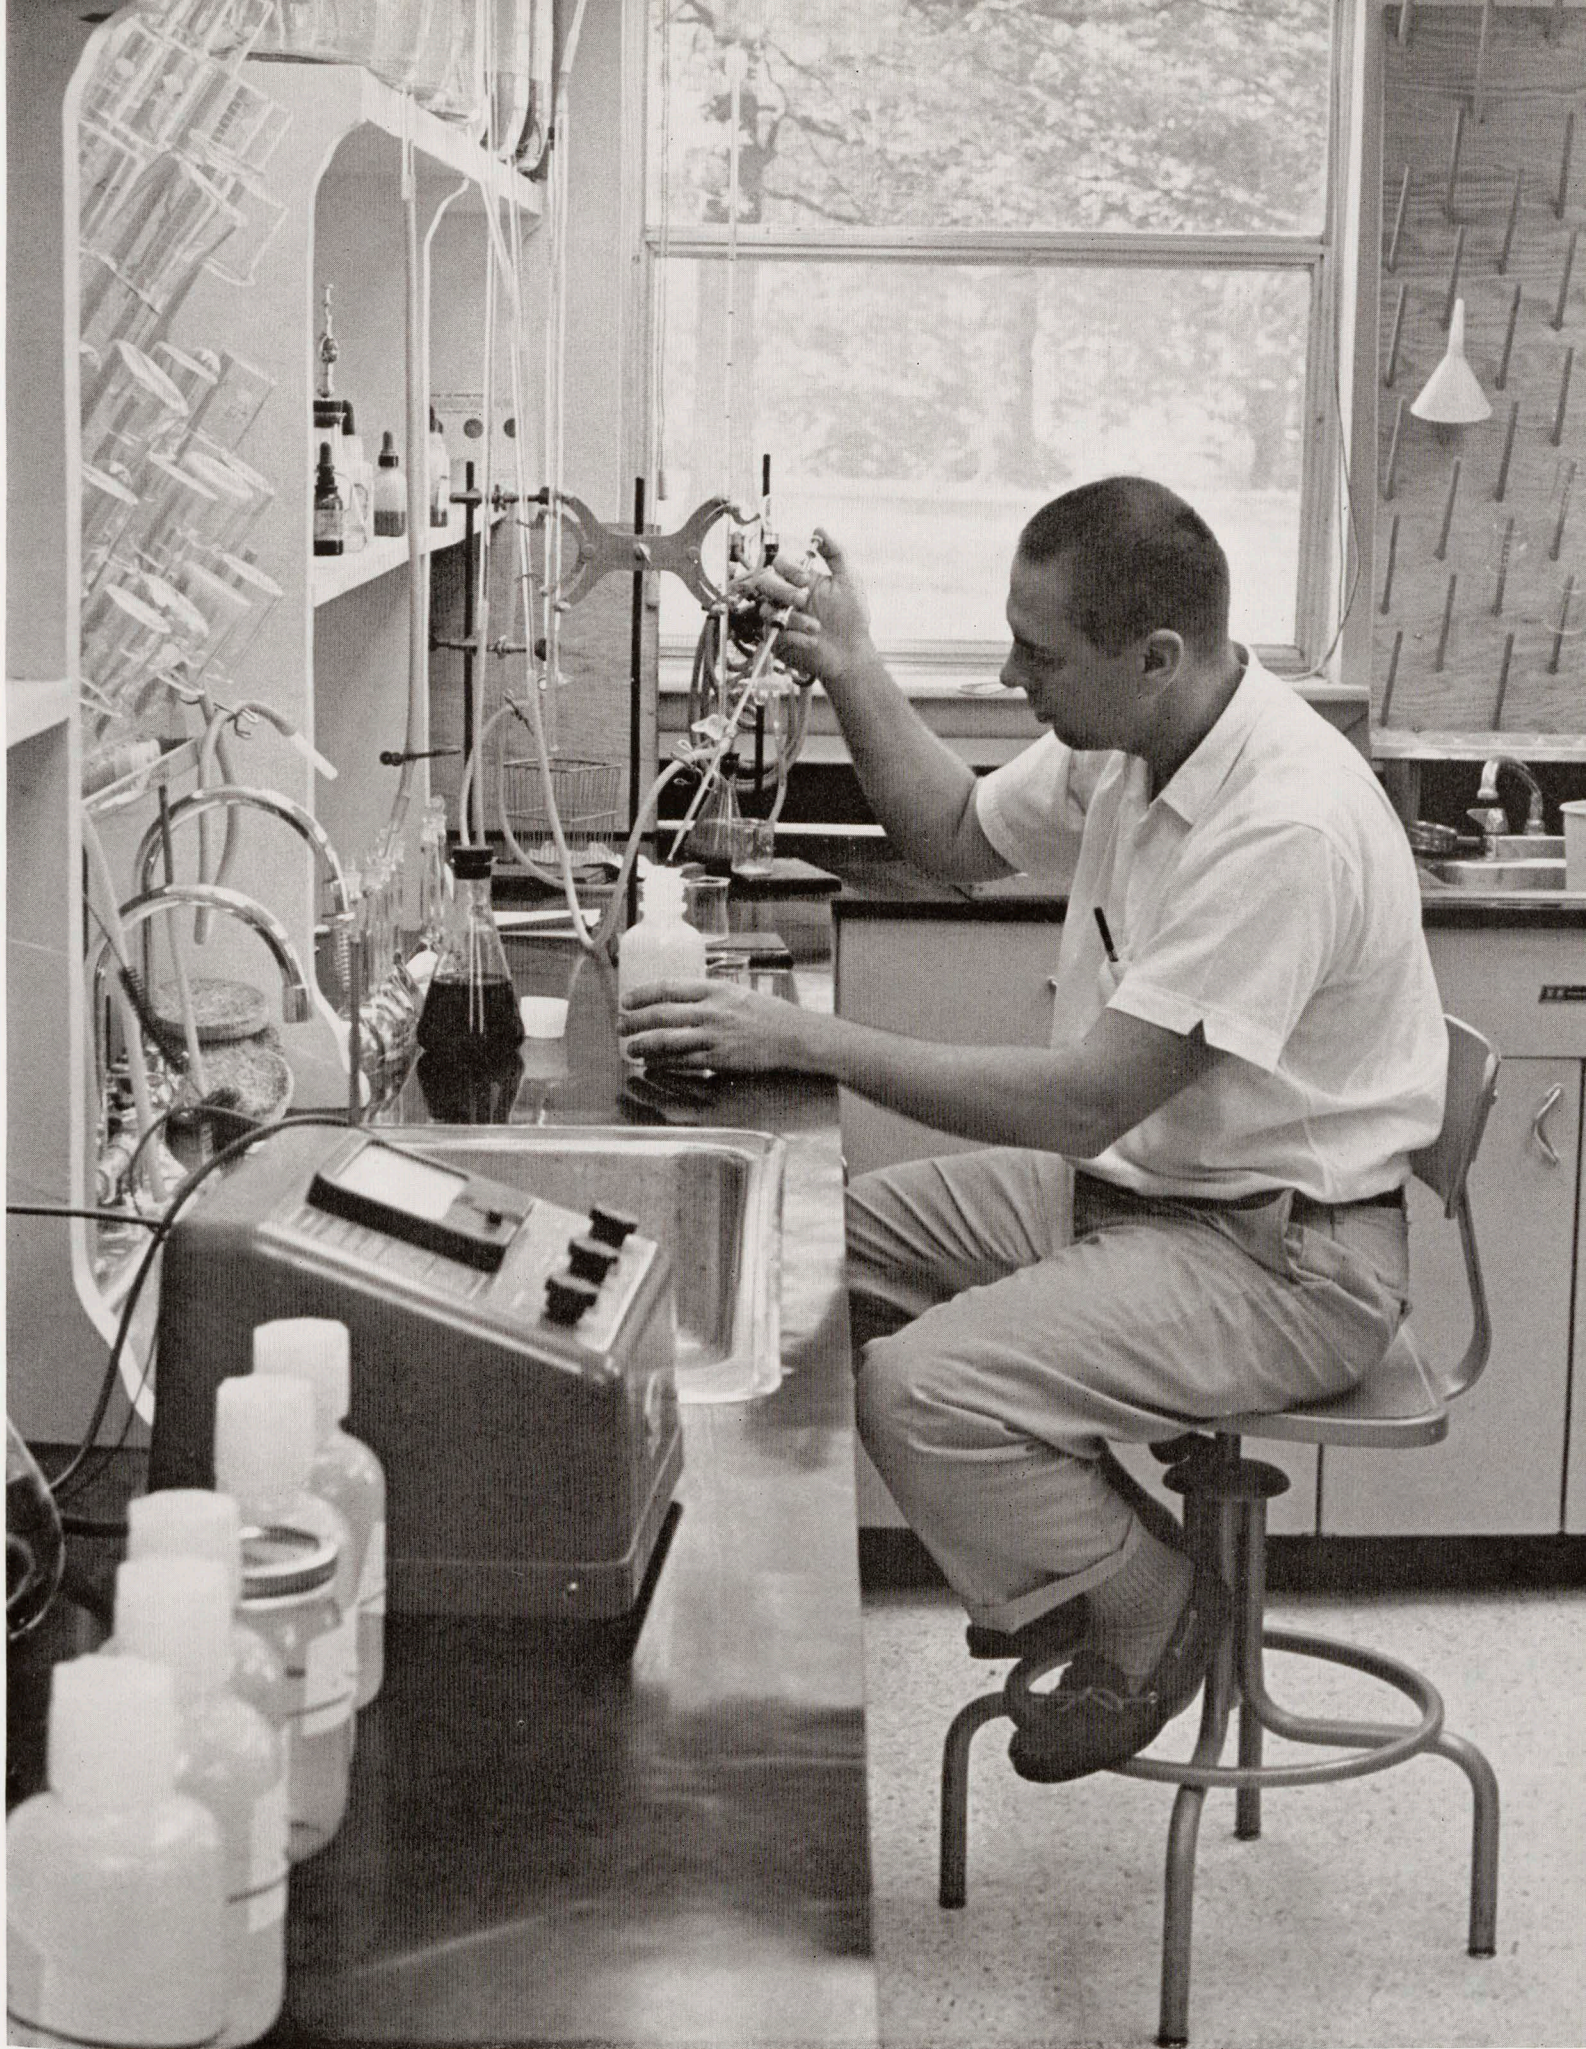

The curriculum of the College includes basic training in the sciences and humanities, as well as in technical agriculture and home economics. Those enrolled in agriculture may choose any one of five plans to best satisfy their interests and goals. Students in home economics may enroll in either the foundation program with its system of electives, or the teacher-education curriculum. Through an agreement with the College of Veterinary Medicine of Oklahoma State University, residents of Arkansas may complete training in veterinary medicine at this school without paying out-of-state tuition.

Gerald T. Hudson serves as dean of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics and reports directly to the head of the Division of Agriculture. In line with its continual efforts to keep up with the latest advances in experimentation and research, the Division dedicated the completed Animal Science Center this fall.

Accounting is one of the departments in the College of Business in which practical work is part of the student's curriculum.

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

The College of Business Administration offers specialized courses in several fields of business and incorporates two research bureaus and the Department of Economics which operates under the general rules of the College of Arts and Sciences. Recognizing the purpose of the University as a whole, the college requires its students to elect subjects outside the professional business area to give them a more liberal education.

The Bureau of Business and Economic Research, whose facilities are available to faculty and graduate students, seeks to discover methods of increasing the incomes of the people of Arkansas and improve the teaching effectiveness of the College. Equally important to the College is its educational and fact-finding arm — the Industrial Research and Extension Center. Set up in 1955, the Center is concerned with Arkansas' industrial development and business efficiency.

Business majors are particularly interested in student activities in their field. All students in the college are members of the Commerce Guild, and they give much attention to their annual Commerce Day celebration. The Guild also publishes a magazine called the Guild Ticker which features the accomplishments and activities of the entire College.

PAUL W. MILAM

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

The College of Education is actively involved in preparing teachers and administrators, and in improving education in general. The college maintains a Teacher Placement Bureau and co-operates with officials in filling vacancies with well-qualified teachers. A Committee on Teacher Education, composed of representatives from the Colleges of Agriculture and Home Economics, Arts and Sciences, Business Administration, and Education, continually studies the total program of teacher education and makes recommendations for its improvement.

The student teaching program has developed extensively, and the number of student teachers reached a peak this semester. By meeting specific requirements, students from other colleges on campus may participate in this program. The University Elementary School, in Peabody Hall, is operated by the College to provide facilities for directed student teaching and observation on the elementary level. Students in the secondary field are sent to schools in Fayetteville and surrounding areas to do their practice teaching.

The College of Education is directed by Henry H. Kronenberg, and its program is approved by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education. Courses are available for in-service teachers, and the college co-operates with the Graduate School in offering advanced work leading to the degrees of Master of Education and Doctor of Education.

Knowing how to address a computer can be rather frustrating. Computer programing is now taught to sophomore and junior engineers.

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

The opening of the new Science and Engineering building this fall is material proof of the expansion and development of the College of Engineering. The demand for engineers still exceeds the supply, and graduates of the University are annually given the rush by personnel directors representing major engineering firms.

In addition to its regular program of study, the college has established a "Three-Two" cooperative plan to provide a five-year combined course. The student may pursue a three-year liberal arts program at Ouachita Baptist College, the College of the Ozarks, Harding College, or Centenary College of Louisiana and then specialize for two years at the University. Upon completion of this program, the student is awarded the Bachelor of Arts from one of the co-operating colleges and a Bachelor of Science in Engineering from the University of Arkansas.

The College of Engineering, supervised by George F. Branigan, also offers additional options and activities. Engineers may arrange flight training with the Fayetteville Flying Service and annually celebrate Engineering Week in March. Displays of student projects are shown throughout the Engineering buildings, and a St. Pat and St. Patricia are elected. This year's winners, selected at the rally, were Vic Jacuzzi, of Little Rock, and Pat Yarrington, a freshman from Tulsa, Oklahoma.

GRADUATE SCHOOL

VIRGIL W. ADKISSON
Dean of Graduate School

The Graduate School, headed by Virgil W. Adkisson, includes a complex of divisions and activities. Focused on the Fayetteville campus, the school has centers at Little Rock and Fort Smith, and offers limited credit through facilities of three Arkansas colleges. Graduate assistantships are available for qualified students in numerous fields, and the school participates in the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, the National Defense Education Act program, the National Science Foundation — all of which offer fellowships.

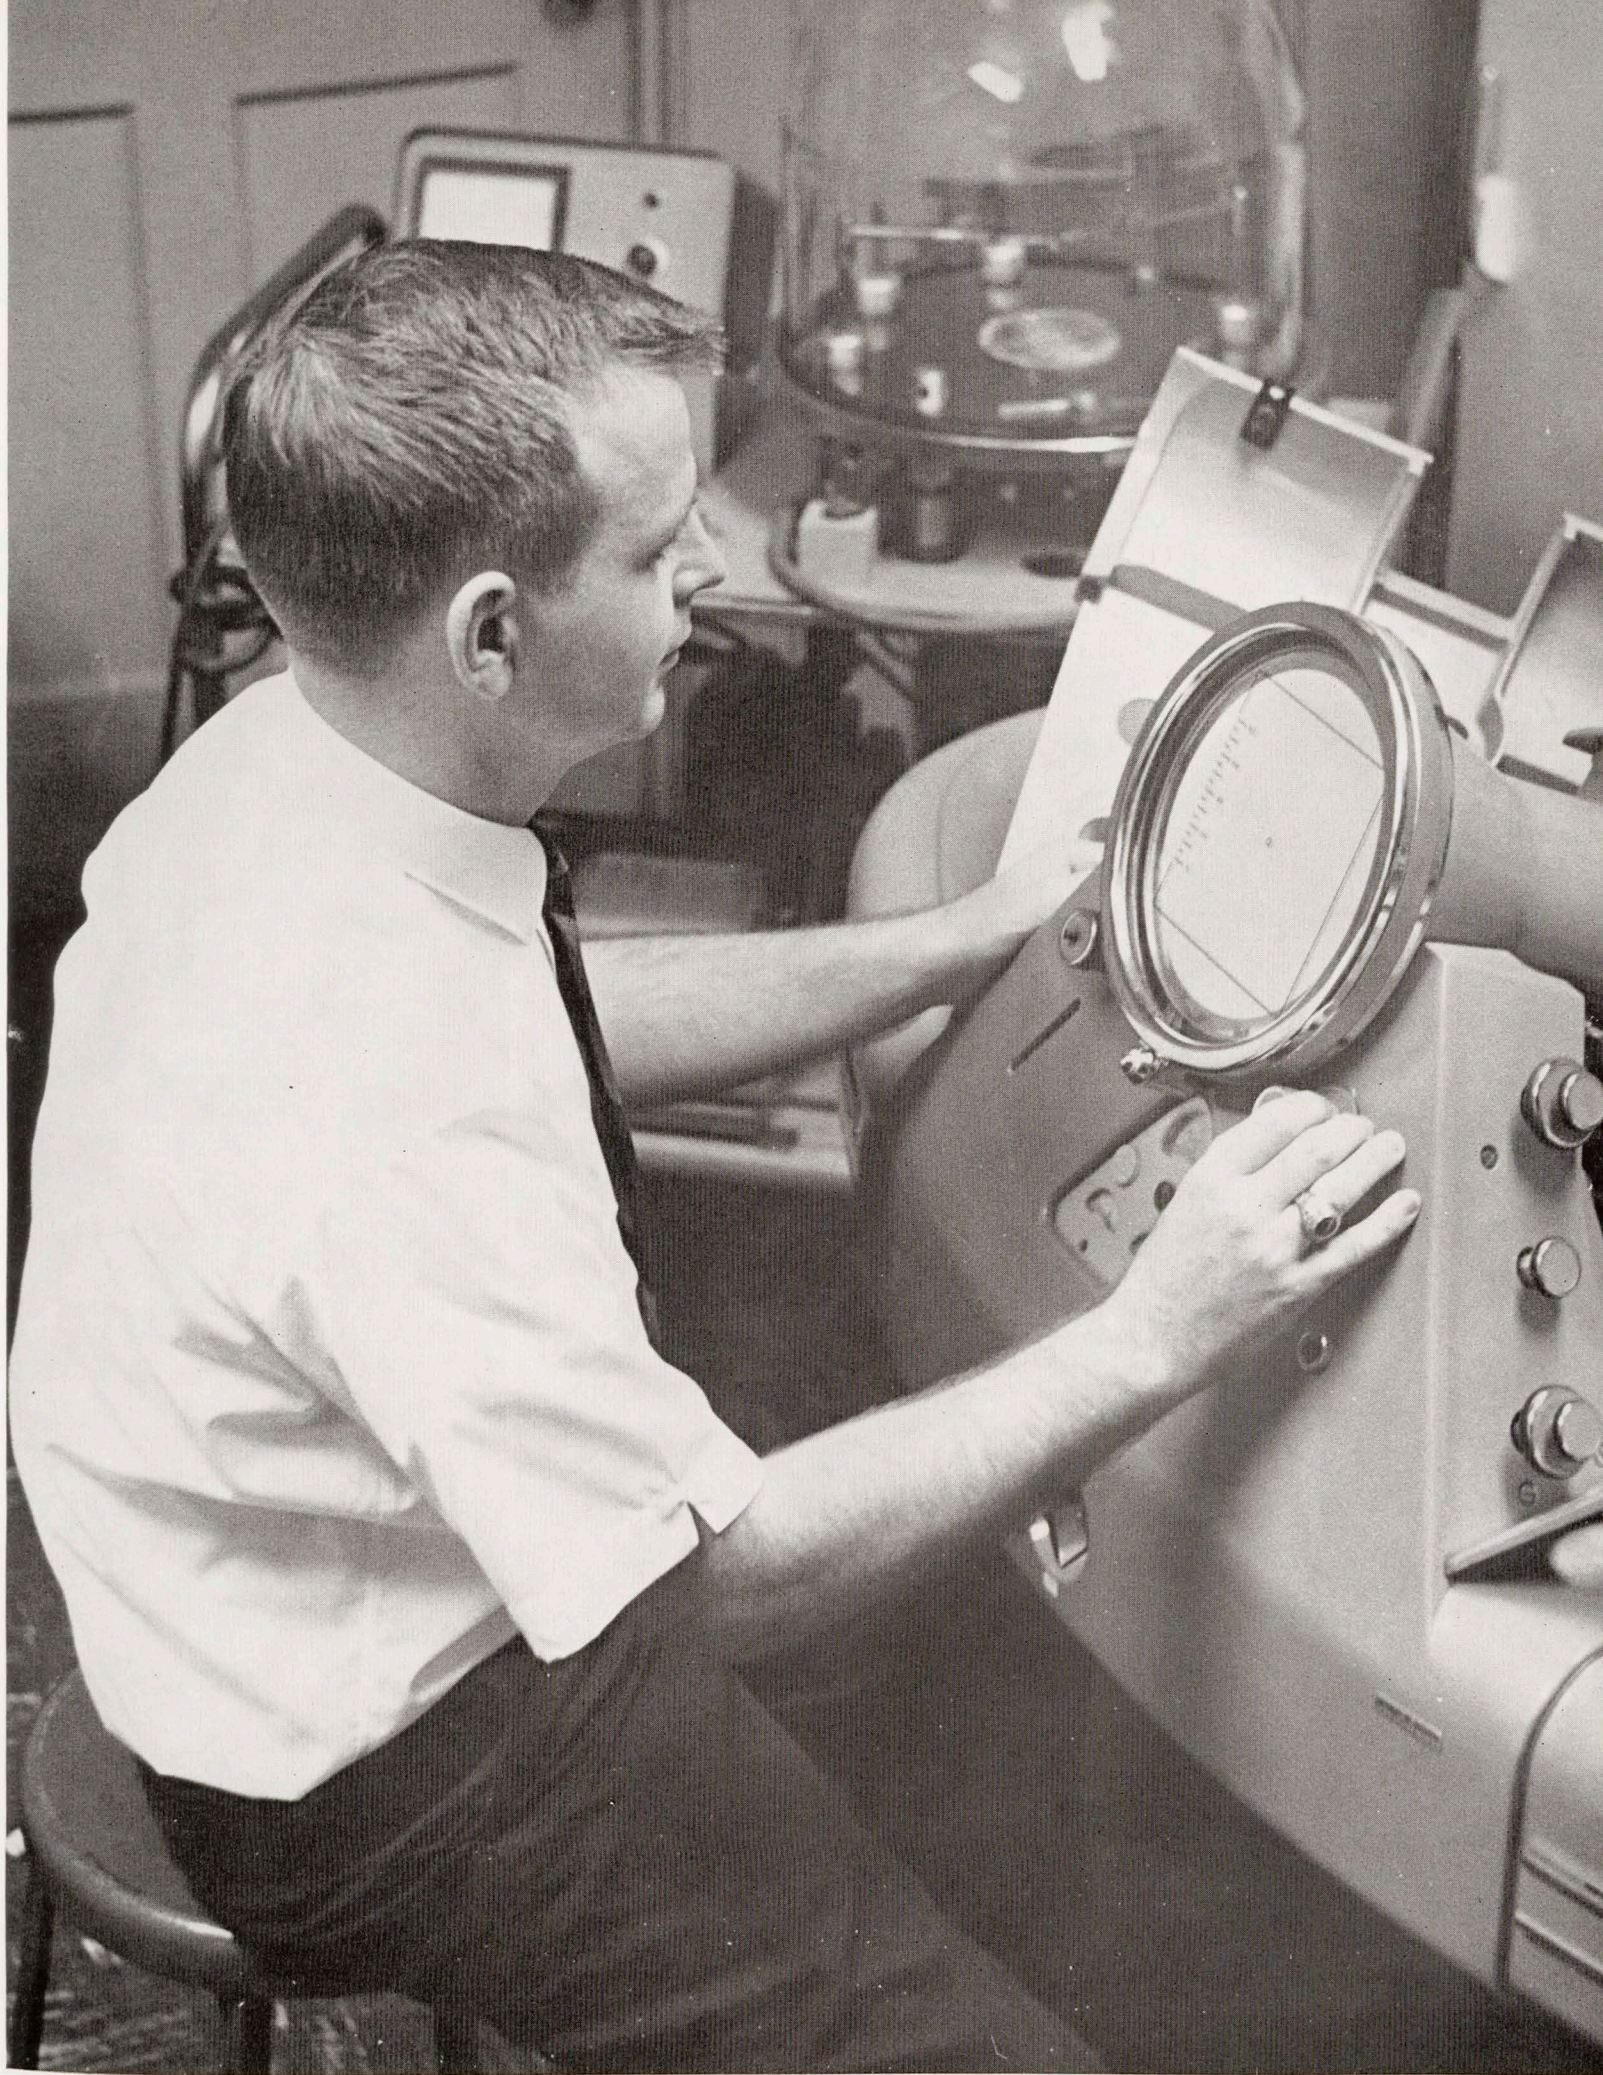

Students in the Graduate School may pursue work leading to any one of sixteen advanced degrees. Their work is guided and evaluated by a major professor or a committee selected from the graduate faculty, and they must maintain a high scholastic average.

Research is an integral part of the graduate program, and the University had received national recognition for its research in many fields. This activity is well-balanced with respect to the diverse areas it covers and is completely integrated with the instructional program. The University Committee on Research facilitates interdivisional cooperation in the research activity, and the Dean of the Graduate School serves as its chairman and as Research Coordinator.

GRADUATE COUNCIL: W. B. Stiles, O. T. Stallcup, T. B. Jefferson, R. F. Kruh, V. W. Adkisson, C. E. Duffey, J. Schmid,

SCHOOL OF LAW

The School of Law, a center of controversy in the Legislature this winter, is keyed toward preparing students to practice common law jurisdictions in Arkansas or to seek positions in government or private business. The curriculum is designed to give students an understanding of the law in its relationship to other agencies of social control, and Arkansas decisions and statutes are frequently cited in the substantive law courses. Arkansas codes of civil and criminal procedure receive special attention in the procedural courses.

Students in law school develop their professional ability and interests through various features of the school. A practice court for third-year students is conducted so that experience may be gained in the trial jury cases. The Student Bar Association brings judges, lawyers, and lecturers to the school for convocations and similar meetings. In addition, it provides the worthwhile social activity for which the Law School is noted.

Directed by Ralph C. Barnhart, the School of Law works with the Arkansas Bar Association in a program of continuing legal education to keep practicing lawyers abreast on new developments in law. This program includes legal institutes and short courses under the direction of the law faculty. Currently, the school is striving to make legal research an integral part of its program because of the increasing concern with the application of knowledge to the improvement of law.

The Schools of Medicine, Nursing, and Pharmacy form the complex of institutions called the University Medical Center. Located in Little Rock, the Medical Center also includes the T. H. Barton Institute of Medical Research which was completed and occupied four years ago. The Center, constructed at a cost of four million dollars, is noted for its excellent facilities and personnel and is regarded as one of the most modern institutions of its kind in the nation.

The School of Medicine is affiliated with the Veterans Administration Hospitals in Little Rock and North Little Rock under the nationwide Dean's Committee program. Beds in these hospitals are utilized for teaching purposes in addition to those in the University hospital. Classroom instruction is supplemented by actual experience with patients who come to the Medical Center for attention.

The University of Arkansas School of Nursing was established to help meet the pressing demand for larger numbers of skilled nurses and to fill a long-standing need in Arkansas for an educational program combining college-level instruction in academic subjects with professional education for nurses. The curriculum consists of a unified program of 36 months. The first two years are spent on the Fayetteville campus, and the second two years are spent in clinical and other practice fields. Most of the hospital experience is received at the University Medical Center. Graduate registered nurses may also enroll to complete the requirements for the degree of Bachelor of Science in Nursing. The program leading to this degree prepares nurse to function in first-level professional positions in hospitals and public-health agencies.

DIVISION OF STUDENT AFFAIRS

Under the supervision of the Dean of Students, this office of the University is composed of the Dean of Students, the Dean of Women, the Dean of Men, and the Coordinator of Student Aid.

The main function of the personnel is to coordinate the activities of the students with the activities of the University as a whole. They also keep track of the status and progress of the students and relaying the information to the students' parents and other interested persons. The Division supervises the Student Counseling Service, Infirmary, Food Services, Student Union, Book Store, Placement Office, Financial Aid, and Part-Time Employment Services. Along with these duties they work with all student organizations in terms of student welfare, morale, and discipline. Student government in its many phases works directly with the Division of Student Affairs.

Dr. D. Whitney Halladay, Dean of Students, graduated from Pomona College and received his Ed. D. degree from Columbia University. He participates actively in Fayetteville as an Army Reserve Lt. Colonel.

Directly assisting Dean Halladay is Miss Jacqueline Sterner, Dean of Women. Dean Sterner directs and coordinates all phases of the co-ed campus activity. She is a native of Indiana and received her B.A. and M.S. degrees from Indiana University. She came to the University from Texas Tech where she served as Assistant Dean of Women. Dr. Sterner has been nationally prominent in guidance and counseling work with women students at several colleges and universities.

Assisting Dr. Sterner is Dean Grace Vineyard, Assistant Dean of Women. Dean Vineyard works with all phases of the program, but concentrates mainly on freshmen. George Yourick, Dean of Men, is concerned directly with the residence hall and student counseling programs. He is also the coordinator of religious affairs. Dean Yourick came to the University this year from the University of California at Berkeley where he was Assistant Dean of Students. His degrees are from the University of New Mexico. Frank C. Michel, Assistant Dean of Men, is concerned directly with fraternities and international students. He received his degree from Washington State University.

GRADUATE INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY

WILLIAM B. STILES
Director

Well equipped laboratories are available at the Graduate Institute of Technology in Little Rock. These facilities are being constantly increased and are used for research and for projects arising from the individual interests of the Institute's faculty.

The overall objectives of the Institute are, first, to provide an opportunity for graduates in science and engineering, including those currently employed, to continue their studies to be able to qualify for advanced degrees in the fields of science and technology, and, second, to engage in advanced research so as to expand the field of scientific knowledge.

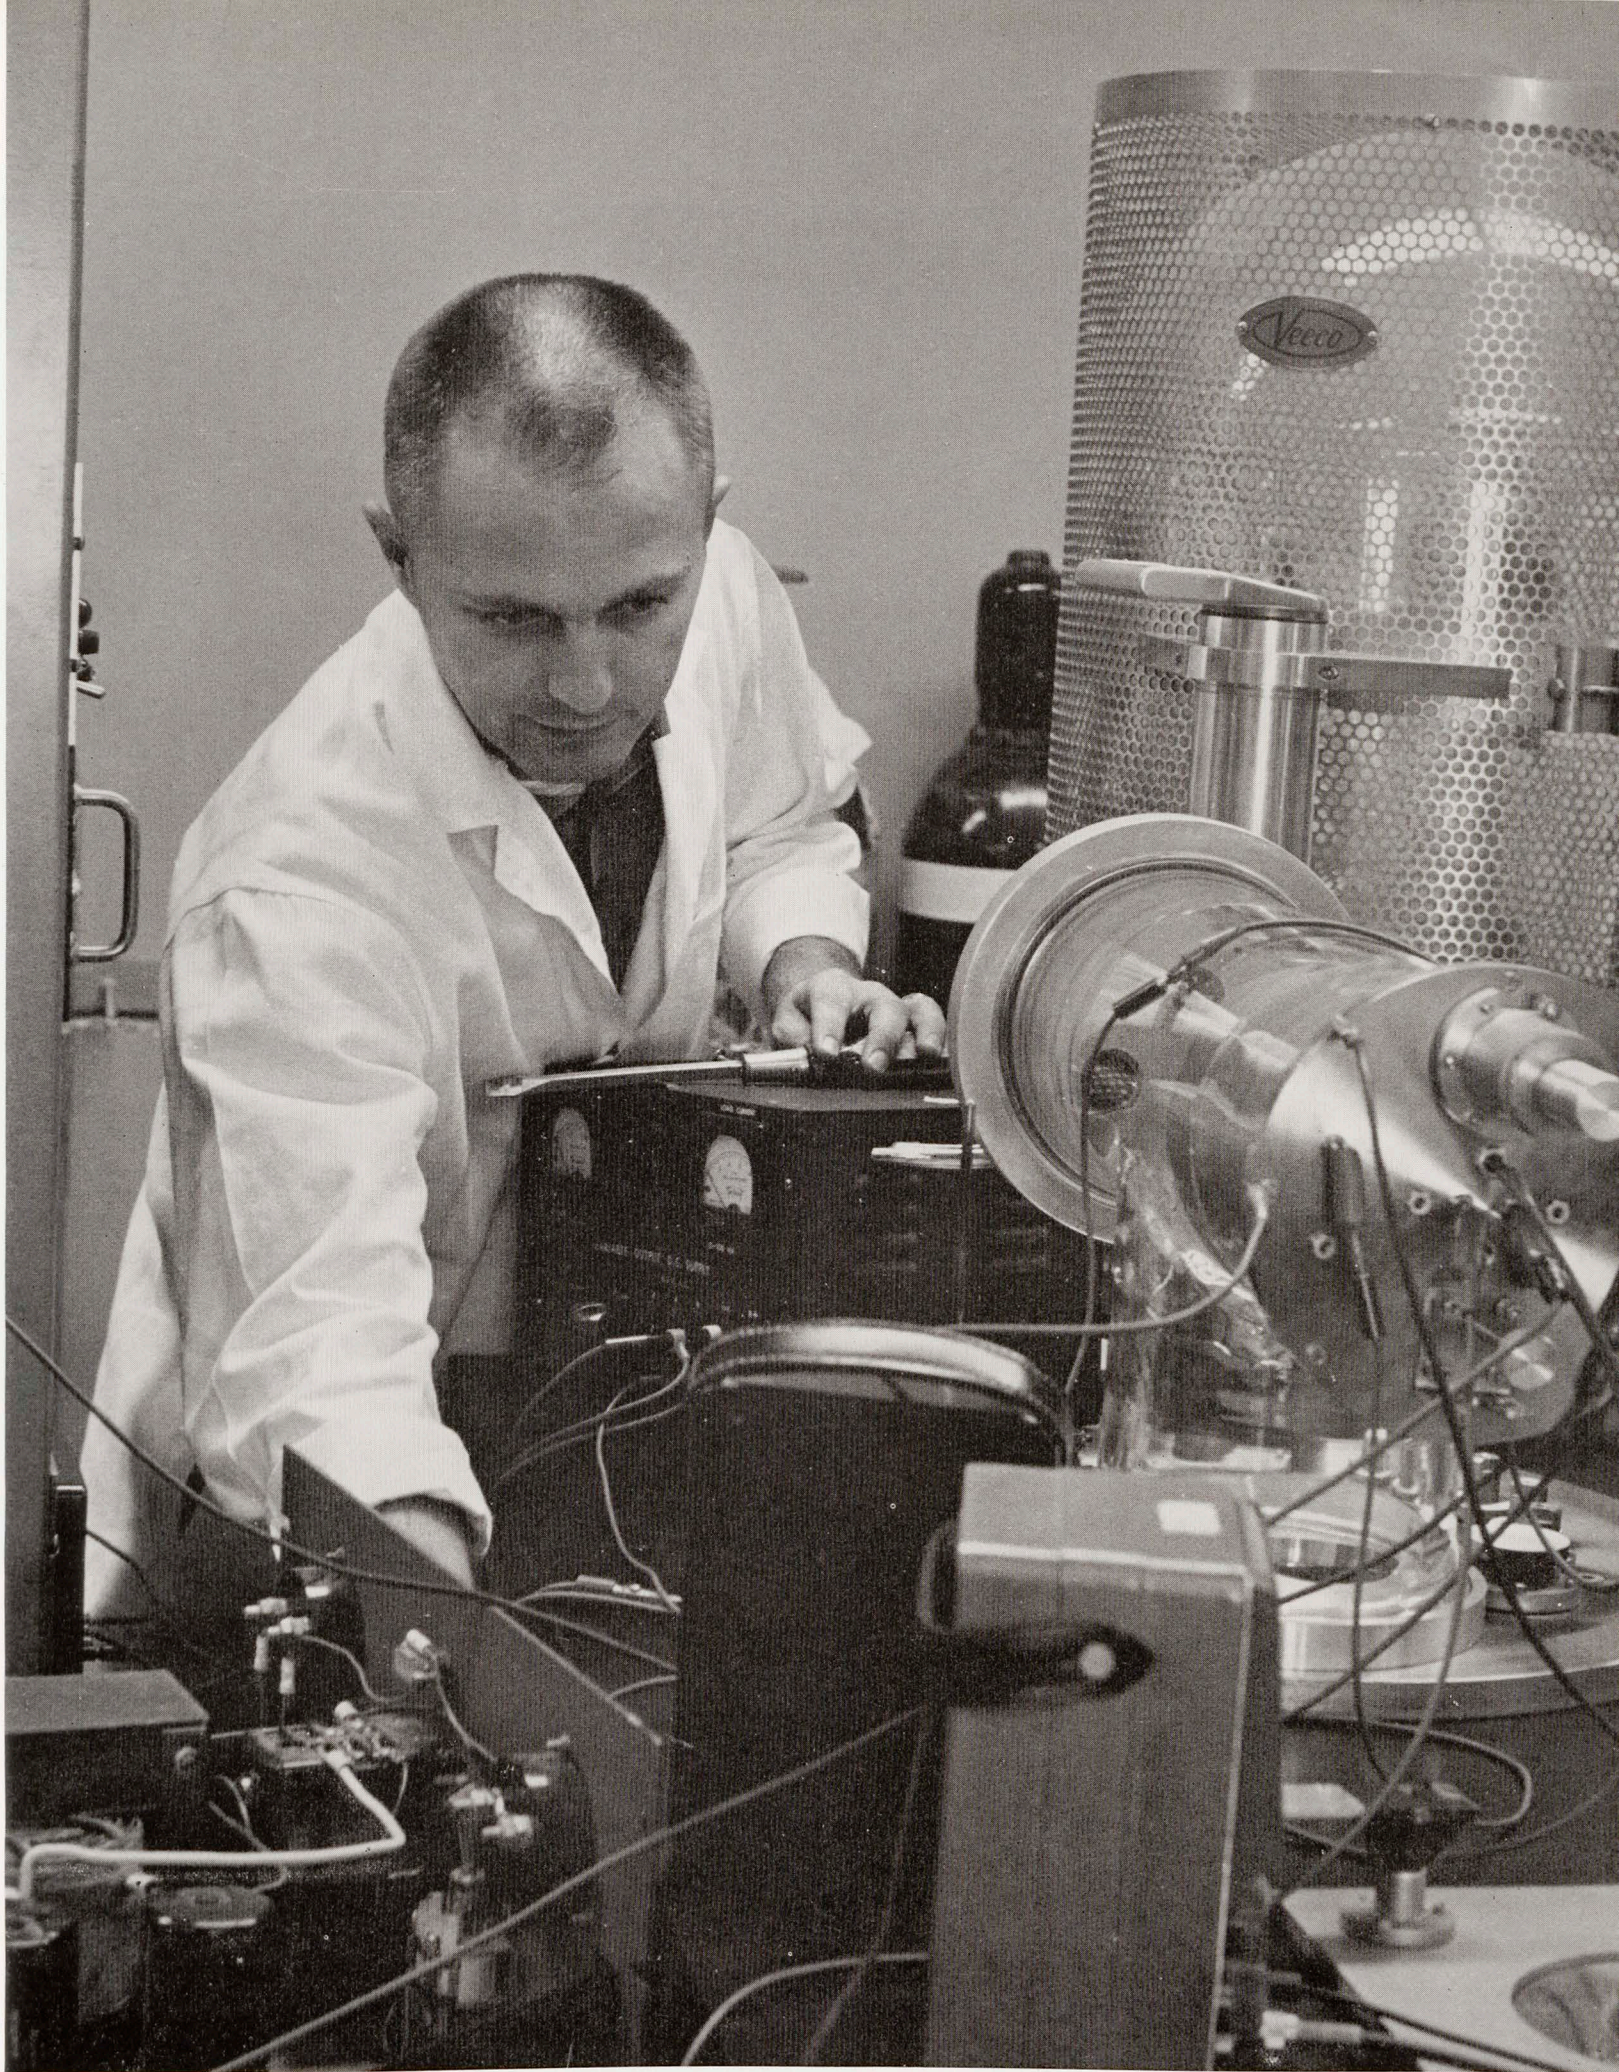

During employment as well as on full time, facilities for studies after graduation have become of growing importance to the State of Arkansas. Such facilities must be of high quality and in useful fields. They also must be readily accessible to the industrial centers in which most technicians are employed. The availability of such facilities is seriously considered by major industrial concerns in selecting new plant locations.

The Arkansas Industrial Development Commission, recognizing these facts, recommended to the Trustees of the University of Arkansas and to the Arkansas State Legislature that facilities for graduate study and research be created, and located in Little Rock, so as to be readily available to the major industrial centers of the State.

A graduate from the University of Arkansas or from an accredited school requiring substantially the same under-graduate program as is required by the University, may be admitted to full graduate standing if his grades are well above the average required for the Bachelor's degree.

THE UNIVERSITY THEATRE

SOUTHWEST THEATRE CONFERENCE

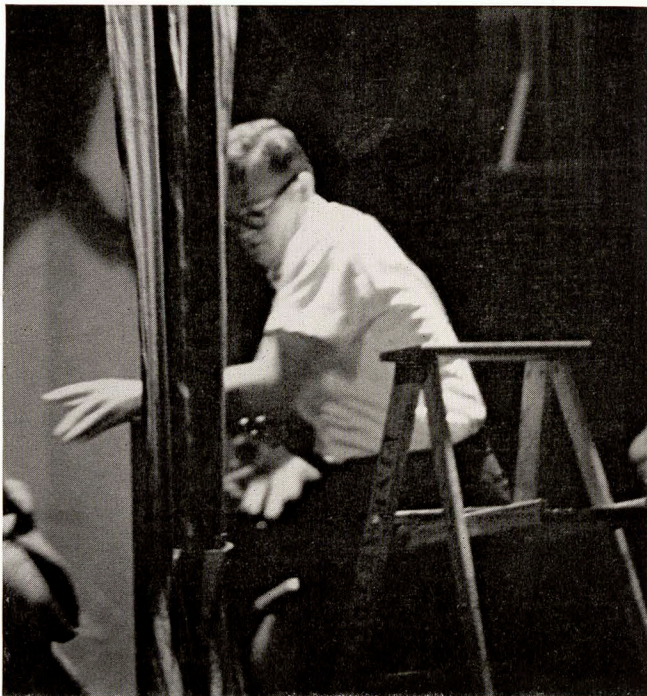

This fall the University Theatre hosted the Southwest Theatre Conference.

Dr. Preston Magruder, technical director for the theatre and this year's president of the conference, brought three guest speakers to the campus for the meeting.

Howard Bay, the designer for MUSIC MAN, Abe Feder, lighting designer of CAMELOT, and Harold Clurman, managing director of the Lincoln Theatre Center in New York, talked with students and conference delegates about their fields.

Delegates to the Southwestern Theatre Conference attended meetings and productions in the Fine Arts Center Theatre auditorium.

Member of production crew prepares a set for opening night.

Mary Fran Marsh, a member of the SERVANT OF TWO MASTERS cast, applies eye make-up for a final rehearsal.

"Mio!" "Mia!" Truffaldino and Smeraldina argue over one of the master's letters.

THE SERVANT OF TWO MASTERS

The University Theatre opened its '64-'65 season with an original translation by Norman DeMarco and Carlo Goldoni's THE SERVANT OF TWO MASTERS.

This 17th Century Italian Comedy met with attentive response during its six day run at the University, and as the UofA's contribution to the Southwest Theatre Conference.

The play, directed by Professor DeMarco, made use of a platform stage which allowed actors to be seen by the audience during brief offstage breaks. Costumes by Mary Davis and the setting by Preston Magruder were bright and lively in the tradition of the Italian Farce. Mr. DeMarco inserted songs between scenes as intermetzos to the fast pace of the play.

The ladies discuss the relative merits of hospitality, retirement, and murder.

LADIES IN RETIREMENT

Cleveland Harrison introduced a well known mystery, LADIES IN RETIREMENT, to the University Theatre as the second play of the year.

LADIES IN RETIREMENT, famed for its suspense and mystery, proved that it was still capable of instilling audiences with the excitement of suspense.

The plot revolves around a young woman's effort to provide for her demented sisters. She will do anything to achieve this end, including murder. Her schemes are complicated by the appearance of a wayward and flippant nephew.

Hope is not lost. In the end, the young woman turns herself in for her crime and the nephew's selfish plans are foiled.

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING

Dr. George R. Kernodle directed MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING, the third play of the season.

Twenty-three people participated in the production. Each made his entrance in turn, lending to the evening an attitude of procession.

Don Creason, graduate technical assistant to the theatre, designed a forty foot wide Renaissance facade for Dr. Kernodle and filled in the orchestra pit to bring the actors closer to the audience. Using three large arches and two smaller ones, the set allowed for fluid changes from scene to scene and provided ample opportunity for framing of smaller scenes as well as space for all twenty-three actors at the same time.

The play was written by William Shakespeare.

RING AROUND THE MOON

Fantasy characterized the fourth play, RING AROUND THE MOON.

The play, directed by Norman DeMarco, was written by Jean Anouille and translated by Christopher Fry.

It involves a young waif who is summoned to the House of Aristocracy and, during the course of her evening's visit, is turned into a princess by marrying the rich young man, but not before she has suffered the indignities of the poor. It delightfully proves once again that love is blind and that money means nothing by itself.

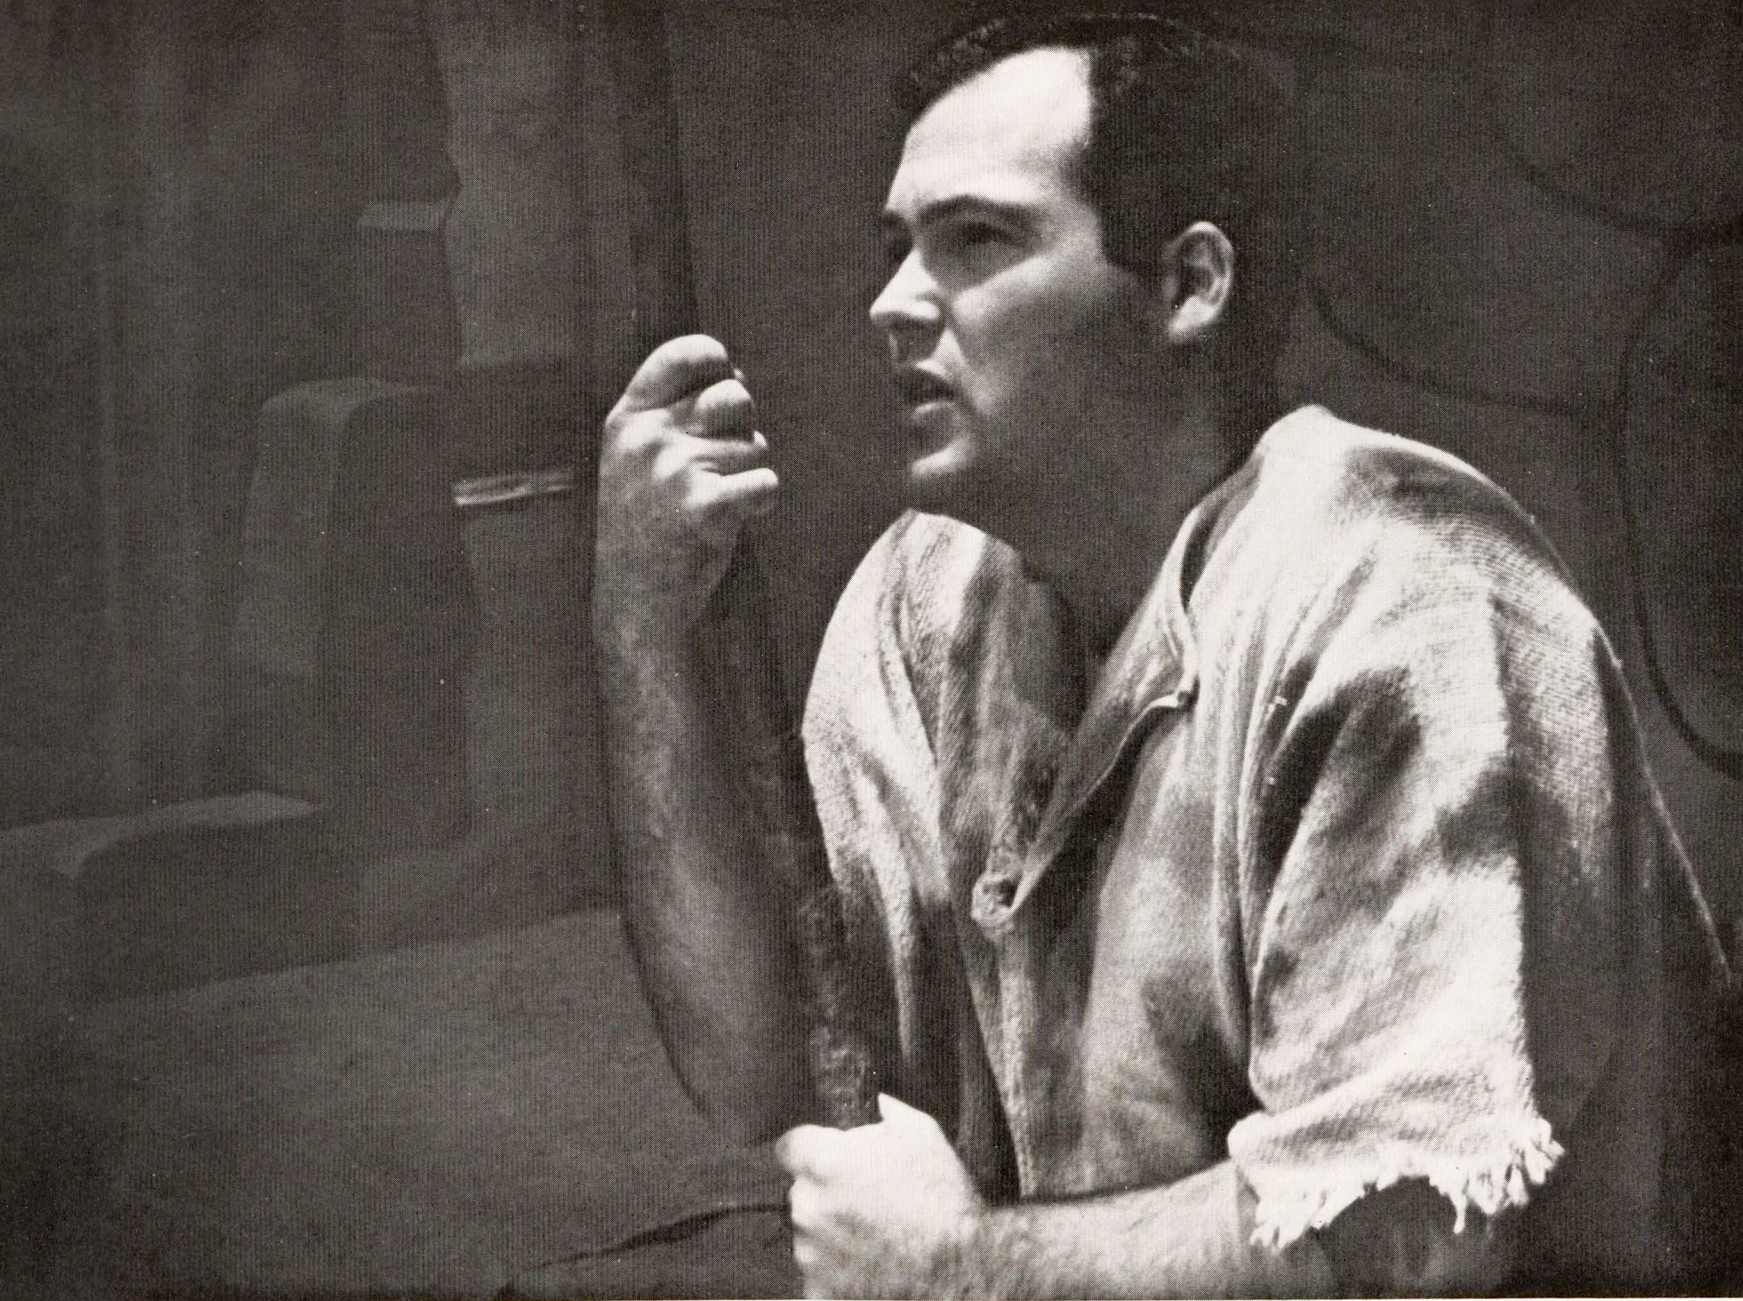

Don Creason enhanced the aura of the play's wealthy setting with his costume designs.

AMAH! AND THE NIGHT VISITORS added credence to the story of rebirth by arriving shortly before Easter.

On a double bill with THE PRODIGAL SON, these two operas composed this year's Opera Workshop production. The workshop, under the direction of Kenneth Ballinger, produces one opera a year, in conjunction with the theatre department, in addition to its other activities.

The sets for the two operas and the chorus was the responsibility of Jim Fields, graduate student in music.

Members of the Uarkettes are officially greeted before their performance at the closing session of the State Legislature.

The Uarkettes, a fourteen member group selected from the Opera Workshop, have continued performing this year as an extra-curricular activity. The group is directed by Kenneth Ballenger of the University music department.

The highlights of the thirty performances this year include appearances at the closing session of the Arkansas Legislature, the Arkansas Farm Bureau Federation, the Arkansas-Oklahoma Livestock Exposition and as the final attraction of the Rogers Concert Series. Aside from a three-day tour of Arkansas high schools, the Uarkettes performed for conventions, banquets, industry company parties receiving numerous standing ovations, and made several television appearances.

During a regular rehearsal violinists intently follow their score as the orchestra begins work for the final concert of the season.

UNIVERSITY-FAYETTEVILLE SYMPHONY

The University-Fayetteville Symphony Orchestra reached a new excellence this year according to Dr. Max Pales, director.

Culminating its busy schedule of concerts and tours was the final concert given May 13 in connection with the University Chorus. The performance was part of a three-day Bach festival sponsored by the music department.

Featured as soloists this year were Josef Marx and Beatriz Philapil. Mr. Marx of New York was a featured oboe soloist. Miss Pilapil, pianist at the University, played Rachmaninoff's "Theme on a Variation" by Paganini.

This year's concert master was Robert Price, master candidate in music.

Dr. Max Pales, professor of music and director of the University-Fayetteville Symphony, prepares to conduct the orchestra in one of the many fine programs held during the year. The main concerts are held in the Fine Arts Concert Hall.

The Collegiate Singers appear on the program at one of the year's concerts. These presentations are given in the Fine Arts Concert Hall.

UNIVERSITY CHORUS AND COLLEGIATE SINGERS

University Chorus and Collegiate Singers, directed by Richard Brothers, appeared in two concerts this year. The groups appeared jointly in a Christmas Concert and in the May Bach Festival. The University Chorus, directed by graduate assistants Douglas Morris and Jim Fields, is open to all students who wish to enroll for credit and singing experience. Students must have more musical experience and audition for place in the Collegiate Singers. The combined number of the two groups has risen this year to a 248 member chorus.

Members of the University Chorus practice diligently as Jim Fields, graduate assistant in the music department, directs.

SCHOLA CANTORUM

The famous Schola Cantorum, directed by Richard Brothers, this year continued its schedule of concerts and performances. Schola won international acclaim two years ago at the Guido d'Arezzo International Polyphonic Competition in Italy, and since then the thirty-six member chorus has maintained its high standard and excellence. It appeared last summer at the Musical Festival in Aix-en-Provence, France during a six weeks tour of Europe. This year the group conducted a state wide tour of high schools and civic organizations, performed in concerts with the University Chorus and Collegiate Singers, and participated in the Bach Festival sponsored by the department of music.

Richard Brothers directs the famed Schola Cantorum in regular practice session as they prepare for the spring Bach Festival.

HANDSHAKES AND SMILES

The Sigma Pis got at least one leapee here, but they seemed more interested in anybody else who might have come careening through the Student Union doors.

While waiting for bids to be extended, prospective pledges lean nervously on Student Union balcony railing. There is a confident person in every crowd.

The Greeks came back to Fayetteville early to water the grass, wax the floors, and try to make things appear cleaner than the dorms the rushees would be staying in for seven glorious days — Rush Week.

Change from year to year is not too evident, but this fall Alpha Tau Omega was replaced by Alpha Kappa Lambda, Alpha Chi Omega had a new selling point, and Delta Delta Delta had a half finished shell.

There weren't too many rushees, the skits were on the average just average, and the rooms were filled with smoke. But after discussions on complexions, taste, and high school records, the necessary decisions were made and a way of life was extended — The Greek Way.

THE GREEK WAY

Into the arms of their waiting brothers flew the new pledges. If they were real unlucky, they landed on the pledge trainer, who had a special place reserved for them.

From all indications it appears to be the Sigma Nu Relays — but without the girls. In addition, the mud must be dried up.

Each year entering freshmen are encouraged to attend a welcome to the University by officials and dignitary. Some are impressed.

WELCOME TO FAYETTEVILLE

Looking terrified, new freshman may not know there are elevators. Or he could be looking at Brough Commons.

Each year the number of entering freshmen breaks all past records and, in general, enrollment reaches new heights. Arkansas is a growing institution with signs of this growth evident everywhere on campus. Five hundred freshmen women moved into newly completed Hotz Hall, the Science and Engineering Center offered a twenty-five percent increase in the number of classrooms on campus, and the band found a new structure occupying the sight of its burnt out shell. Additions were made to Carlson Terrace, and, with a stroke of genius, the administration realized the need for a swimming pool.

Freshmen settled down to entrance exams while the upper classmen poured down beer and played. These were the new sights and old beginnings of another year at Arkansas.

The Razorbacks provided O.S.U. its first loss, and began what was supposed to be a slow year.

New freshmen girls, who don't know any better, get the snow job from "supercool" Sigma Chis (one with socks is from out-of-state).

Registration - Can We Overcome?

Helpful advisor tells girl to act fast to get in the 7:30 and Saturday classes where she stands a better chance of meeting all the really sharp fraternity members.

Registration, a hallowed old tradition at the U of A, carries on each year, with a marked resemblance to Hot Springs church bazaars.

Freshmen take orientation tests, not fully realizing that they have begun a long association with the sometimes bewildering IMB machines.

A CONTINUING TRADITION

Students were so eager to buy books this year that they organized and stood in line. The bookstore expressed its appreciation for such maturity by selling them books.

Intent on becoming real-life students, forms were filled out at every opportunity, even on dark stairs. For a brief moment, all thoughts were focused on the processes of education.

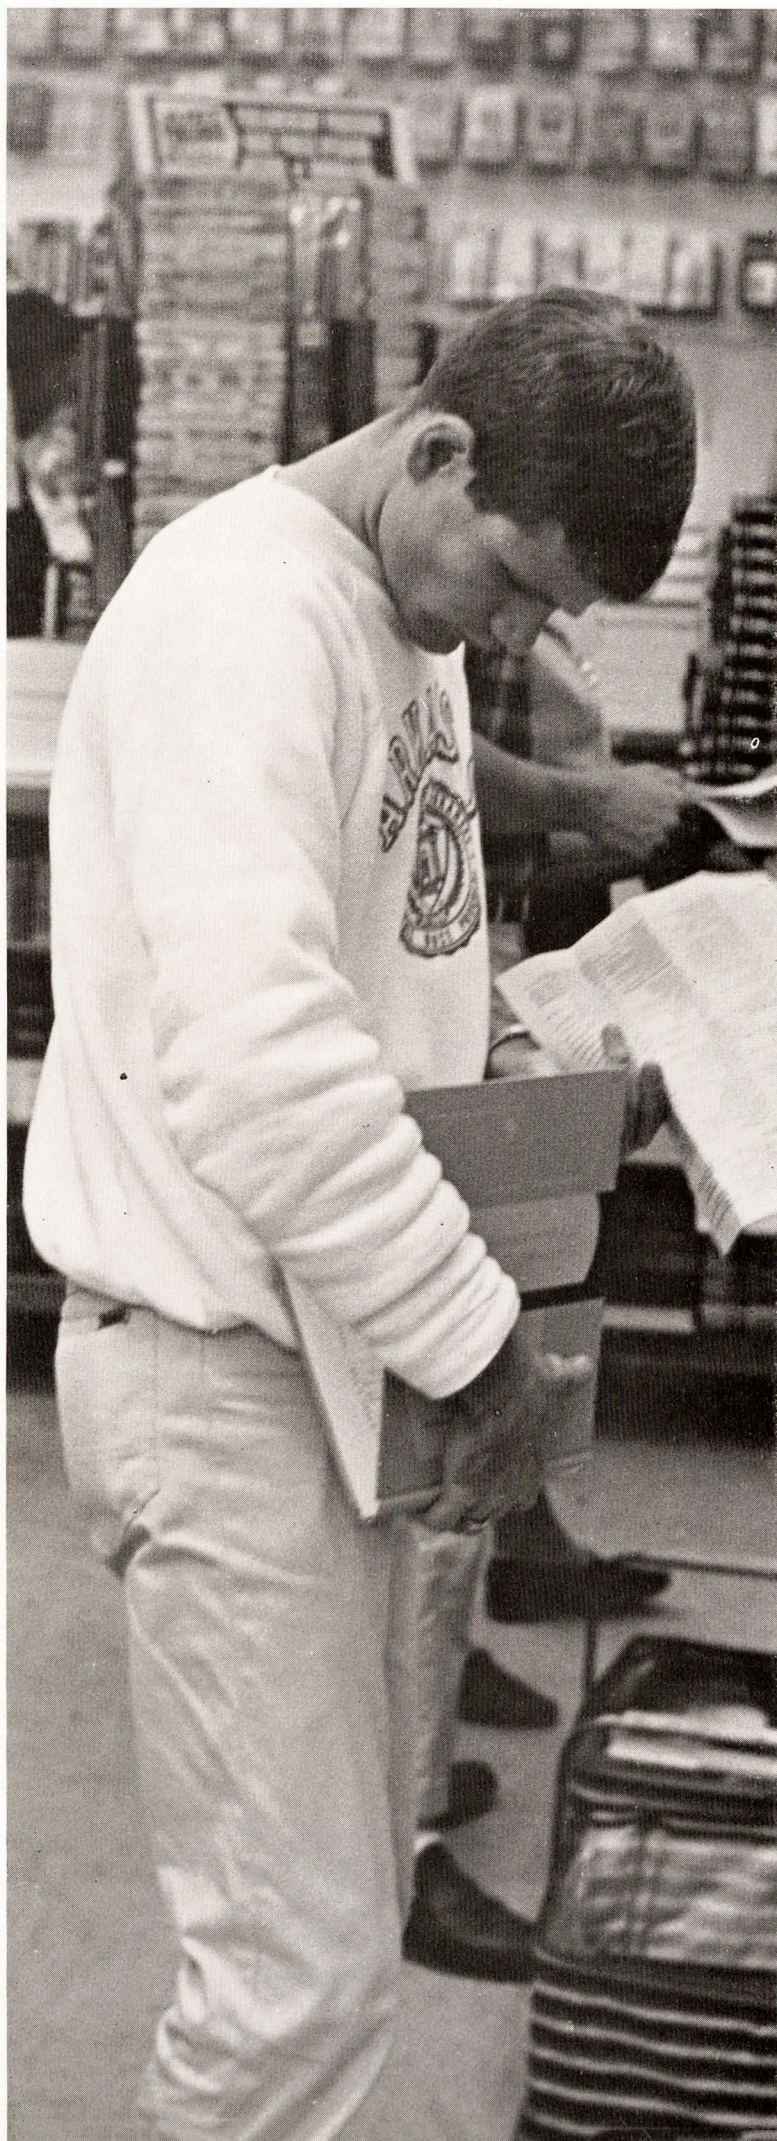

Workmen who dismantled and cleaned up afterward's didn't seem to have the hots for registration, but then who did?

Awed by luxurious Men's Gym, freshman Jane Bell is reassured by a strategically located Cardinal XX member.

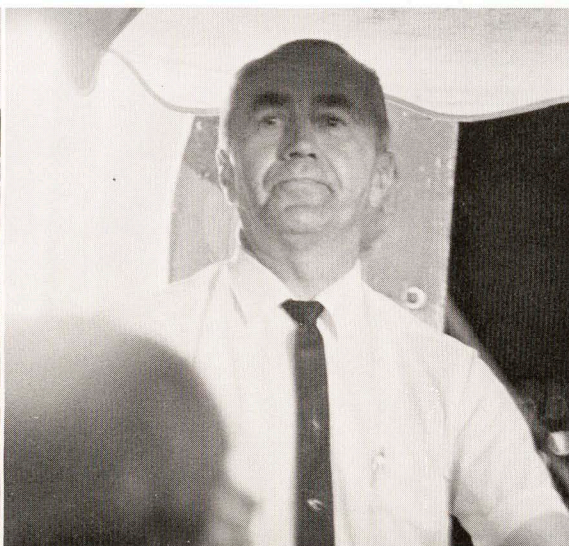

Checking the price of a required text, a student considers changing colleges.

As usual, fall enrollment broke the old record set the previous year. Over 7,429 students came to Fayetteville in the search for higher education. The largest freshman class ever totaled at least 2,500. For many of them, an added feature was a newly-begun program of summer orientation.

University Registrar Carter Short said that eight students were registered every minute during the three-day period. The end of a harried day came for most at the bookstore, where a semester's necessities were acquired.

The first football game of the year came at the end of registration week, and the year got underway for real with classes on Monday morning.

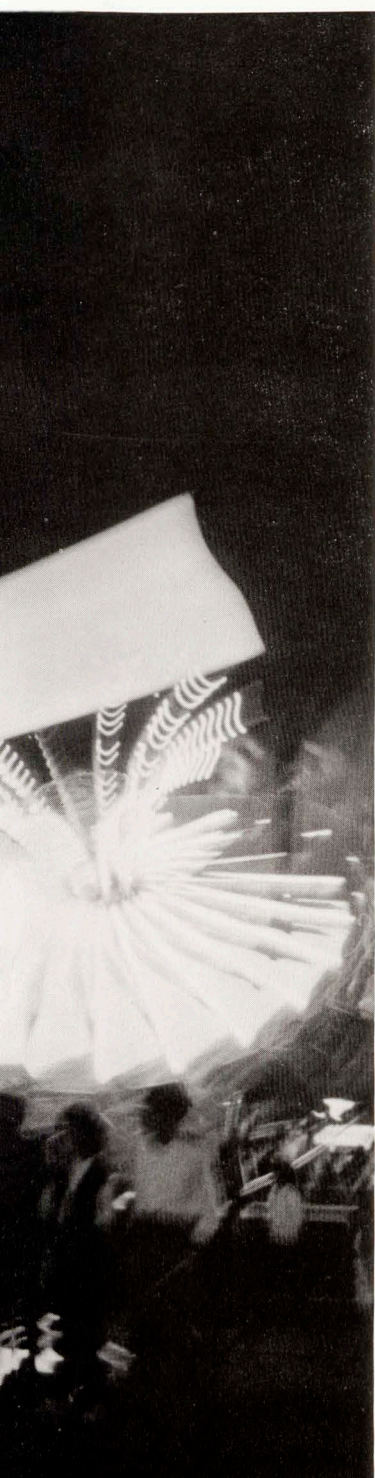

Although not sponsored by the University, barkers at the annual Washington County Fair will take student's money anyway.

FAYETTEVILLE WORLD'S FAIR

Entranced by the attractions at the local fair, students contemplate the good old days when the Gaebale festivities would allow them to have their own "attractions."

Competition is keen everywhere, and, in an attempt to keep students away from the N. Y. World's Fair, local citizens answer with this.

Razorback Day is an occasion when the University rushes high school seniors who are impressed if they see enough sharp college girls.

TWO DAYS IN ONE

Suave salesman basks in the knowledge that all those Razorback goodies will sell like mad once the crowd arrives.

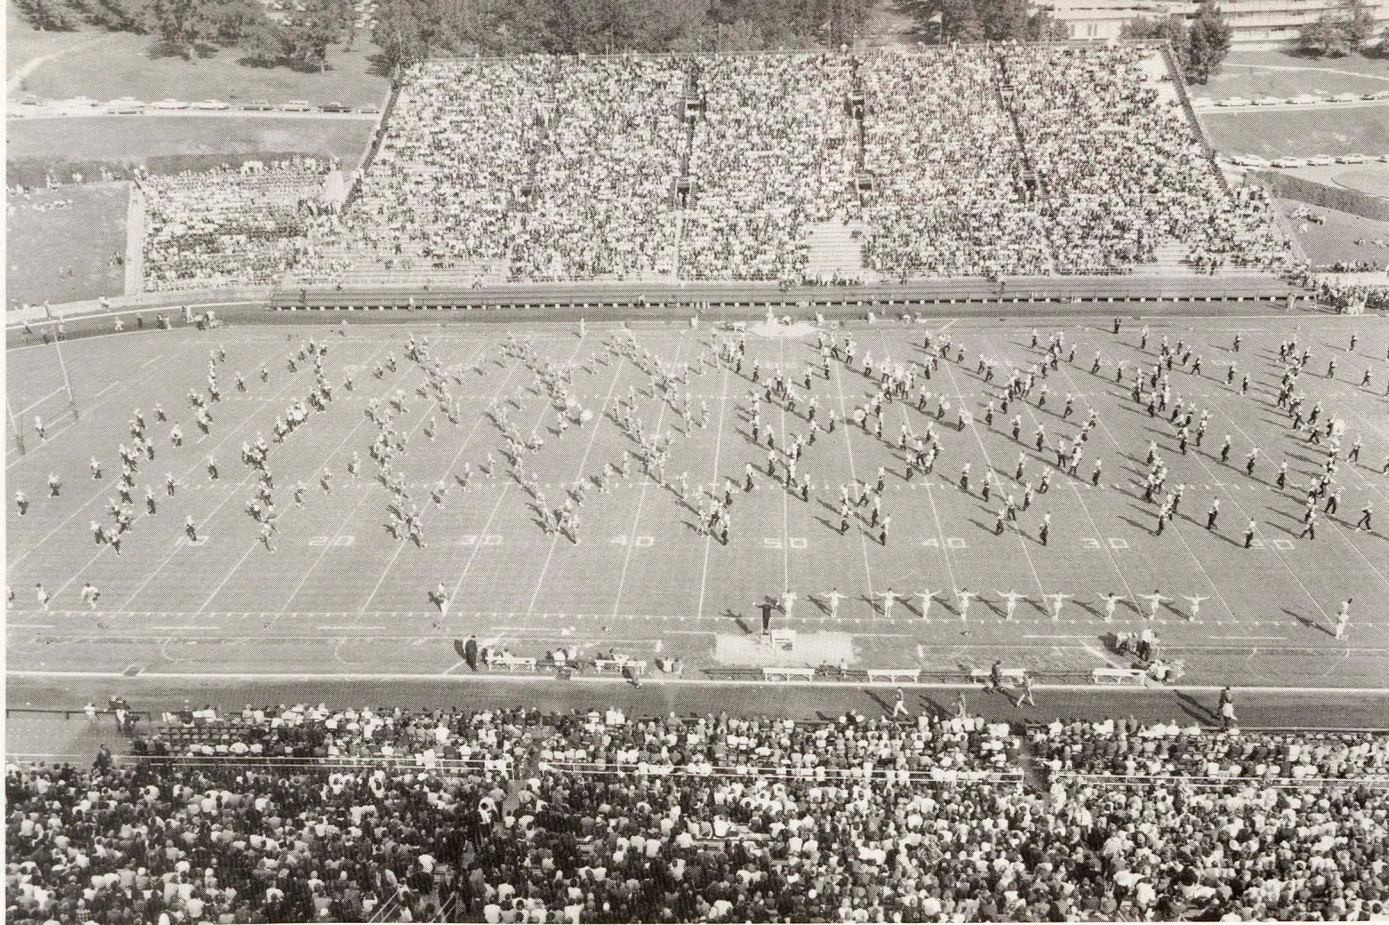

Any group on the University of Arkansas campus that desires to have a "day" can do so. All that is needed is a little publicity in the Traveler and a nod from the administration.

The weekend of the Tulsa game, two groups had their day. The band invited enough bands to fill the football field in Fayetteville. The bands came, filled up the football field, and played several marches. Band Day has become an annual event and is not too exciting.

In another attempt to do public relations work for the University, Blue Key played host to five hundred high school seniors at the second annual Razorback Day. Blue Key received help from Chimes, Mortar Board, and Cardinal XX in this effort.

The high school seniors big day at the University was climaxed by a Razorback win over Tulsa.

Band Day created a situation in which all those elegant sounds had to echo around several times before they came to rest somewhere.

High school seniors here for Razorback Day marvel at the architecture and each other during a fun-filled Fayetteville frolic.

Dr. Richard Worthington had to stand tall in order to direct a field full of musicians at the Band Day game against Tulsa.

The Young Democrats, unlike their rival club, had an active year. They made only one large slip by finishing last in the mock elections.

Giving blood is a noble deed, especially when one considers his reward will consist of two cookies and a glass of juice.

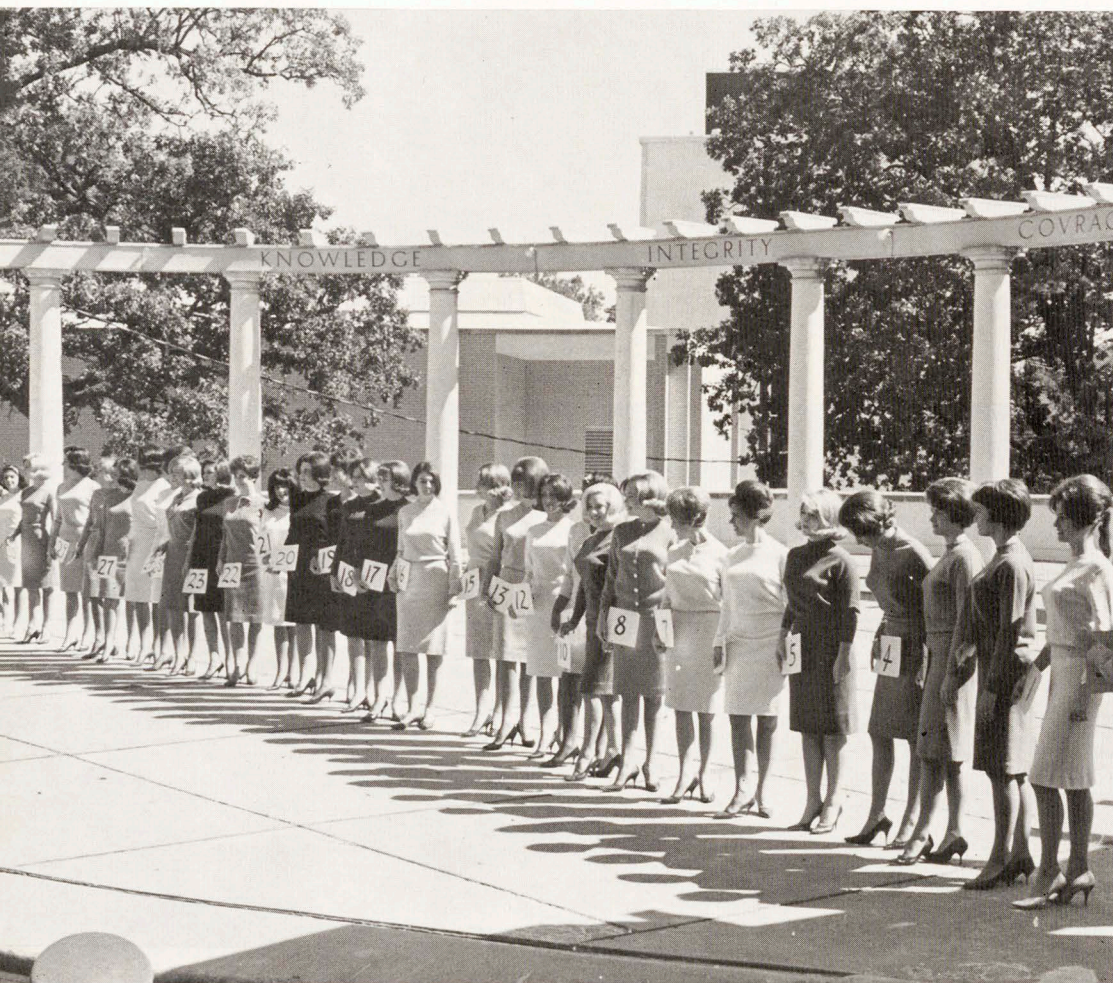

SMALL MOMENTS OF GLORY

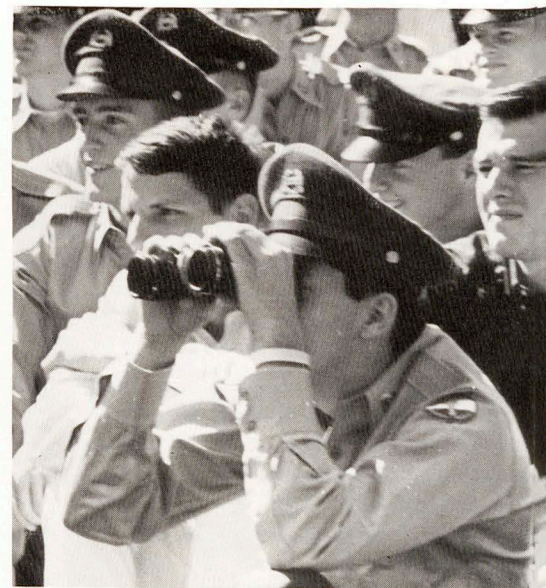

A candidate for Angel Flight is questioned by an Air Force committee. Many of the girls may have applied because the Traveler termed the organization an "Angel Fight."

Selecting sponsors is one of few times when ROTC people can hope to generate any degree of sustained enthusiasm.

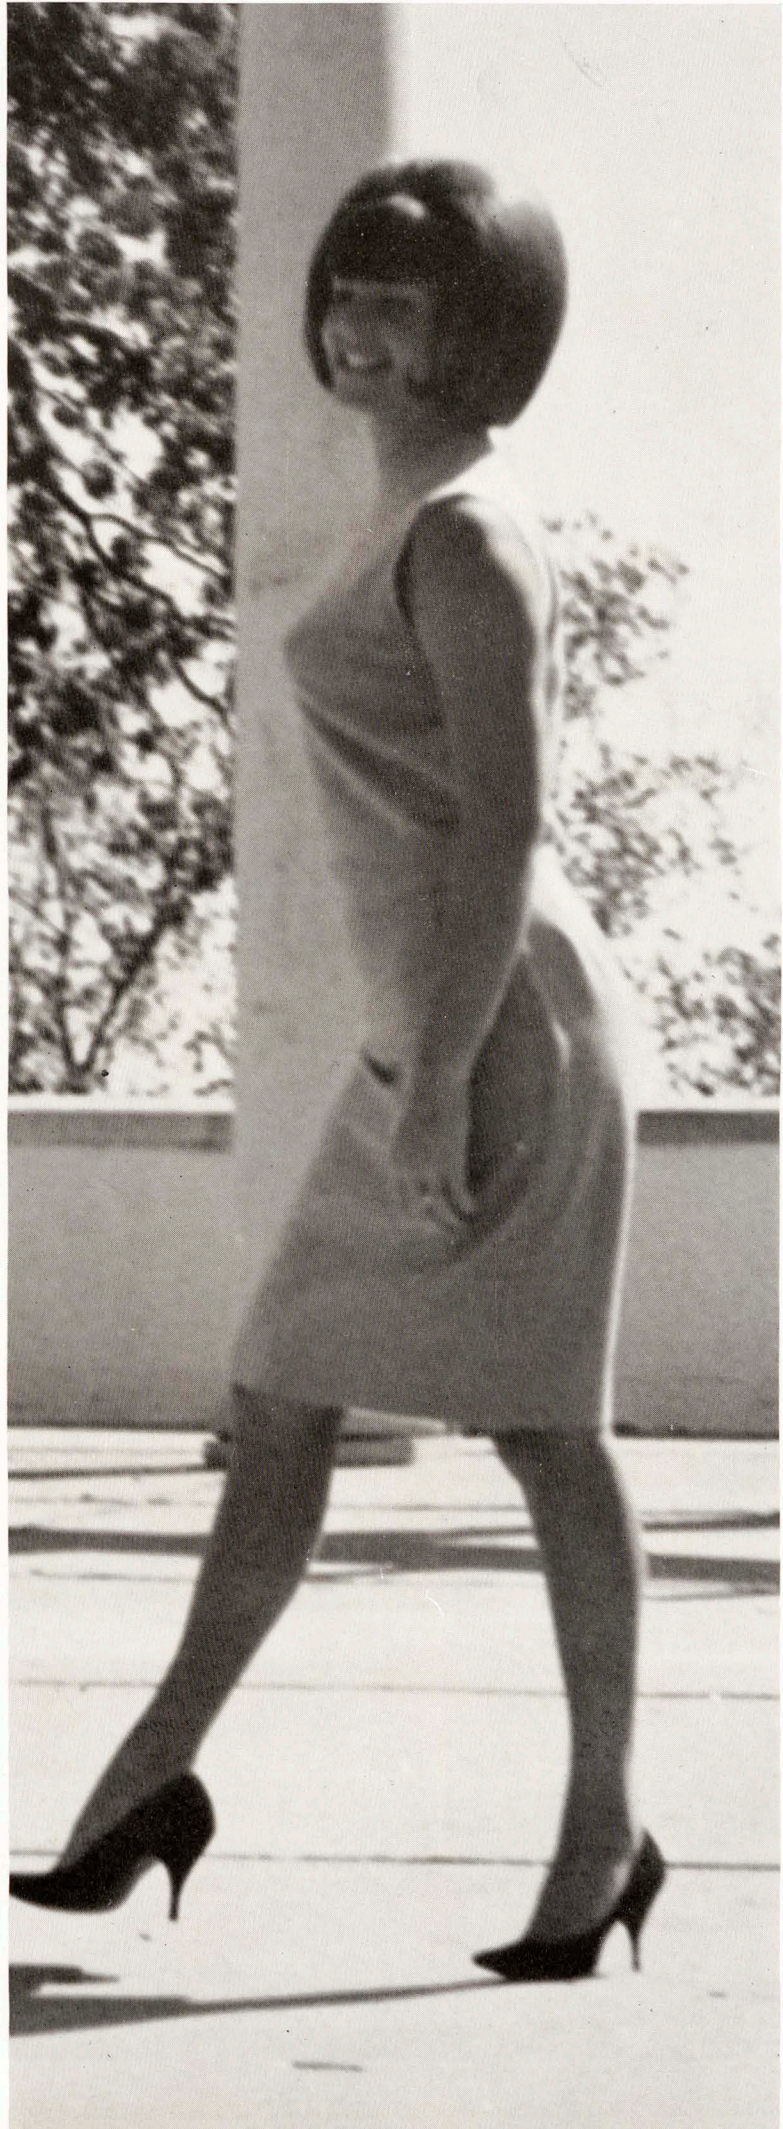

They lined up and displayed what they had to offer to bolster military morale in a time of crisis.

Candidates' assets merited the close scrutiny of this cadet, who appears to be trying to hold onto his eyeballs

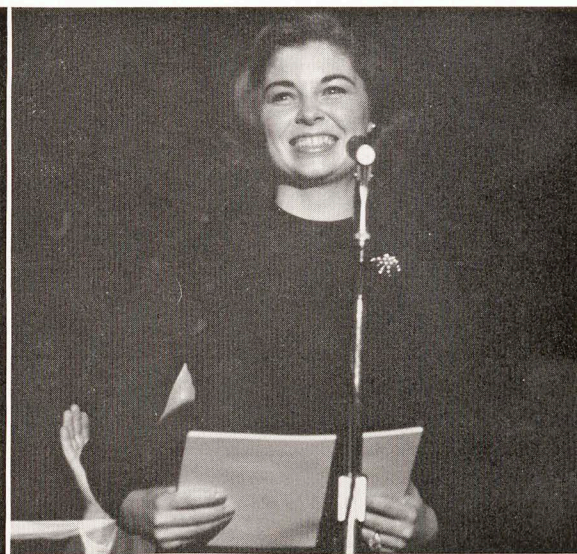

A winning smile can often prove to be the margin of victory. This was the case for Lynn Freeman, Pi Phi. The ROTC looks for friendliness in its sponsors.

For as long as the average student can remember the two branches of the armed forces on the University of Arkansas campus have selected their sponsors in a truly wonderful review at the Greek Theatre. These reviews attracted not only the ROTC students, but sorority sisters and interested males who remained uncommitted to the military.

This year the reviews came to a turning point. The Air Force announced that it would no longer select sponsors, but hold closed interviews for Angel Flight. This considerably lowered the competition between the two military groups, and in short brought new difficulties to the old game of girl watching.

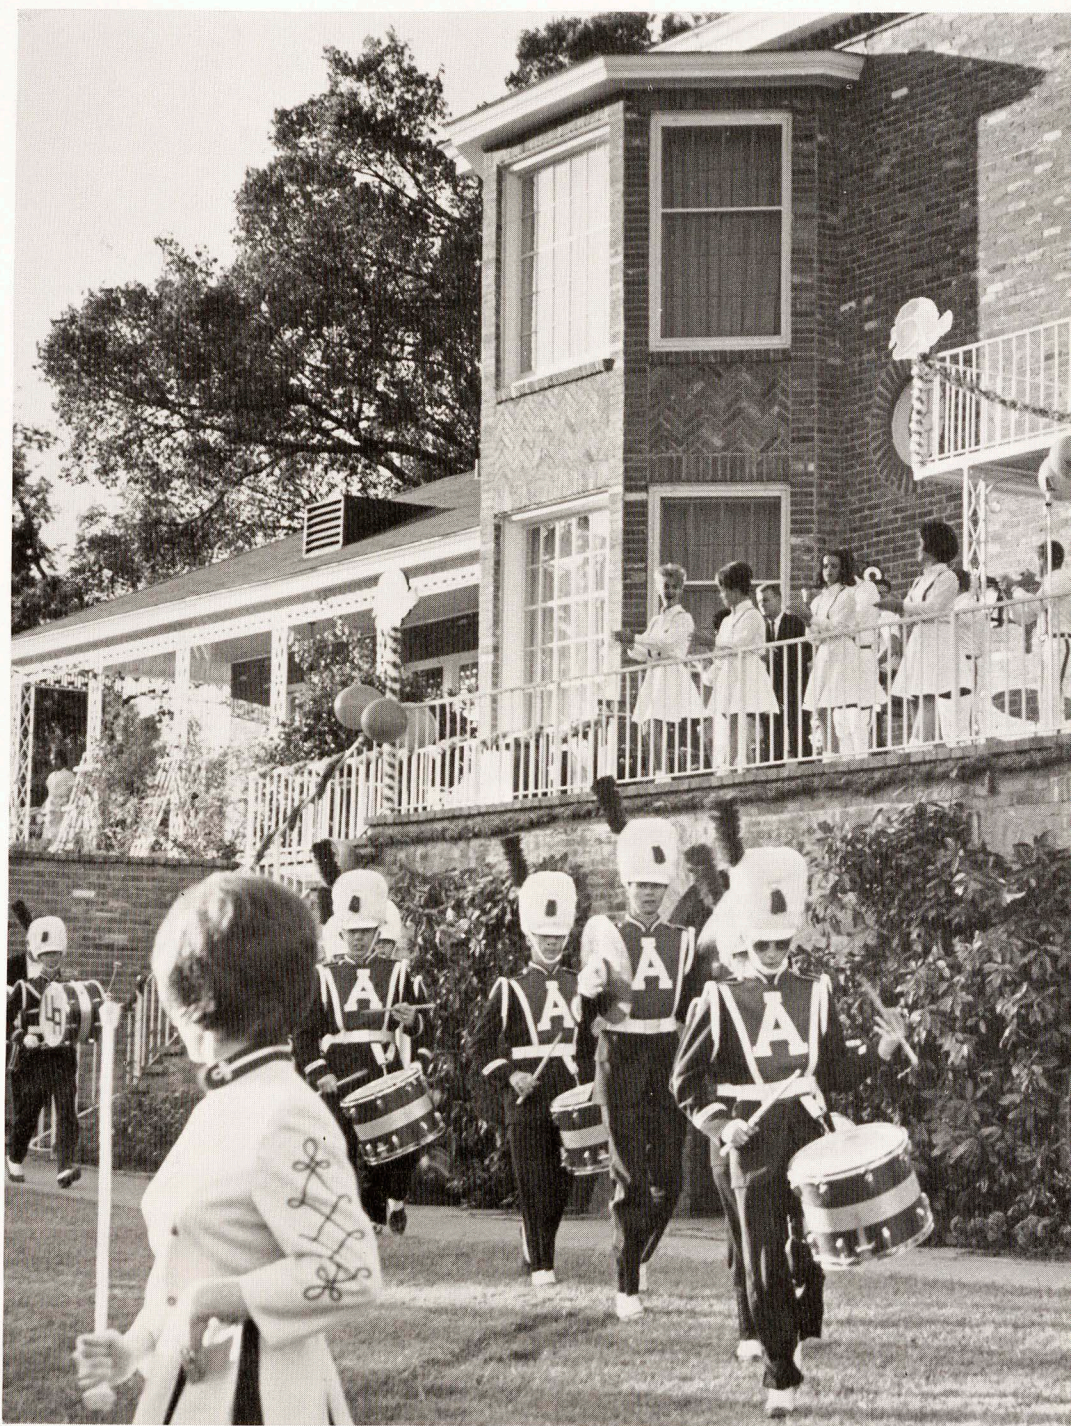

The Christy Minstrels sang most of their favorites, received Arkansas Traveler certificates, and sang some more.

MUSIC OF SORTS

Impressed cheerleaders wonder what to do next as they stand on the Governor's back porch. At least they didn't have to appear there after the campus "election."

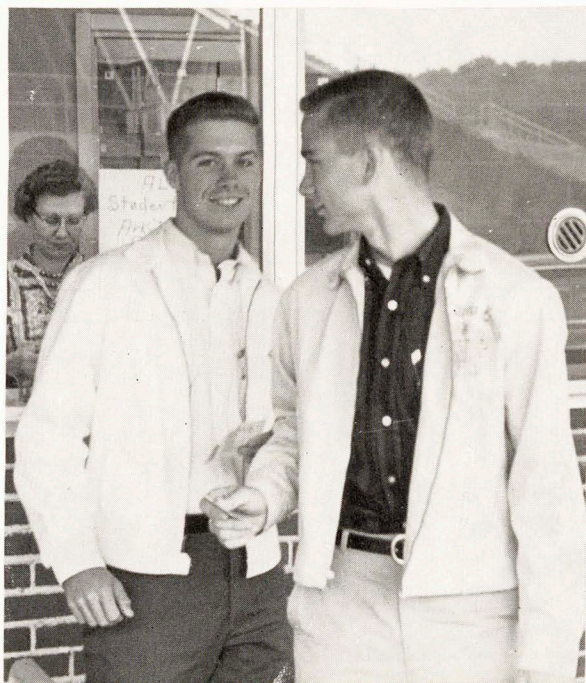

The New Christy Minstrels sang and played as if they knew they were going to get keen Arkansas Traveler certificates from Governor.

For the first time in five years a "Beat Texas" pep rally seemed to have some effect. In fact, they all worked.

BEAT TEXAS - A DREAM COME TRUE

Every year somebody complains about hanky-panky with the Texas tickets. But SAEs are cool enough to get theirs.

The miracle that no one had dared to hope for came to pass, as the Razorbacks defeated defending national champion Texas.

Four years of frustration at the hands of the Horns were finally avenged by the team from Arkansas that had always before come close, only to get put down in the end.

The Razorbacks dominated the game from the moment when they stopped an opening Texas drive. Next was to come the fantastic punt return by Ken Hatfield, 80 yards past orange suits, even past the famed punter himself, Ernie Koy.

Hearts of 66,000 spectators knew two types of agony as Texas, in a last-ditch effort, went for two points and victory. They failed, the score stood at 14-13, and anyone in Austin who waited for the tower to light up waited another week.

The Norman Luboff Choir, a participant in the Community Concert Series, entertained a crowd in would-be auditorium — Men's Gym.

Following Texas game, crowds of students camped out at Fayetteville Airport waiting for Razorbacks to return. Officials had problems making students "break camp" so planes could land.

Awed by torch he carries, freshman student forgets for a moment his hopes of victory and remembers Ku Klux Klan stories.

When planes finally landed at airport, students mobbed players who appeared victoriously beat.

Exuberant Razorback fan reached height of his celebration at the airport; he then "passed."

MOCK ELECTIONS: STATE'S FUTURE

In an attempt to better student-faculty relations, AWS held several teas. Those who attended acted as if there were nothing wrong with relations anyway.

The Student Directory arrived on campus, students rushed to the Union for their copy, and kept calling Information.

In one of the more controversial events of the year, Student Senate held a mock election in which the GOP swept the ballot, putting down the present state administration. Young Democrats had journeyed to Texarkana to hear a speech by the First Lady, and leaders claimed that they were unprepared for the election. It was obvious.

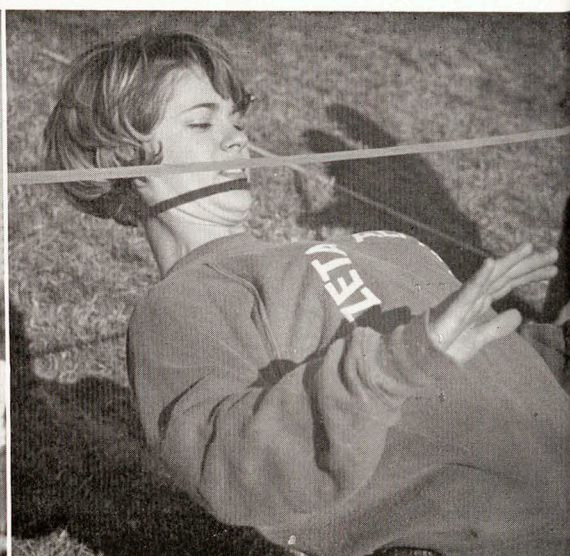

The Razorbacks recorded a not too great victory over Wichita.

OF LITTLE IMPORT-PART ONE

The only thing students care about student directories is that they come out on time. This year they were out early in October. In typical fashion, students said nothing.

Bob Porter gives trophy to John French for Phi Delta Thetas contributions to the Blood Mobile. Holding the trophy for the women's group, Sam Park looks as if he needs blood.

Arkansas Careers Day gives students an opportunity to snow Arkansas firms. While waiting for students, interviewers snow helpers.

FUTURE CAREERS IN ARKANSAS

Don Allen interviews for a job with "future" in Arkansas.

Arkansas Careers Day provided state businessmen who represented 31 firms an opportunity to tell students why they should remain in the state after graduation. Blue Key, Chimes and Commerce Guild co-operated in planning and carrying out the details of the third annual event.

The Porkers ground out their second straight 17-0 victory, this one over Texas A&M at College Station.

ODK passed a resolution that asked the Student Senate to frown on political endorsements by student body representatives.

In that great American event held every four years, the incumbent Texan, Lyndon Johnson, soundly overwhelmed his conservative opponent, Barry Goldwater. Governor Faubus proved that rich guys don't get everything, as he took his 6th term.

Dad's Day was pleasant enough, as the Owls got it, 21-0, and the Razorbacks moved to a third place national ranking.

During interviews students try to convince interviewers that a grade point is not that important. Interviewers are unimpressed.

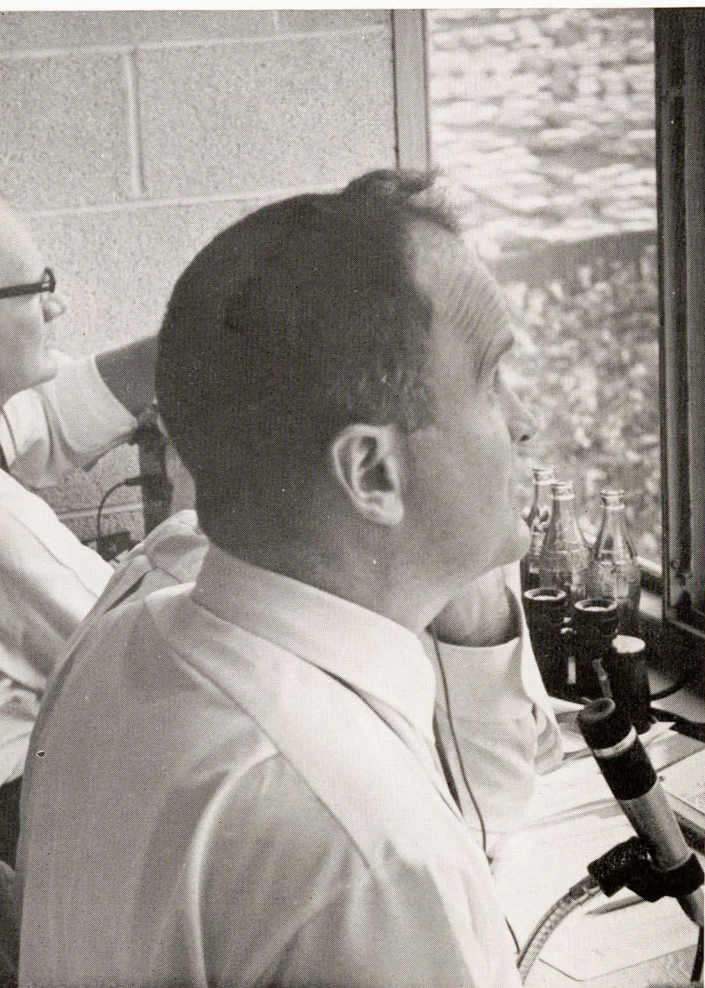

This has been a bad year for the Governor on the Fayetteville campus. Science-Engineering Center was a great step forward, so the Governor came to take credit for planning the complex.

Sidewalk surfin' hit the U of A this year as major fad. It offered Fayetteville merchants opportunity to supply another need.

Umbrellas were a common sight at Fayetteville football games this year; they were needed at all three games. Students didn't seem to mind the extra cover an umbrella offers for "mixing".

Razorback sportscaster Bob Cheyne attempted to keep up with plays and usually managed to stay within one play of the action on the field.

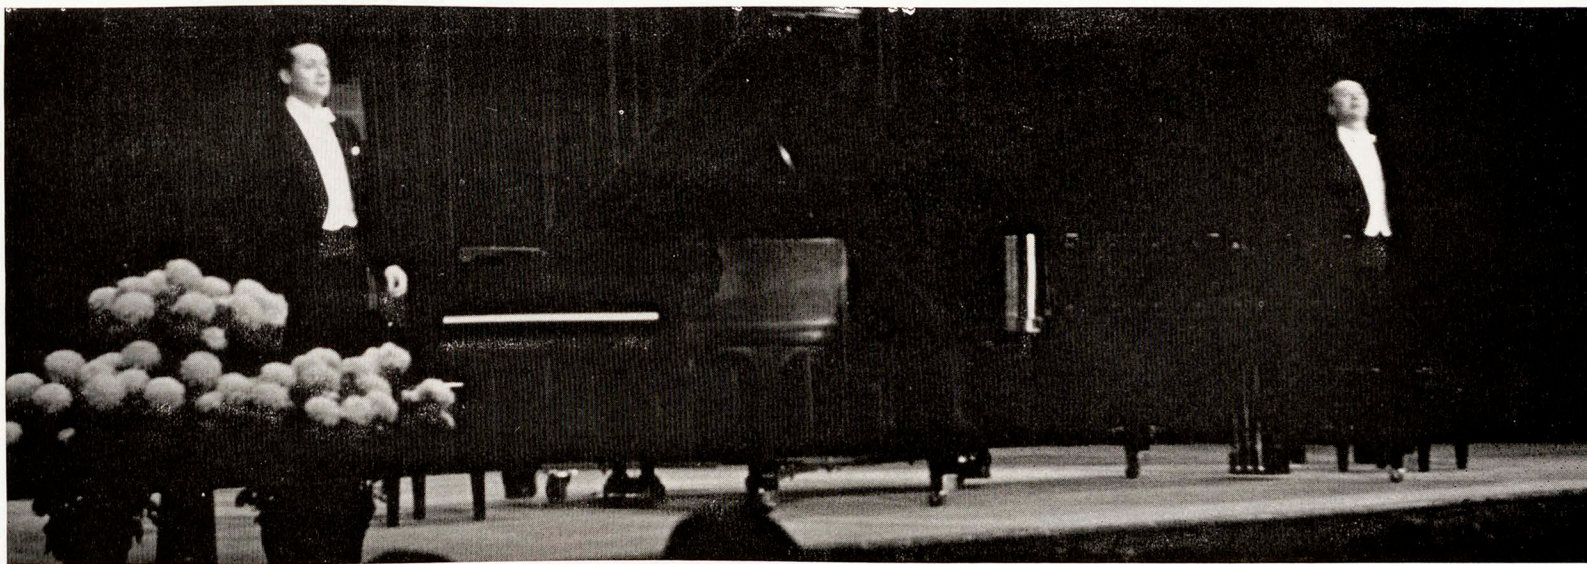

FOR DAD: HOGS WIN AGAIN

Dads usually get more enthused than most fans at football games. Sideline seats offered dads opportunity to cheer, coach a little.

Dad's Day is a U of A tradition, just as is the Legislative Luncheon, the Marching Razorbacks, and the old "Welcome Dad" sign.

The Artists and Concerts Committee, dedicated to improving the University cultural level, presented duo-pianists Gold and Fizzdale.

HOMEcoming: SAME STORY

Homecoming decorations and their plans become a game of wits. Pi Beta Phi outwitted other sororities to take 1st place in women's division. This sort of thing impresses rushees.

Fraternities and sororities hate the years which they have to build floats. It was Phi Delta Thetas' year to build a float and they managed to produce a second place winner.

On another rainy day, the traditional Homecoming half-time festivities were climaxed by the forming of the court for crowning of Homecoming Queen.

Vantage points are important to kids who found a good view from the trees lining a Dickson Street parade route.

Following the Hogs' victory over Rice, the Board of Trustees announced plans to expand Razorback Stadium to a capacity of 35,000. This should save the administration Texas ticket problems when the game is held in Fayetteville next season.

Homecoming week festivities were the same as they had been in the past—pep rallies, parade, game, and dance, with nothing added except a huge 44-0 victory over SMU. This was probably not a result of the "Beat SMU" answers requested during roll call.

Vance Packard told students what was happening to the American character, and "Ladies in Retirement" opened at the University Theatre. It was announced that some Bulgarian consul would speak at the Methodist Student Center.

Intermission entertainment at Singfony was provided by a group of folk singers. Group makes most events of this type; sings same songs.

SINGFONY: A CHARITY EVENT

Phi Delta Theta came through with just another second place.

Once again an Arkansas hog appeared as Razorback fans traveled to Dallas for the Cotton Bowl Classic and victory over Nebraska.

An important event of the fall semester was the installation of Alpha Kappa Lambda, youngest member of U of A greek group.

Alpha Delta Pi took first place in Singfony women's division.

In an attempt to keep Arkansas supporters rallied this group patrolled Dallas with taped messages for fans. Attempt was appreciated, but fans managed to remain rallied by use of other means.

For taking this woman to the Cotton Bowl this man deserves to have his picture in Razorback.

THE COTTON BOWL: AN APPROPRIATE FINISH

Following Razorback victory, Coach Broyles beams with knowledge that he can get golf clubs out and live again.

Traveler headlines read, "We're Bowl Bound" and "Go Hogs Go - For 11-0." On the strength of an undefeated regular season, the Razorbacks of the University of Arkansas along with approximately 30,000 fans made their way to Dallas and the Cotton Bowl with fingers crossed.

There were morning parties, afternoon parties, evening parties, and New Years Eve parties. There were planned pep rallies and spontaneous pep rallies, but where there were Arkansas supporters, there were crossed fingers.

At 1:00 p.m. New Years Day fingers were uncrossed, and the Hogs got down to business. It wasn't an easy afternoon for the Hogs or the Arkansans, but when the Traveler came out on January 5, 1965, the headline read, "We're No. 1!"

President Mullins was happy, but saw no reason for an extended holiday; students were tired, but happy, too.

Divine guidance is sought by John Heard as the moment of reckoning neared at Cotton Bowl. Mike Bradie points out reassuring scoreboard.

Looking like a registration line, Razorback fans lined the streets of Dallas, waiting for something to happen. Cops prevented it.

ENDINGS: TWO SORTS

Some still put Arkansas in the same class with Ole Miss, a not altogether reputable place to be. Flagwavers here exhibit their preference to the Cotton Bowl's television audience.

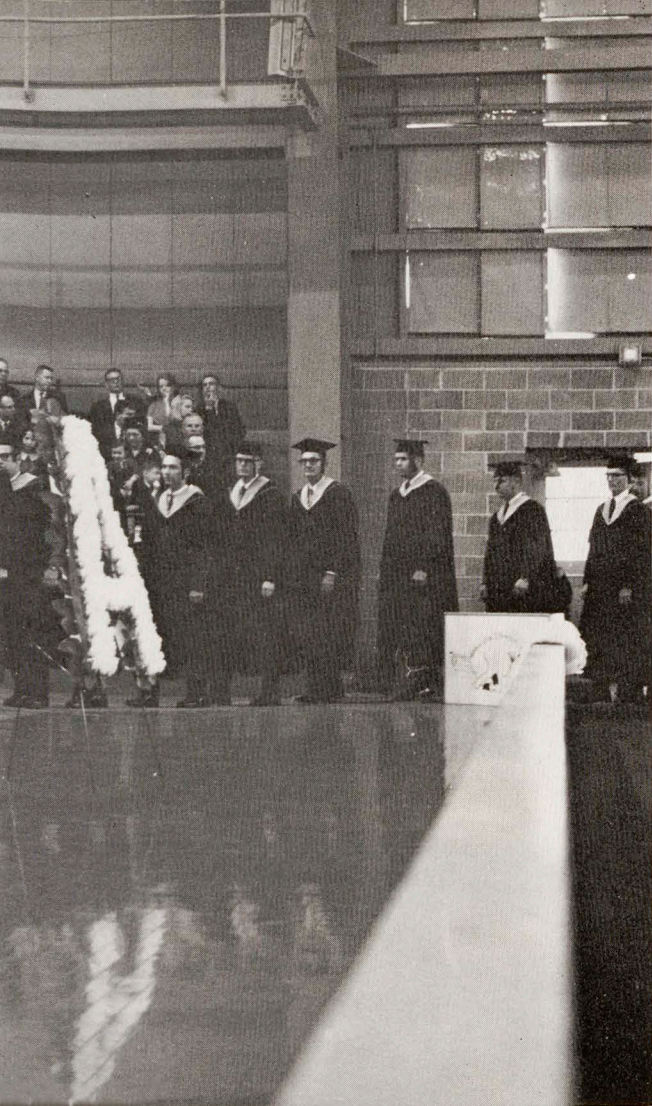

Mid-term graduation ends the degree struggle for many students. Some of these are ones that took semester easy.

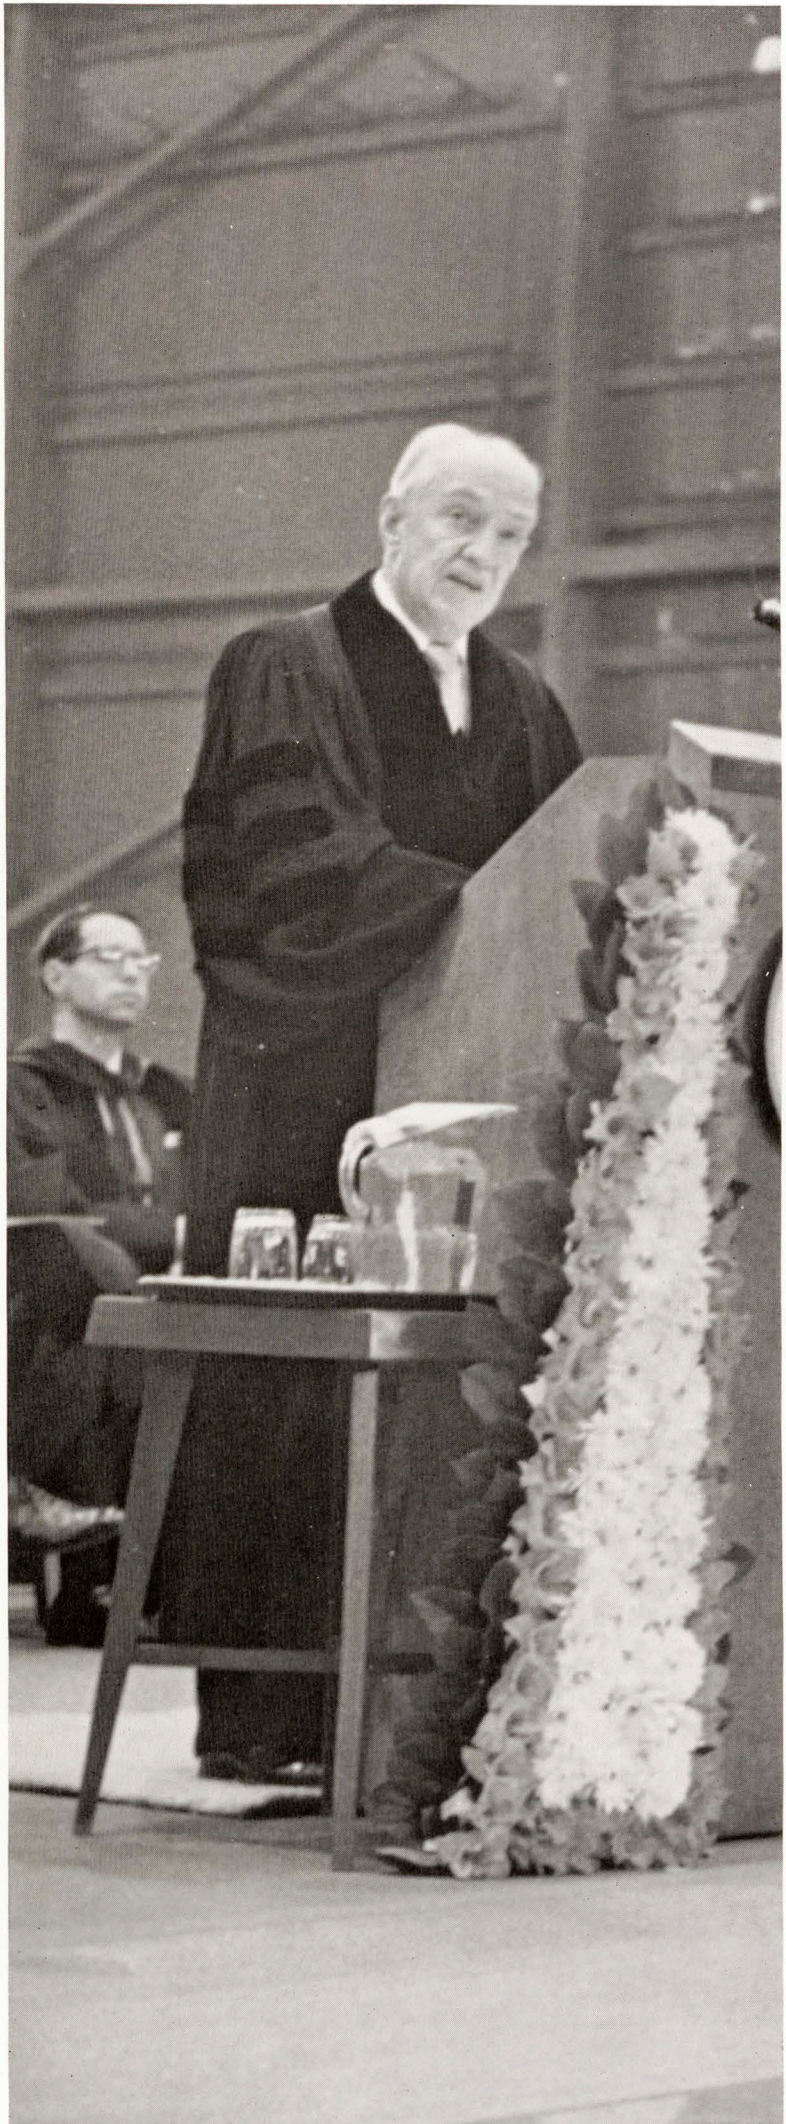

Sharp Arkansas fans had a corner of their own in the Baker Hotel that was designated, "Arkansas Headquarters." Woman at right looks as though she's seen a Nebraska pennant.

Small-type Razorback fan makes clear his preference to the city of Dallas, as he scopes out that famed metropolis.

January's 830 graduating seniors heard a commencement address by Dr. Arthur S. Adams, retired President of the American Council on Education.

Following the Cotton Bowl victory, students came back to Fayetteville unprepared for finals and term papers. Unprepared or not, they came, passed, and were forgotten.

Graduation was the end of the line for many students who picked up their degrees and sought new forms of adjustment.

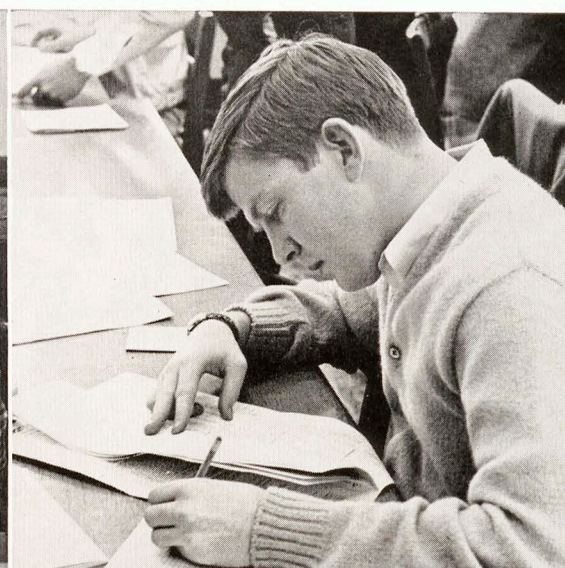

For those with requirements and electives remaining the University sponsored registration. The lines were the same as they had been in the past with only one improvement — now freshmen knew the tricks too.

One can register late.

Waiting out English people.

Checking off closed sections.

• It comes easy with practice.

WE HAVE YET TO OVERCOME

A place to sit down is a rare commodity during any registration. In times like these, a marble stairway gives relief to the weary, who may wonder if IBM ever gets tired.

When spring registration came, most were aware of what was going on. Even Sue Walk, standing at right, knew where she was for a change.

Climaxing the cold National Champions Day activities in Razorback Stadium, Tim Cohane of Look Magazine presented trophy to U of A.

ARKANSAS ACCEPTS GRANTLAND RICE AWARD

Producer and Master of Ceremonies at National Champions Day was sportscaster-publicity man Bob Cheyne.

RAZORBAC

ONAL CHAMP

The Razorbacks' fantastic football season was climaxed on February 5, when National Championship Day was held by special proclamation of President Mullins.

Following a parade, the Grantland Rice Award was presented in Razorback Stadium by Look Magazine Sports Editor Tim Cohane. He awarded it to President Mullins, who then gave it to Coach Frank Broyles.

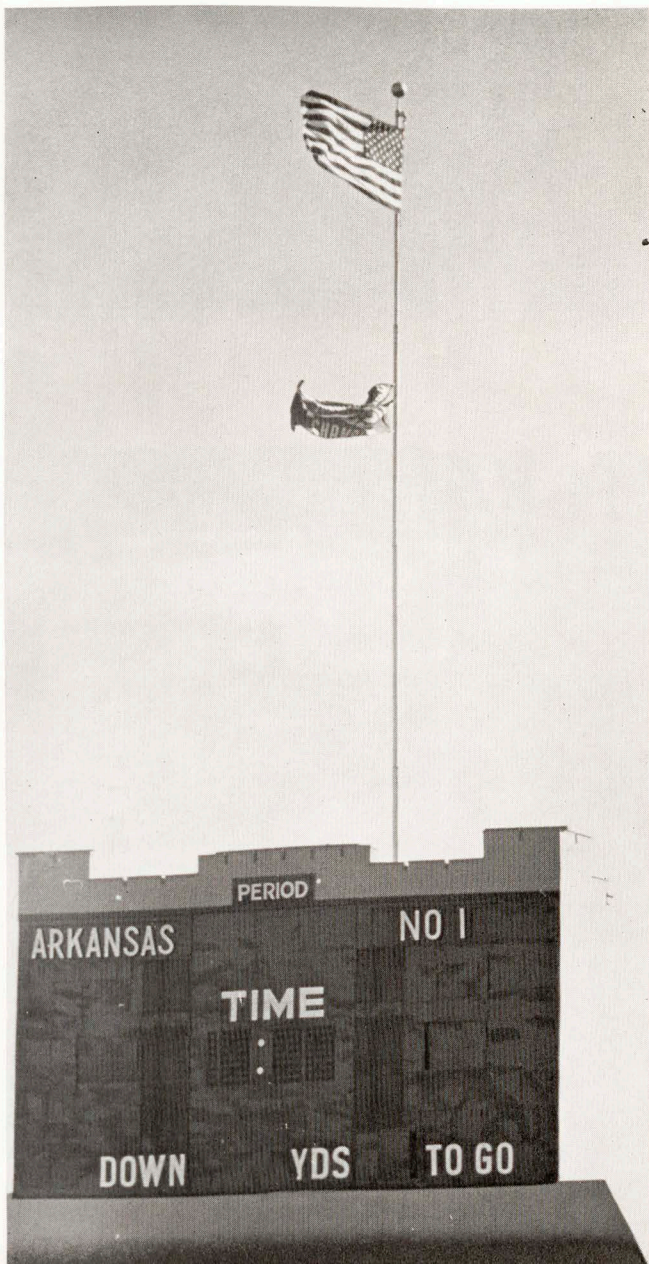

A banquet that night honored the team and coaches. Featured speaker was Ray Eliot, the assistant athletic director of the University of Illinois. The Helms Foundation presented their championship trophy, and various individual awards were given out to players.

Championship Dance ended the day's activities, with Cookie and the Cupcakes providing the evening's music.

Thus ended officially the celebrating for a football season of perfection for the number one team in the nation.

Following the afternoon festivities, a banquet was held at the Student Union so the champions could collect symbols for their efforts.

The students who attended activities in the stadium were not excited about cheering. Games were over and won, and it was cold.

For the first time in the history of the U of A, a red flag with a large No. 1 on it was raised with Old Glory. This was a happy moment for students who carried flags all year long.

Champions Day Dance entertainment was provided by Cookie and the Cupcakes. Cookie tried to work up a sweat, in champs fashion, succeeded.

Students attended the Champions Day Dance to celebrate Hogs victories. If dancing is a form of celebration, then the day had a successful end.

OF LITTLE IMPORT - PART TWO

Panhellenic held spring rush as usual, for a small handful of girls, many of whom did receive bids. These new Zeta pledges are getting unloaded.

The Freshman-Principals Conference gave students an opportunity to tell their former administrators exactly where they went wrong.

show rushees that they provide lots of comfortable floor space. Women's rush is more informal in the spring. Here the Zetas

A LITTLE BIT OF DIXIE

In one of the better concerts of the year, Al Hirt and his short little buddy kept the packed Men's Gym in control by using practical jokes and a little old fashioned "one step."

Al Hirt was a clown who presented good music. Students who's diet is made up of KHOG appreciated a change.

Following two hours of total entertainment, Hirt took his bow; students begged for more.

Majority of students who go to the AWS Valentine's Dance are just there to vote for their candidate. The Alpha Chis managed to muster most support.

AWS chose Gail Bigge, Alpha Chi, as its Queen of Hearts during the Valentine's Dance. Girl behind gail peers through the roses, seeking attention, too.

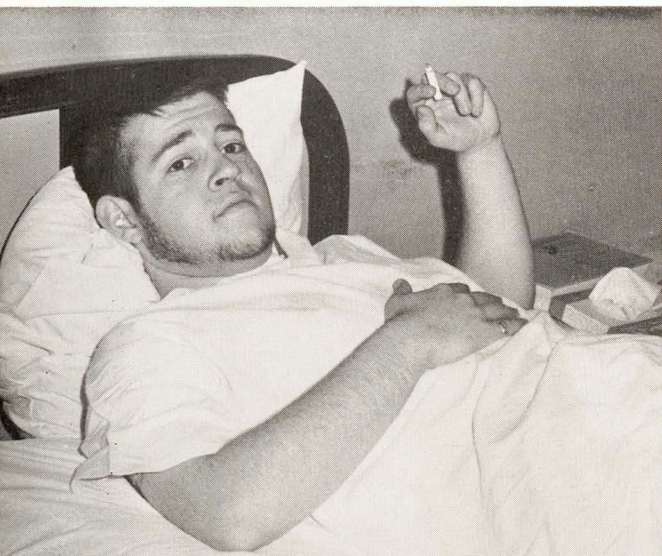

Al Hirt, the famed trumpeter with the beard, came to the UofA for a concert, and rocked the Men's Gym with his 299-pounds of classy horn.

In a move that foretold many later developments, Sammy Hilburn was removed as President for failing to meet the grade requirement. Pending action on his petition for reinstatement, Dick Holbert, Vice-President, became President, as Hilburn's petition was denied.

Seven student senators were also removed because of grades. Some were reinstated; some weren't.

While freshmen and their high school principals conferred, WIHC made plans for their "Queen of Hearts" dance.

When the Senate situation began to look less foggy, Mac Glover got elected President Pro Tem.

The infirmary was full.

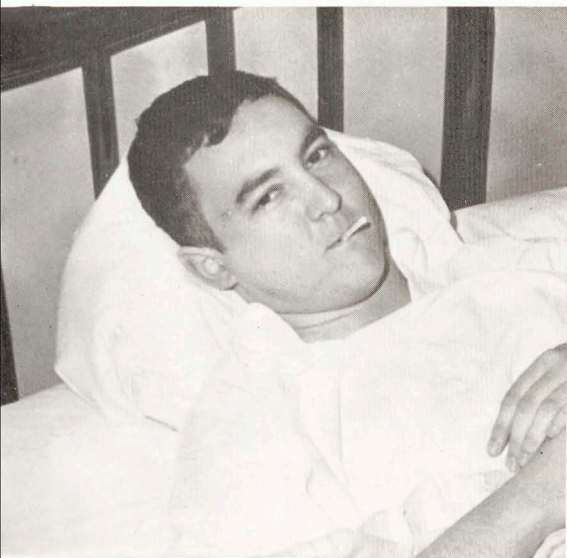

Nurses offered thermometers.

Sick students accepted them.

Goose had the flu.

FLU AND AWS HIT CAMPUS

Chimes members, like Pi Phis Pam Williams and Tessie Tuck, were on the scene to assist state AWS delegates in filling out forms and showing them where johns were.

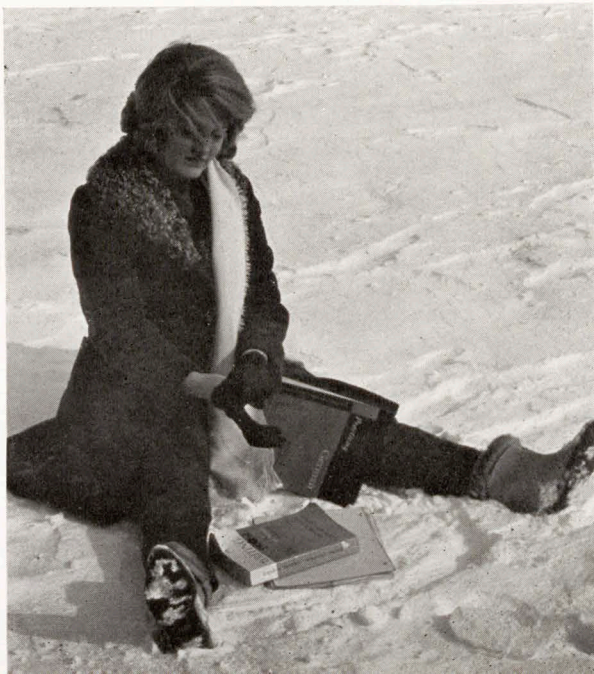

Gungho AWS delegates from all over the state gathered at the University for their annual state convention, headquartered at Hotz Hall.

Chilly winds may have been blowing, but there was still warmth in the hearts of some, who found that winter is a good excuse at times.

FAYETTEVILLE: A WINTER WONDERLAND

Some girls do get snowed rather easily, but this one must be waiting to find out for herself if chivalry is dead.

The UofA got the snows put to it; for a full week, even. There was something for everyone: snow, sleet, rain, sun, etc.

Noted Perry County Representative Paul Van Dalsem sought unsuccessfully to have the Law School moved lock, stock and lawbooks to Little Rock. In other political developments, Sandy McMath, young Democrat, denied having any ambitious political diversions planned for the campus. Another removal took Jack Coleman from his post as Young Democrats president.

In a pioneer move, the IFC approved a program of summer pledging for this year.

A moderate rash of colds and flu hit the area, causing temporary distress for some.

Hotz Hall continued to rock on, oblivious to staid old Fulbright Hall. The girls of Hotz managed to generate a small wastebasket fire into an after-datecall activity.

Even though the campus reeked with snow, a few lovers of learning pressed on in pursuit of knowledge, or maybe coffee in the Union.

Bad weather certainly doesn't faze the most ardent of fruit-bowlers, who sometimes venture away from the "culture center."

That old bit about getting the mail through the snow, rain, and Fayetteville weather didn't seem to please this public servant.

Hotz Hall was "ablaze" with extracurricular activities all year, as local firemen discovered.

THE POWER OF AN ACTIVITY TICKET

Air Force ROTC Ball planners tried to think of themes to appeal to cadets. This was one would-be hilarious attempt.

ROTC cadets buy activity tickets at military desk during registration allowing them the right to one date, a bow tie, and swell Ball.

Cadets were lined up on the drill field and told they should attend ROTC Ball where they would have a good time; some went and did.

ANOTHER DAY AT THE POLLS

Commerce Queen elections give sororities an opportunity to find non-education majors.

Sororities go for the queens to impress rushees. This is the reason for the hard sell of a Commerce Queen candidate.

Gifted students tried out for the Student Union Talent Show which gave them a chance to contribute something to the University and a shot at winning honors at SWC show.

Throwing his hat into the ring for vice-presidency of Business School, candidate Ross had it returned at polls.

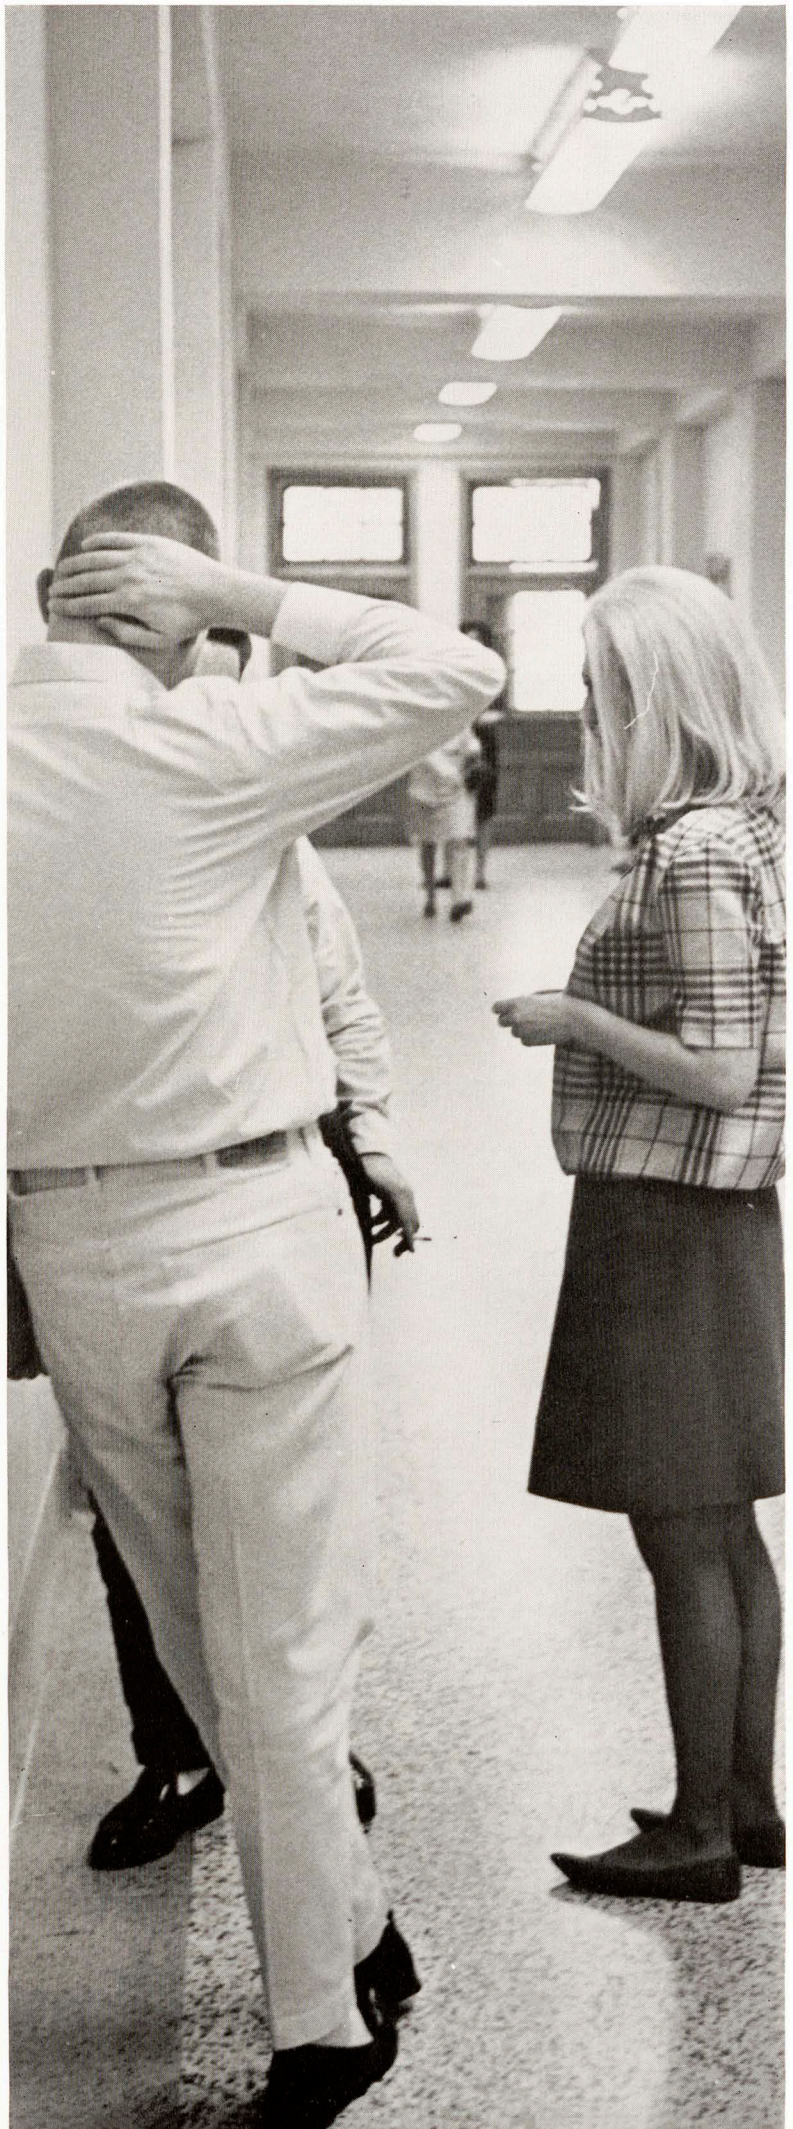

A skeptical BA student hears from shy Jeannie McFarland why he should vote for ADPi Commerce Queen candidate. Jeannie happens to be an ADPi.

As the campus braced itself for the politics involved in the BA elections, other events of a political nature were taking place. The Student Senate overrode President Holbert's veto of election dates, Sandy McMath announced that, "Hell hath no fury like the scorn of a woman," and presented roses to two Chi Omega senators, and Senator Mosley, to the relief of education majors, revealed that her petition had been accepted, and she was re-instated as their length to the Senate.

A religious group was formed to rebuild a church in Mississippi, but it was later discovered that they had the wrong town, church and weren't wanted anyway.

Other events were interviews by federal agencies, selection of the new publications people by the Board of Publications, and the announcement that Fayetteville's slum, Terry Village, would be replaced by a coed complex.

ANOTHER CLEAN SHOW

In perhaps a first for the Engine Rally, Pat Yarrington just sang her way to the Saint Patricia title. She added very little to her obvious voice talent.

These young beauties ask the engineers to "swing their bat for Pat." They did and Pat Yarrington won, another Hotz wonder.

The purpose of the Engine Banquet is, among several lesser reasons, to cut the instructors; these men take care of the IE group.

SEE FAYETTEVILLE FIRST: THE SMOTHERS BROTHERS

A part of the Engine Week festivities is the placing of posters on bulletin boards around Engineering Building.

It was the 57th annual day for the Engineers. They held their banquet, rally, convocation, and tug-o-war, with the only new attraction the addition of an Engineers Hall of Fame.

In keeping with the political atmosphere of the semester, Jim Lee Morgan announced that, "... two mighty alliances were formed — alliances based on fear." And President Holbert stated that the Bookstore had "everything is shipshape." An announcement which everyone had been expecting was finally presented — Sammy Hilburn's petition was turned down. Senator McMath, who had earlier offered to pull Law School out of the Senate, realized that it really didn't matter and dropped his plans.

Elections of one sort or another were held, and Jim Lance took over the vacant vice-president's spot. Beth Yancey was chosen to head AWS.

The Arkansas Legislature chalked up another highway and presented the University a budget increase of $3,000,000.

The Smothers Brothers had their differences at times. Tom offers his hand to brother Dick, who looks miffed at Tom's mental lapses.

Dick tries to put down his brother Tom, who has just said something really truthful about "wonderful, scenic Fayetteville."

Mason Williams came along with the Smothers Brothers, and entertained Fieldhouse crowd with his specialty, "Them Poems".

Spring gave a mother an excuse for getting out in the world and seeing how the other half lives.

Told by someone to go fly a kite, Pi Phi Tessie Tuck took it seriously, even got it in the air.

AND THEN GREEN CAME BACK

Fledgling art students often are found with pained expressions on their faces. They have to find something worth sketching on campus, a truly formidable task.

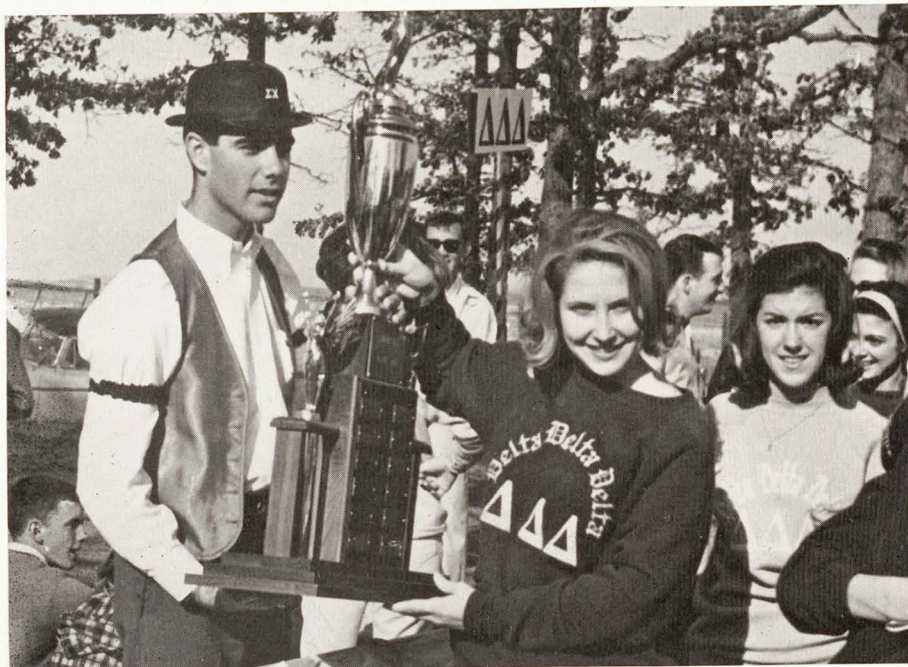

Gail Bigge was one of the girls tapped for Mortar Board at the annual AWS Spring Festival. This gives her an opportunity to sell calendars.

A couple found time to sit on a bench in the University's front yard and watch the Army ROTC cadets march by. Fayetteville is secure.

DERBY DAY: A SIGMA CHI FIRST

The Tri-Deltas managed to out-score other sororities to take first place Derby Day Trophy.

The idea was for each sorority to take a Sigma Chi for a day and dress him up in prize winning fashion. Tri-Delta won with their rendition of cute bunny.

With sacks over their heads, they paraded around Agri Park for their sororities with visions of Derby Day Queen in their minds. Its not every day that girls are found prepackaged.

A "dressed" Sigma Chi Steve Wood should have entered the Miss U of A contest. The Zetas out-did themselves.

Derbies are rarely seen on the U of A campus, but they came in big this year with the establishment of Sigma Chi Derby Day. This contest between sororities was started at the University of California in 1930, and it only took thirty-five years for it to reach Arkansas.

And then came the Fourteen Points. They were presented to President Mullins, reviewed by the Senate, and eventually acted upon or explained by President Mullins to the apparent satisfaction of the students. Perhaps the most interesting comment made during the Fourteen Point controversy was that of John Harmon, "We don't want to have another Berkeley."

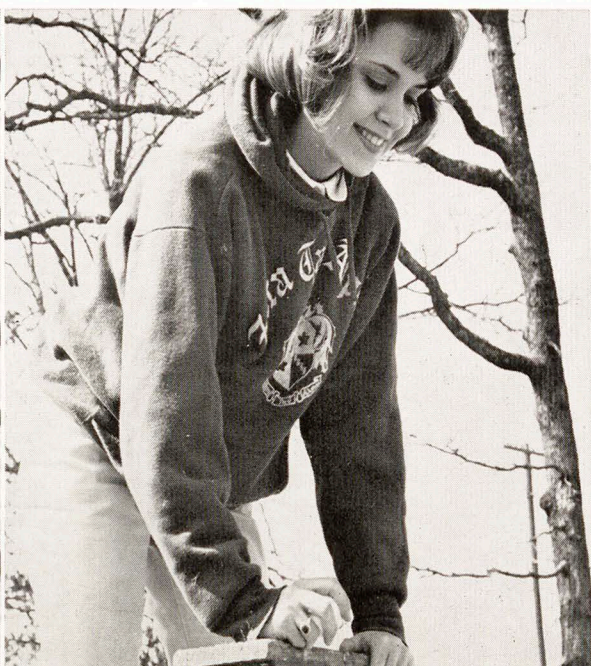

With Dead Week a reality, members of Blue Key, Omicron Delta Kappa, and Mortar Board looked at Hot Springs and expressed their "sincere concern for the notorious and peon violations of state laws."

LITTLE SPIRIT CREATORS

Cheerleader practice sessions were held in the Union Ballroom, where such hopefuls as Jacque Jones learned everything from how to call a hog to basic movements of the smile.

Following their selection in the Greek Theatre new cheerleaders paused to gloat for picture.

The keynote speaker at Commerce Day was Dr. Kennedy. His topic was "Followership", the end result was both funny and entertaining.

TWO MORE DAYS: COMMERCE AND AGRI

When all ballots were in and counted, the sorority which managed another queen was Pi Phi with Janis Funk.

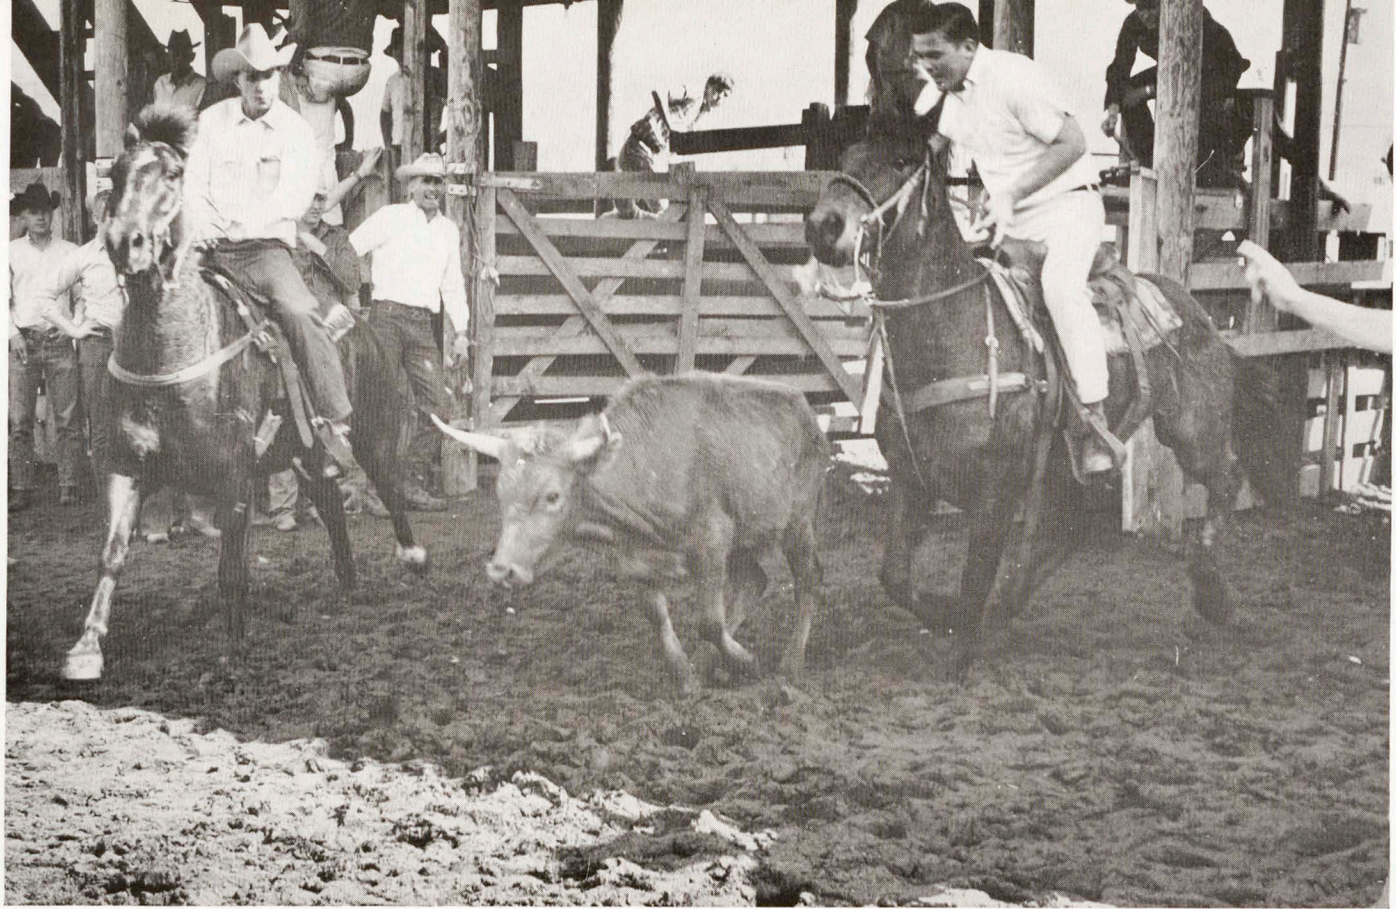

Commerce Day and Agri Day filled out the list of major "days" scheduled for this year. Both were carried out with little change, with the exception of the elimination of the Commerce Day Banquet, and both were termed successes by their creators and producers.

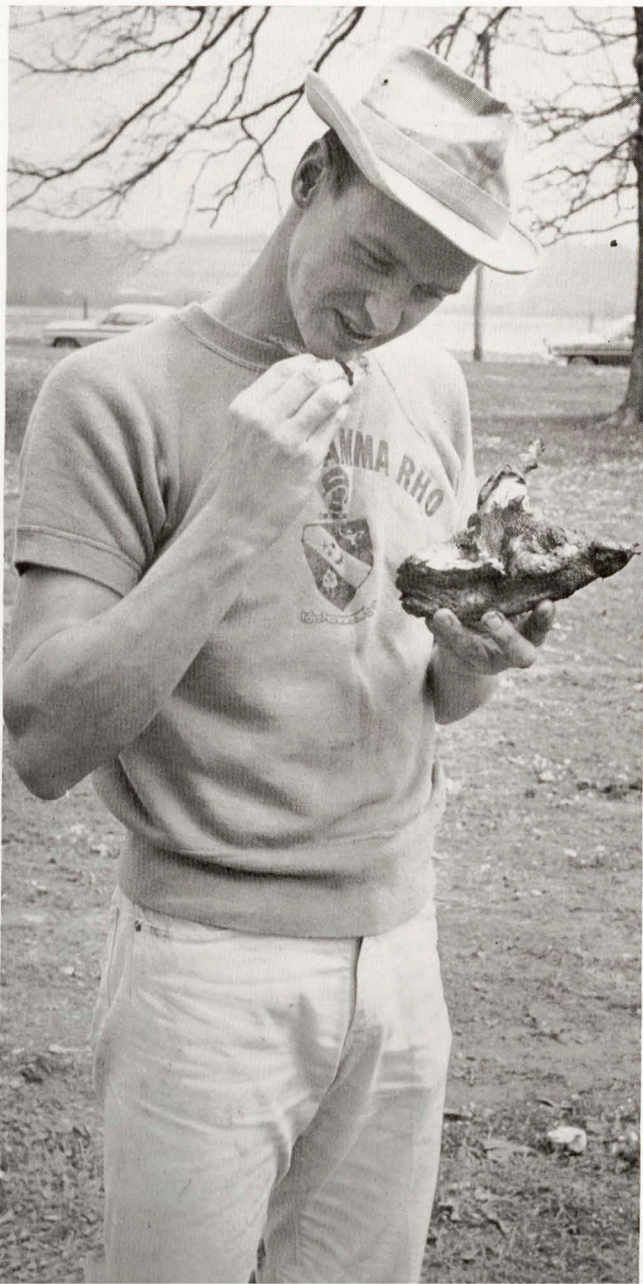

The State High School Science Fair opened at the Men's Gym, and, since not too many students make a habit of stopping in there, the only event which stirred any enthusiasm among students was an address by Col. John Glenn, America's first orbiting astronaut.

Phi Beta Kappa tapped fifteen seniors and five graduate students, and the Civic Club began the University Campus Chest drive. This gave students an opportunity to help select a Campus Sweetheart and a Campus Lover.

Politics had received added emphasis second semester, so the candidates began filing, and would-be politicians played their games.

This event at the Agri Day Rodeo is called bull dogging. It is of little interest to those who don't appreciate smelly rodeos.

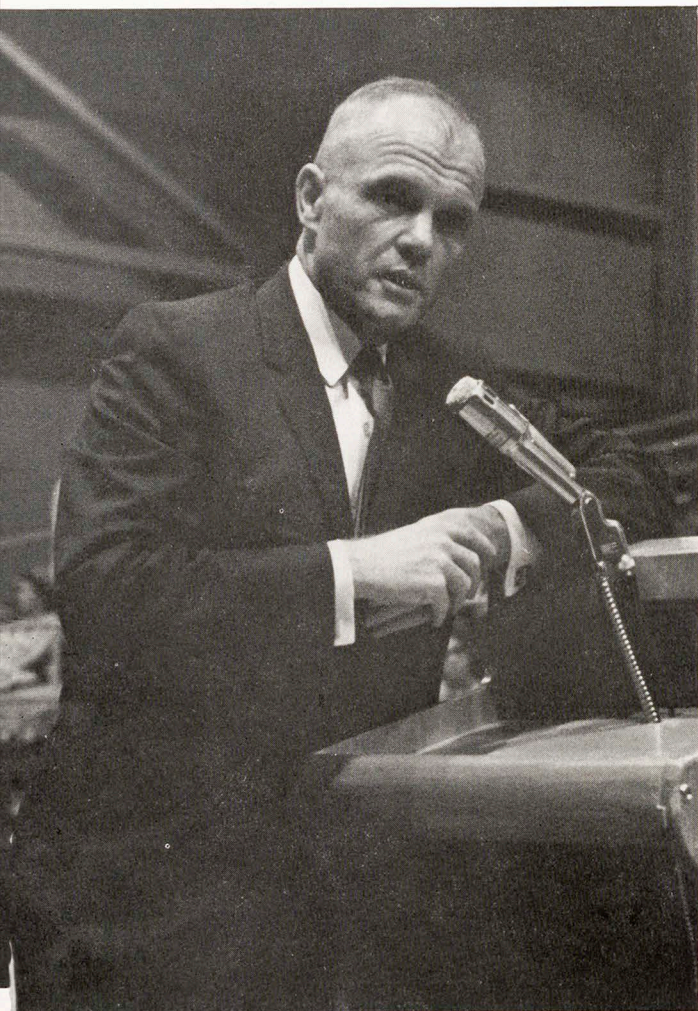

Although this cowboy might have the wrong animal in the sack, he worked hard to get it there. Event is known as goat sacking.

One of the events of Agri Day which is not an official event takes place when barbecued chicken is served to agri students.

Following his speech in the fieldhouse, Colonel Glenn visited with high school students at the Arkansas State Science Fair in the Men's Gym.

John Glenn showed slides and spoke on past and future moon shots to scientifically minded crowd.

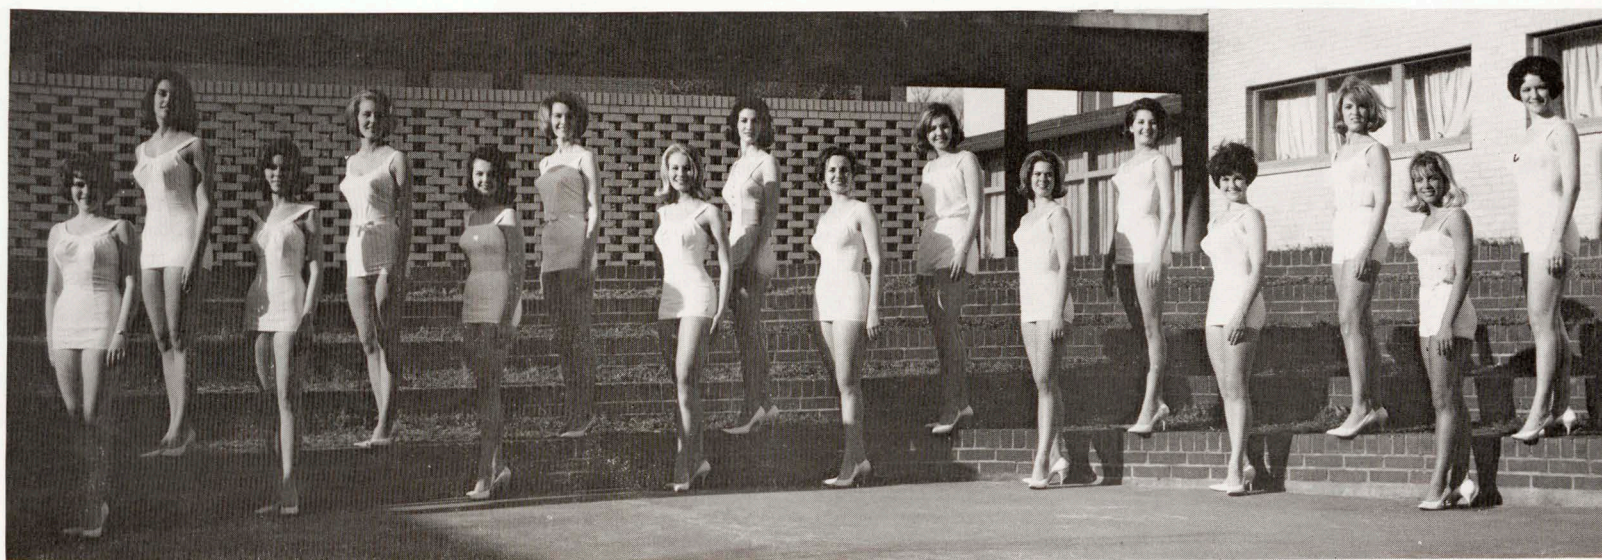

OF GLENN, WIN, AND THINGS

For one glass of orange juice, senior quarterback F. Marshall must donate one pint of blood.

Win Rockefeller, inspired by visions of a cultured Arkansas, related his plans to Blue Key members and guests.

Miss University of Arkansas hopefuls begin preparations in the outdoor theatre for their appearance at the Gaebale pageant.

A DEMOCRATIC UNIVERSITY

The spring elections gave students an opportunity to dress up and speak to their enemies.

While on the way to exercise their right to vote, students will be badgered by a multitude of candidates and their supporters who represent every college except Law School.

Contact with individuals is important in the final moments of an election. Candidates Johnson and Glover elbowed for position as last students voted.

Campaigning inside the Union is against election rules, but during elections candidates will except any help.

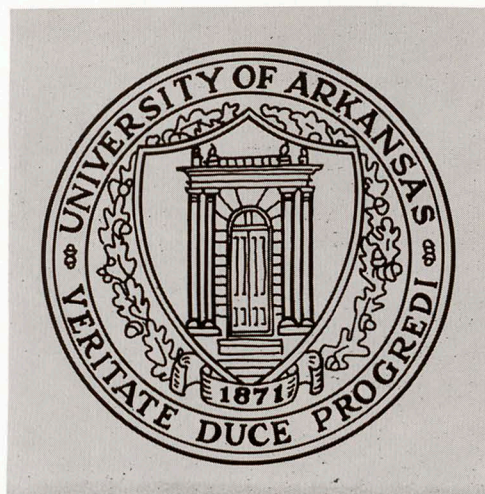

When the polls close the campaigners leave their printed qualities scattered around the campus. Janitors will clear mess mumbling about some big deal.

Quantity was the dominant theme in the April elections. Not only did the president's race draw five candidates, but the previously uncontested vice-presidential position attracted four candidates. In addition, political parties returned to the scene, with the Apathy Party promising complete apathy, and the University Reform Party (URP) promising a try for liberalization of everything.

Neither party scored, although a run-off proved necessary in the president's race, with Mac Glover emerging on top. Jim Lee Morgan was elected vice-president without a run-off.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

At the University the responsibility of self government is delegated by the students to an organization known as the Associated Students of the University of Arkansas. The annual Spring elections generate enthusiasm among the students and offer students opportunities to participate in political affairs.

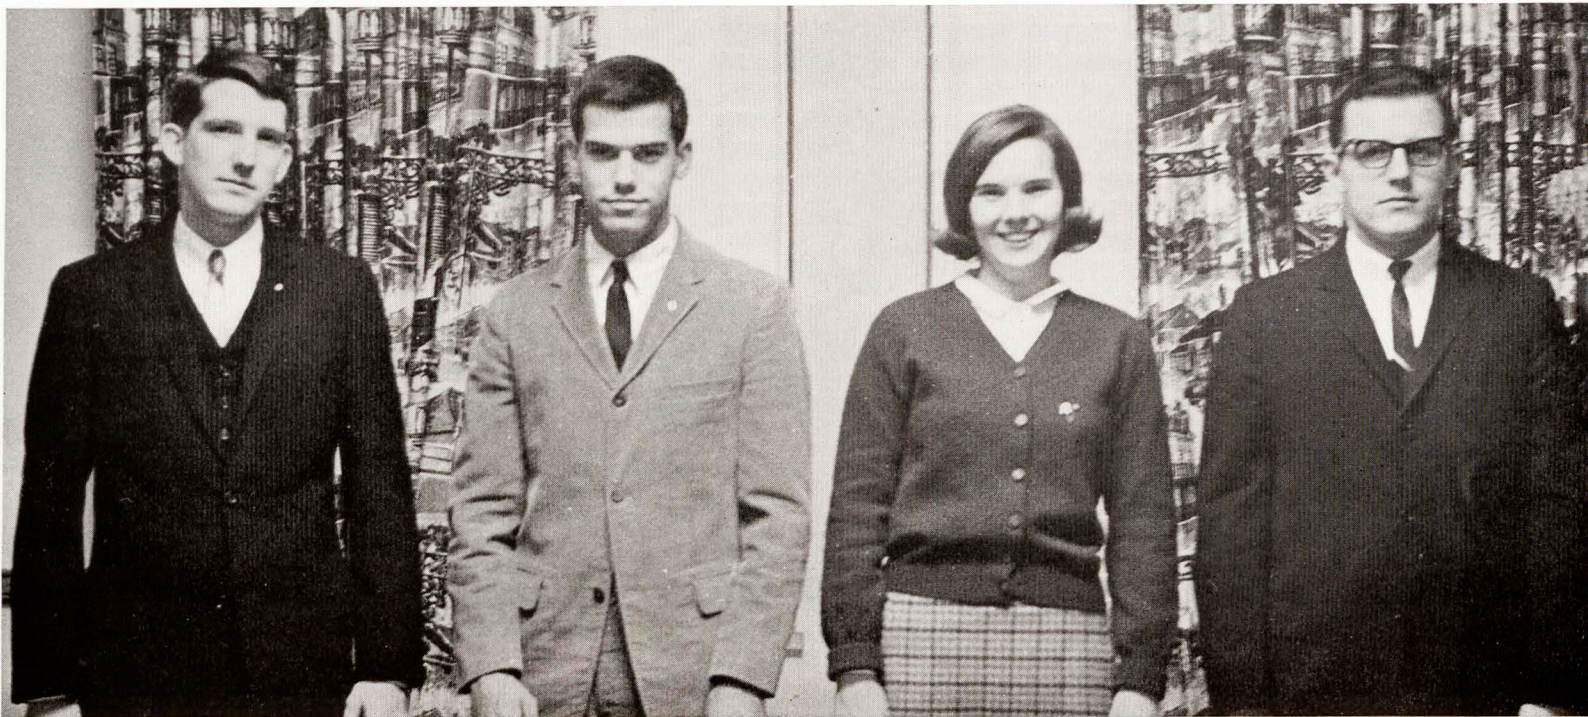

Student government is divided into three branches: executive, legislative, and judicial. The executive and legislative arms are elected; the judicial branch is appointed.

Elected at large by the entire student body, the President, Vice-President, Secretary, and Treasurer compose the executive branch.

ness, Gary Felker, Sue McFadden, Mary Nell Helbron, Mary Nell Donahue, Joanna Pinson, Pat Rotenberry. Fourth Row: Vince Long, J. D. McConnell, Jim Coffield, Mac Glover, Jim McBurnett, James Langley, David Malone.

STUDENT OFFICERS: Skipper Martin, Treasurer; Dick Holbert, Vice-President; Diane Allen, Secretary; Sammy Hilburn, President.

The legislative arm, the Student Senate, consists of delegates of the various colleges according to enrollment; each college is assured one senator regardless of its enrollment.

The Judicial branch of the student government is composed of a Student Court and an Attorney General. The Attorney General is responsible for the prosecution of all student offenses over which the Court has jurisdiction. However, many disciplinary issues are handled by the University Discipline Board, an arm of the Student Court.

(Editor's Note: For those interested, this has been an active, controversial year for student government. The important fact is that interest has been stimulated in many directions, and it is this new interest that will better serve the future of student government.)

BARNEY'S DREAM—A NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP

John Barnhill personifies the heart and soul of the University athletic program. He does because he built it. For eighteen years his dedication and administrative talent has guided Arkansas athletics into one of the finest programs in the nation. The entire state knows of his achievements and recognized them by inducting him into the Arkansas Hall of Fame. The Razorbacks have excelled because of his driving desire for excellence. This year Barney was rewarded for his many efforts.

THEY DID EXCEL

This was a year of excellence in Arkansas football, and this success is a direct result of the Razorback assistants. Every man on the staff is an expert in his particular area of concern. For many former assistants, Arkansas was a place to show ability and then move on to a head coaching position. The University has a reputation of developing some of the finest young coaches in America.

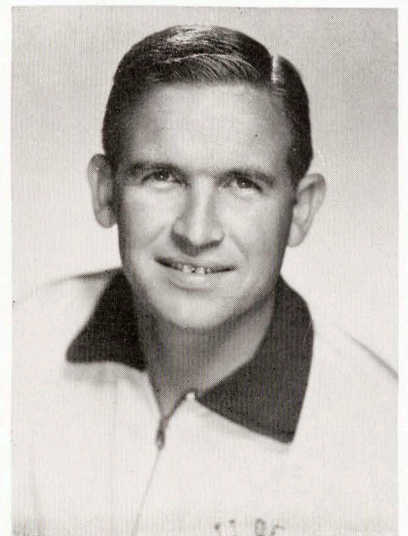

The staff of assistants at Arkansas certainly plays an integral part in the success or failure of athletics. And, just as the past season was a reward for Barney, so it was for the Razorback assistants.

THE GRANTLAND RICE YEAR

ARKANSAS 14 — OKLAHOMA STATE 10

Inspired by their own determination, Arkansas entered War Memorial Stadium ready to carry on the "Razorbacks" tradition. Dedicated to overcoming last year's mistakes, encouraged by the preceding spring and early fall practices, the Hogs rose to the occasion and handed Oklahoma State University a 14-10 defeat. There was no doubt about it, Arkansas's I-formation accomplished its goal on the ground, but left doubts about its soundness in the air and on the goal line.

In the first period two interceptions and a 42-yard punt return had left the Razorbacks much to be desired. The Cowboys got close enough one time to try a field goal that failed.

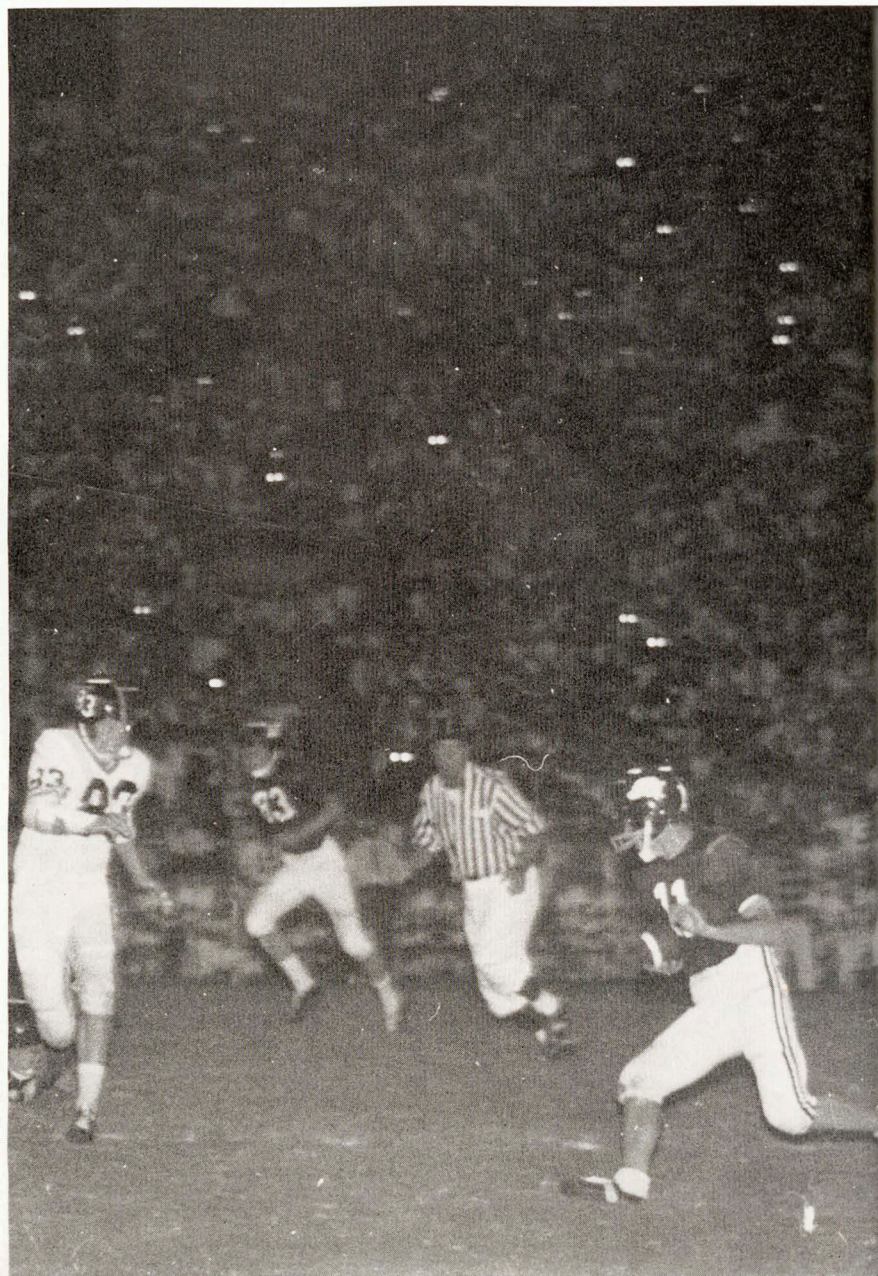

It was not until Ken Hatfield's punt return, in the second period, that Arkansas mounted a scoring drive.

After intermission O.S.U. roared back to knot the score at 7-7. The Razorbacks then drove 64 yards in 13 plays to make the score 14-7. O.S.U. was not to be denied another chance. Following a Hog fumble, at their 36, the Cowboys marched to the Arkansas 20 but had to settle for a 37-yard field goal.

Quarterback Billy Gray keeps the ball and carries around end for a first down on the Oklahoma State 35 yard line in the season opener.

ARKANSAS 31 — TULSA 22

Tulsa's Golden Hurricanes were next, and blew into Fayetteville on the passing arm of Jerry Rhome. The Hurricanes established themselves with a 14-0 lead midway in the second period. Ronnie Caveness picked off one of Tulsa's passes at the Hurricane 12 and returned it for a touchdown. Within seconds, Caveness recovered a fumble at Tulsa's 30 yard strip. Here the Hog machine failed to jell, and they left the field at intermission behind only 14-10 after Tom McKnelly's 44-yard field goal.

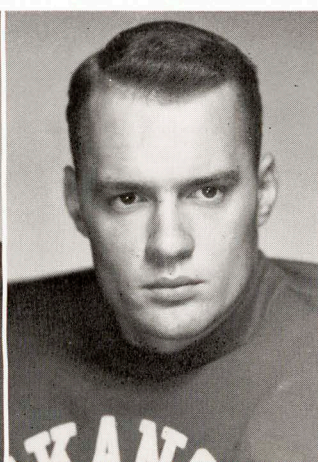

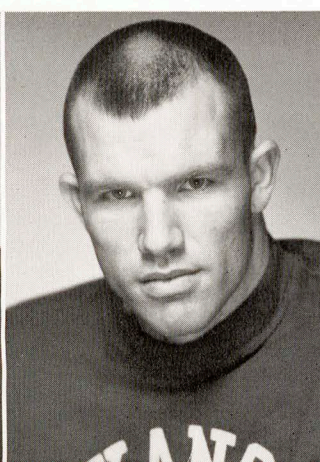

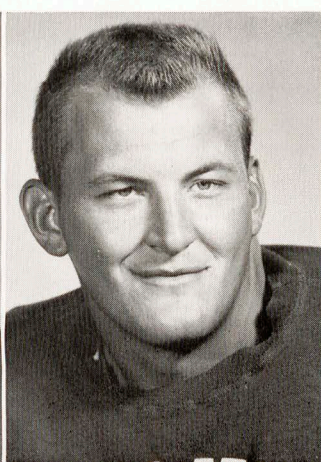

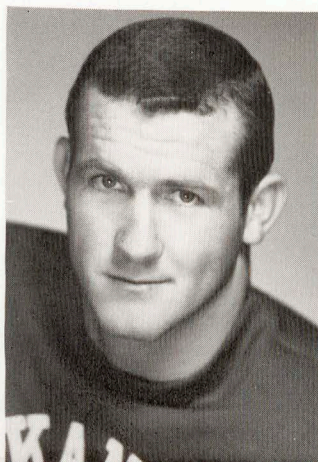

In the second half, Tulsa simply beat themselves with two short punts and a lapse in their defense. The only time they were to threaten or mount any kind of drive was late in the game against the Hog reserves. The final score read 31-22, but Arkansas was truly lucky to survive the first half Hurricane assault.

ARKANSAS 29 — TEXAS CHRISTIAN 6

Untried and unsure, Arkansas entered their Southwest Conference opener with Texas Christian University, and emerged with a 29-6 victory. Lloyd Phillips, Jim Williams, and Bobby Roper established themselves in the defensive forward wall, while Fred Marshall gained control of the quarterback chores.

It was not until mid-way in the second quarter that either team was able to mount a scoring drive. Finally Arkansas gained possession at the T. C. U. 47-yard line and proceeded to score, with Marshall sneaking in from the one to make the halftime score 7-0.

After intermission the Razorbacks had an opportunity when the Frogs fumbled at their own 15, but failed to score. Arkansas scored; the Frogs again received the kick-off, and marched 80 yards in 7 plays to make the score 14-7. After kicking off to the Porkers, the Frogs intercepted a Marshall pass, but on their first play Gray returned the favor. T.C.U. held and forced the Razorbacks to kick. On T.C.U.'s second play, Harry Jones intercepted a pass and returned it for a touchdown. After another Hog score, McKnelly converted a flubbed center into a two-point conversion.

With Ronnie Caveness clearing the way, Harry Jones heads for pay dirt. The 29-6 final was the first conference win for the Porkers.

Quarterback Fred Marshall (Southwest Conference Back-of-the-Year) called the signals during the Baylor game, a second conference win.

ARKANSAS 17 — BAYLOR 6

The Razorbacks returned to Little Rock the following week and established themselves as solid S.W.C. contenders with a 17-6 triumph over Baylor. They continuously pounded the Bears, but it was not until late in the game that a victory could be safely predicted.

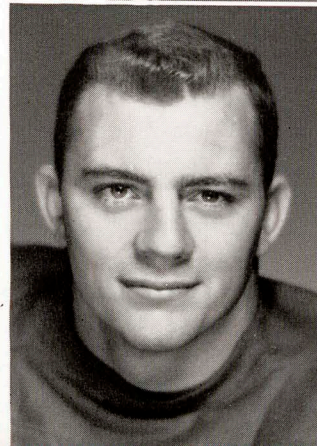

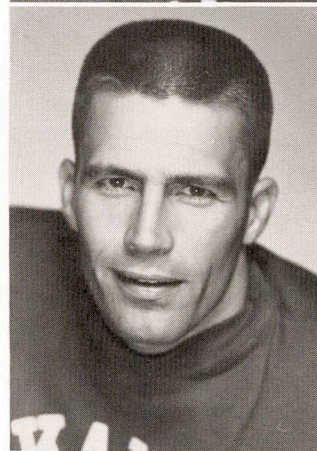

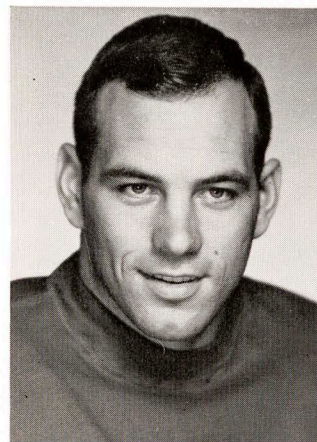

The first half was marked only by the opening drives of both teams, which resulted in scores, and by Baylor's interception of a Marshall pass that was returned 72 yards, fumbled, and regained by the Hogs. At intermission the only difference was the P.A.T. that Charlie Daniels blocked giving Arkansas a 7-6 advantage.

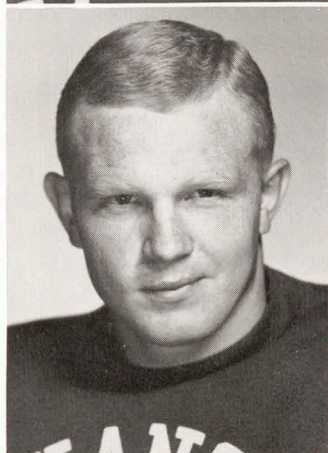

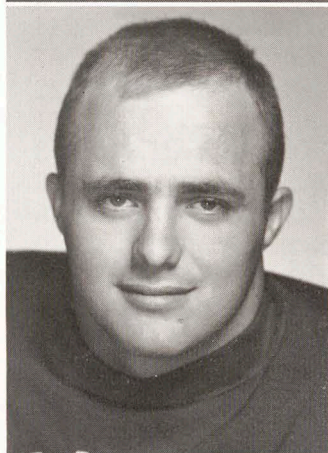

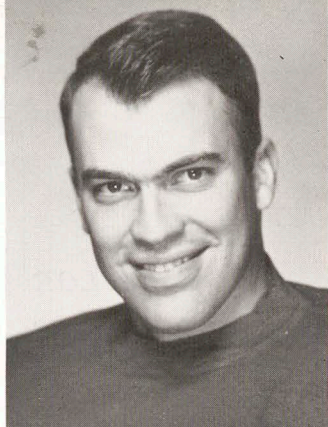

Again in the second half, Arkansas continued to make mistake after mistake on the goal line. Five times the Razorbacks got inside the Baylor 10 and the total production was only ten points. The final score was 17-6 setting the stage for the Texas game.

ARKANSAS 14 — TEXAS 13

With the eyes of the Southwest Conference, along with those of the nation, focused on Austin, the fifth-ranked Hogs entered the game with the nation's number one team — Texas. Before a sellout crowd, the Hogs dethroned the national champs of 1963 and established themselves as the team to beat in the Conference.

The two giants entered into a battle that could very easily be analyzed by two key plays. After Texas failed to move at their own 34, Koy retreated to punt. He lofted one down to the Razorback 19 where Ken Hatfield gathered it in and raced 81 yards for the only score of the first half.

Late in the third quarter Texas tied the score on a 46-yard drive. After the kickoff, Arkansas drove 75 yards for a touchdown, climaxed by Marshall's 34-yard pass to Bobby Crockett. Texas roared back 70 yards to paydirt.

The score stood 14-13 with 1:27 left to play. Texas went for the win. But the Razorback defense rose to the occasion and broke up the intended two-point conversion.

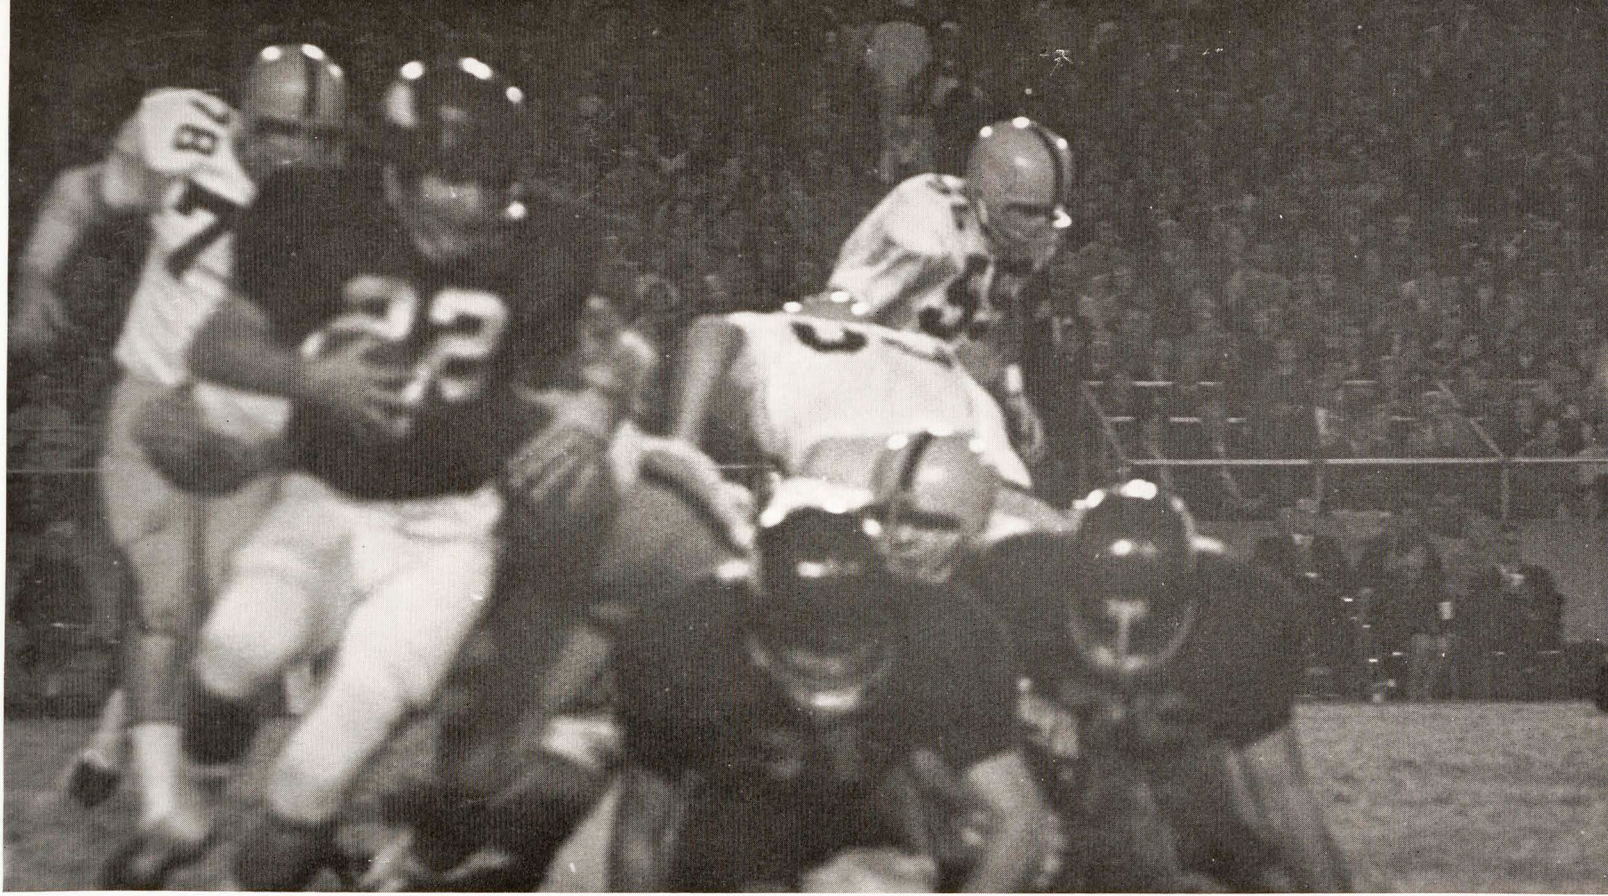

The Razorbacks stood 5-0 after the 14-13 win over Texas with four conference foes left.

The nation's leading punt returner, Ken Hatfield carried the ball from the Razorback 19 for the score that gave the Hogs victory over Texas.

The Razorbacks paid their last visit to Little Rock for their non-conference bout with Wichita. Arkansas dominated play in the first half, gaining possession of the ball four times and scoring on two of these possessions. The Hogs domination was so complete that they allowed the Wheatshockers to cross midfield only once, while amassing 200 yards total offense themselves.

Freddy Marshall led the first assault on the Wichita goal, directing an 89-yard drive. Later in the second period, the Hogs started their second drive, going 66 yards mainly on Jim Lindsey's 34-yard scamper. Arkansas had a comfortable 14-0 halftime lead.

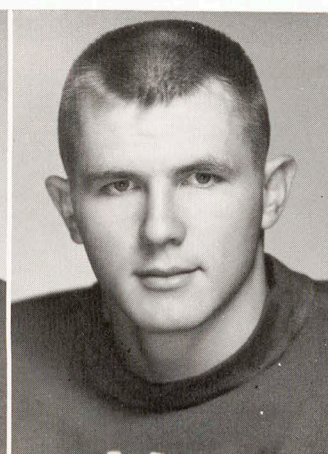

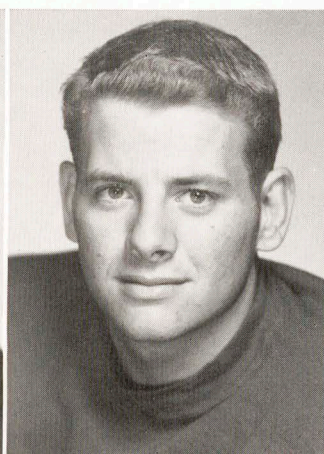

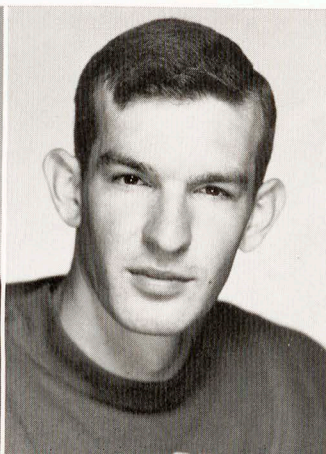

In the second half Arkansas rode the toe of Bobby Nix and the famous monster defense of Jim MacKenzie. Late in the fourth period the Razorbacks found themselves deep in Wichita territory and added their final points through the kicking ability of Tom McKnelly.

ARKANSAS 17 — TEXAS A & M 0

The Razorbacks traveled to College Station next. Within minutes after the opening kickoff, the Hogs had swept the field for a 10-0 first quarter lead.

Arkansas stopped A & M after an exchange of punts, and quickly moved for its first touchdown on the passing and running of Marshall and Lindsey. The drive covered 82 yards with two 17-yard passes by Marshall and a fine 20-yard scamper by Lindsey. The Aggies failed to move on their next possession, and Arkansas settled for a 33-yard field goal by McKnelly.

A few minutes later the Hogs had covered 61 yards in 6 plays for the final score of the half and the game.

The Razorbacks returned to the field for the second half, with the only action being that of the A & M fans who halted the game three times. Two successive home games were welcomed by Arkansas.

ARKANSAS 21 — RICE 0

Pre-season choice for conference honors, the Rice Owls, were soundly defeated in what many call the finest Dad's Day game ever played by Arkansas. The Hogs were in such complete control that they allowed Rice three first downs in each half, and the Owls crossed the midfield stripe only once.

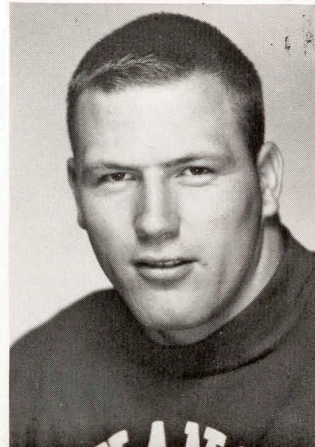

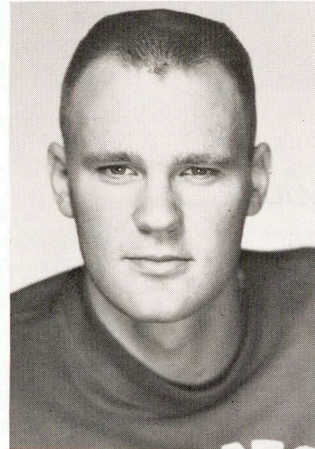

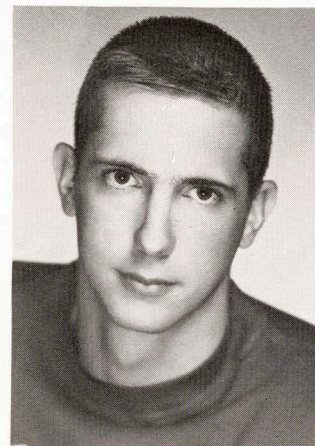

The Hogs were not to be denied. After several punt exchanges, they mounted a sustained drive that was climaxed by Bobby Burnett's dive for paydirt early in the second quarter.

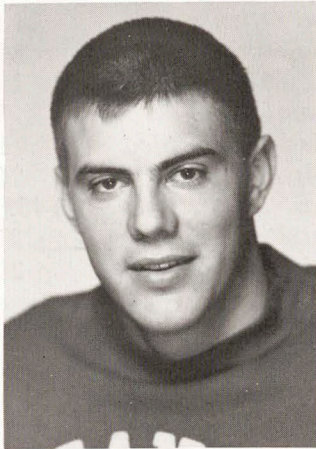

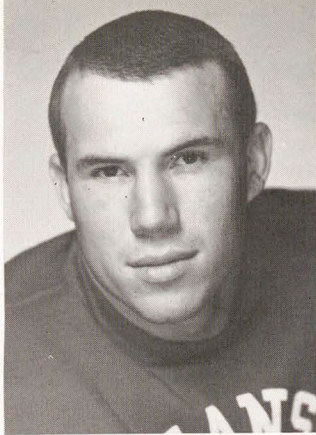

The third quarter was similar to the first half except for a missed field goal by McKnelly. However, the final period provided the excitement the fans had awaited. After a 51-yard punt by Nix, Harry Jones intercepted an Owl pass and returned it 35 yards for the score. Rice faltered again, and the Razorbacks moved in for their final score as Burnett sailed in for his second touchdown. Rice was beaten — S.M.U. and Texas Tech remained.

Offense was the keynote of the 43rd Homecoming game, as the Razorbacks raced to their ninth win of the season and tenth straight victory. The Hogs scored in almost every conceivable way. A 65-yard drive netted the first score with Marshall passing four times the final to Lindsey for the score. In the second period Lindsey again carried the pigskin in for the score. Arkansas struck again late in the half leaving the score 21-0 at intermission.

In the third quarter the Hogs scored 17 points on Tom McKnelly's 23-yard field goal, a blocked punt and Burnett's second touchdown. Arkansas' last score came late in the game on Hatfield's 78-yard punt return which climaxed the game for Arkansas and sealed its fourth straight shutout, its ninth victory, and assured at least a tie for the conference title.

Bobby Burnett clutches the ball and grinds out more yardage against a Mustang defender. It was a successful 44-0 afternoon for the Hogs.

ARKANSAS 17 — TEXAS TECH 0

Not since the 1909 season has an Arkansas team had so much to gain by a victory or so much to lose with a loss. The charged atmosphere was quite evident as Arkansas placed its undefeated record on the line at Lubbock.

As the game started, the Razorbacks placed their tremendous defence up against the conference's top offense, and as the first half ended, the Raiders' offense was in complete charge — having attempted two field goals, both of which were blocked! A change occurred at halftime, as the fourteen seniors convinced the squad that all was not lost.

Arkansas received the second half kickoff and drove 69 yards with Burnett leaping in from six yards out. Tech failed on its next opportunity. The Hogs moved again, only to be stopped as McKnelly tried a field goal which was fumbled. After a Tech fumble Marshall retreated and passed deep into the end zone. Everyone thought Tech had intercepted, but Jerry Lamb jarred the ball loose and the Hogs had their second score. McKnelly added a field goal late in the final quarter as the Razorbacks finished their 1964 season undefeated — The greatest season ever.

THE COTTON BOWL

ARKANSAS 10 — NEBRASKA 7

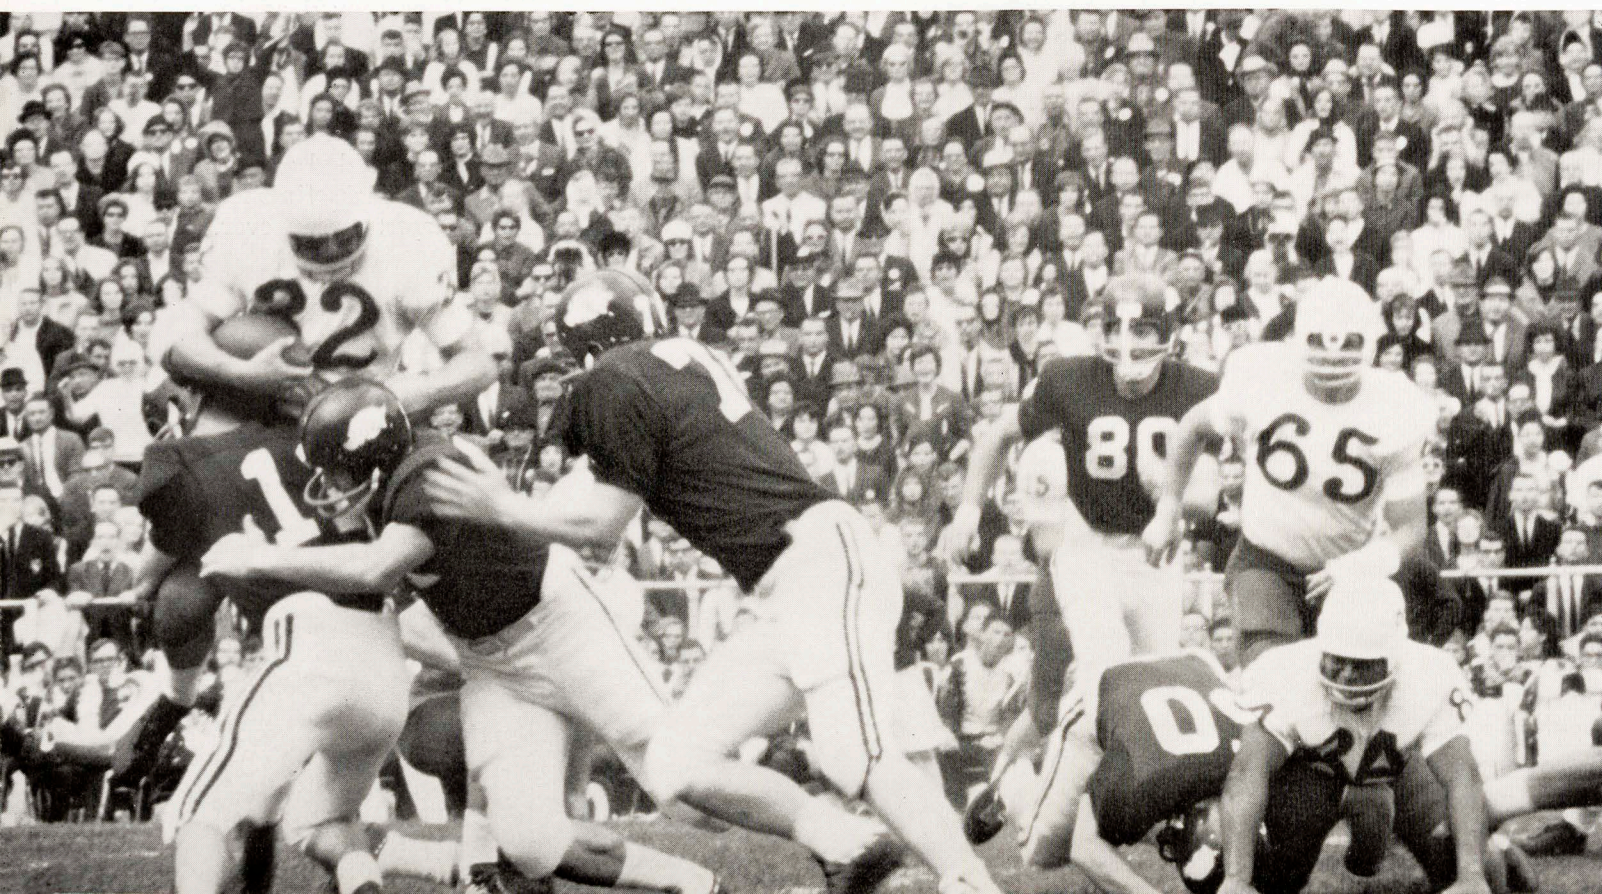

Arkansas entered the 29th Cotton Bowl Classic with one main idea — that of winning. With the prestige of an undefeated season, the Razorbacks were out to get the only honor that had evaded them in their long gridiron history — a Cotton Bowl victory. In their past engagements the Hogs had failed to bring home the coveted victor's trophy — but that was not the case this time as they handed Nebraska a 10-7 defeat.

Nebraska received the opening kick-off and failed to move as the fantastic Arkansas defense forced the Cornhuskers to punt. Now it was the Razorbacks' chance as they drove 42 yards and climaxed the drive with Tom McKnelly's 46th point of the season, on a 31-yard field goal. Both teams exchanged the ball several times through the quarter in a wild bizarre of fumbles, pass interceptions, and punts. It was not until the second quarter that either team was able to move again as Nebraska completed a 36-yard pass, placing the ball on the Arkansas 6. From there the Cornhuskers crashed in for a touchdown making the half-time score 7-3.

Dallas, Texas . . . New Year's Day . . . Arkansas Razorbacks meet Nebraska Cornhuskers . . . Defense is vital . . . The Hogs rise to the occasion.

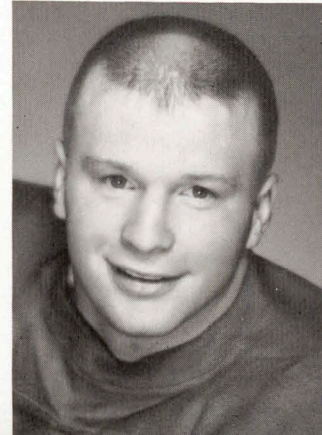

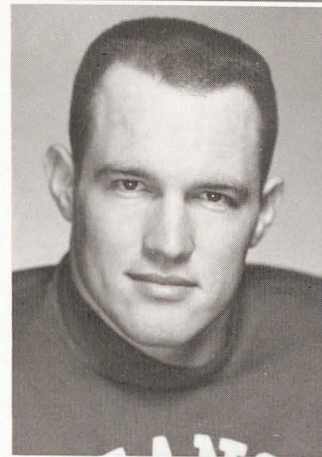

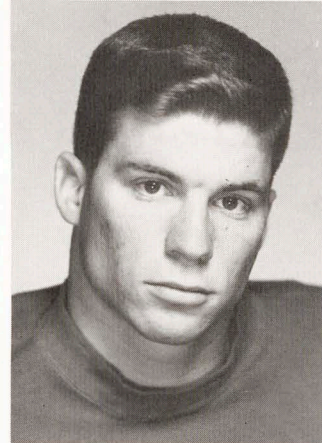

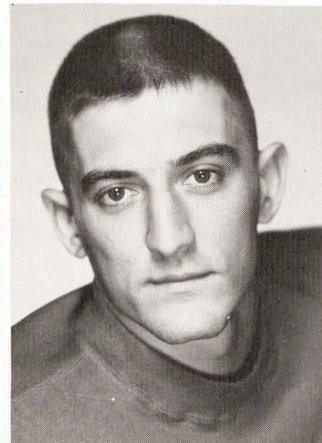

Arkansas' first score in the Cotton Bowl was a 31-yard field goal off the toe of Tom McNelly; it was McNelly's 46th point of the season.

Both teams returned to the field still feeling the pains of the first-half conflict. As the second half unfolded it appeared that the 7-3 half-time score might stand up as the nation's number one defense, Nebraska, and the SWC's best defense, Arkansas, continuously bottled up each other's offense. However, 75,000 fans still had plenty of excitement left as the final period started.

The Razorbacks got possession of the ball midway in the quarter on their own 20-yard stripe. They were eighty yards from the goal with only 9:51 left in the game. But Frank Broyles patented offense had committed itself to a purpose. Riding the passing arm of Fred Marshall, selected Back of the Day, the Hogs marched down the field, first on a pass to Lamb, then to Burnett. The ball was now at mid-field as Marshall retreated and hit Lindsey with a pass. After a weaving 10-yard run, Marshall again passed to Lindsey who carried it down to the Cornhuskers 5. Bobby Burnett sailed into the end-zone from there and McNelly added the final point.

Spectacular defensive play by the entire Hog unit highlighted the final moments of the game. With Nebraska filling the air with passes and mounting a crushing land attack, the Razorbacks grouped to stop them at mid-field. It was a perfect ending for the second ranked Razorbacks and established them as contenders for the Grantland Rice Trophy — which they later received!

THE MISSING ELEMENT: A WINNING STREAK

Glen Rose, sometimes referred to as the "Sage of the Ozarks," opened his 22nd season as Razorback cage coach with Arkansas predicted as a darkhorse by many of the pre-season pollsters. But these predictions failed to materialize, as the Hogs were again faced with the same problems of the past several years: lack of speed and experience, and the all important "big man". Throughout the season the Razorbacks were at a disadvantage as the starting five was usually composed of four juniors and a sophomore, with the tallest being only 6'5".

With the influx of several promising sophomores and a fine crop of juniors, the Razorback cagers anxiously awaited the 1964-1965 season. Led by the high scorer this season, Ricky Sugg, and the rebounding of J. D. McConnell and John Talkington, the Hogs opened the season against the highly touted Kansas Jayhawks in Barnhill Fieldhouse December 2nd. However, the lack of the "big man" proved to be the difference as K.U. raced to a 65-60 win.

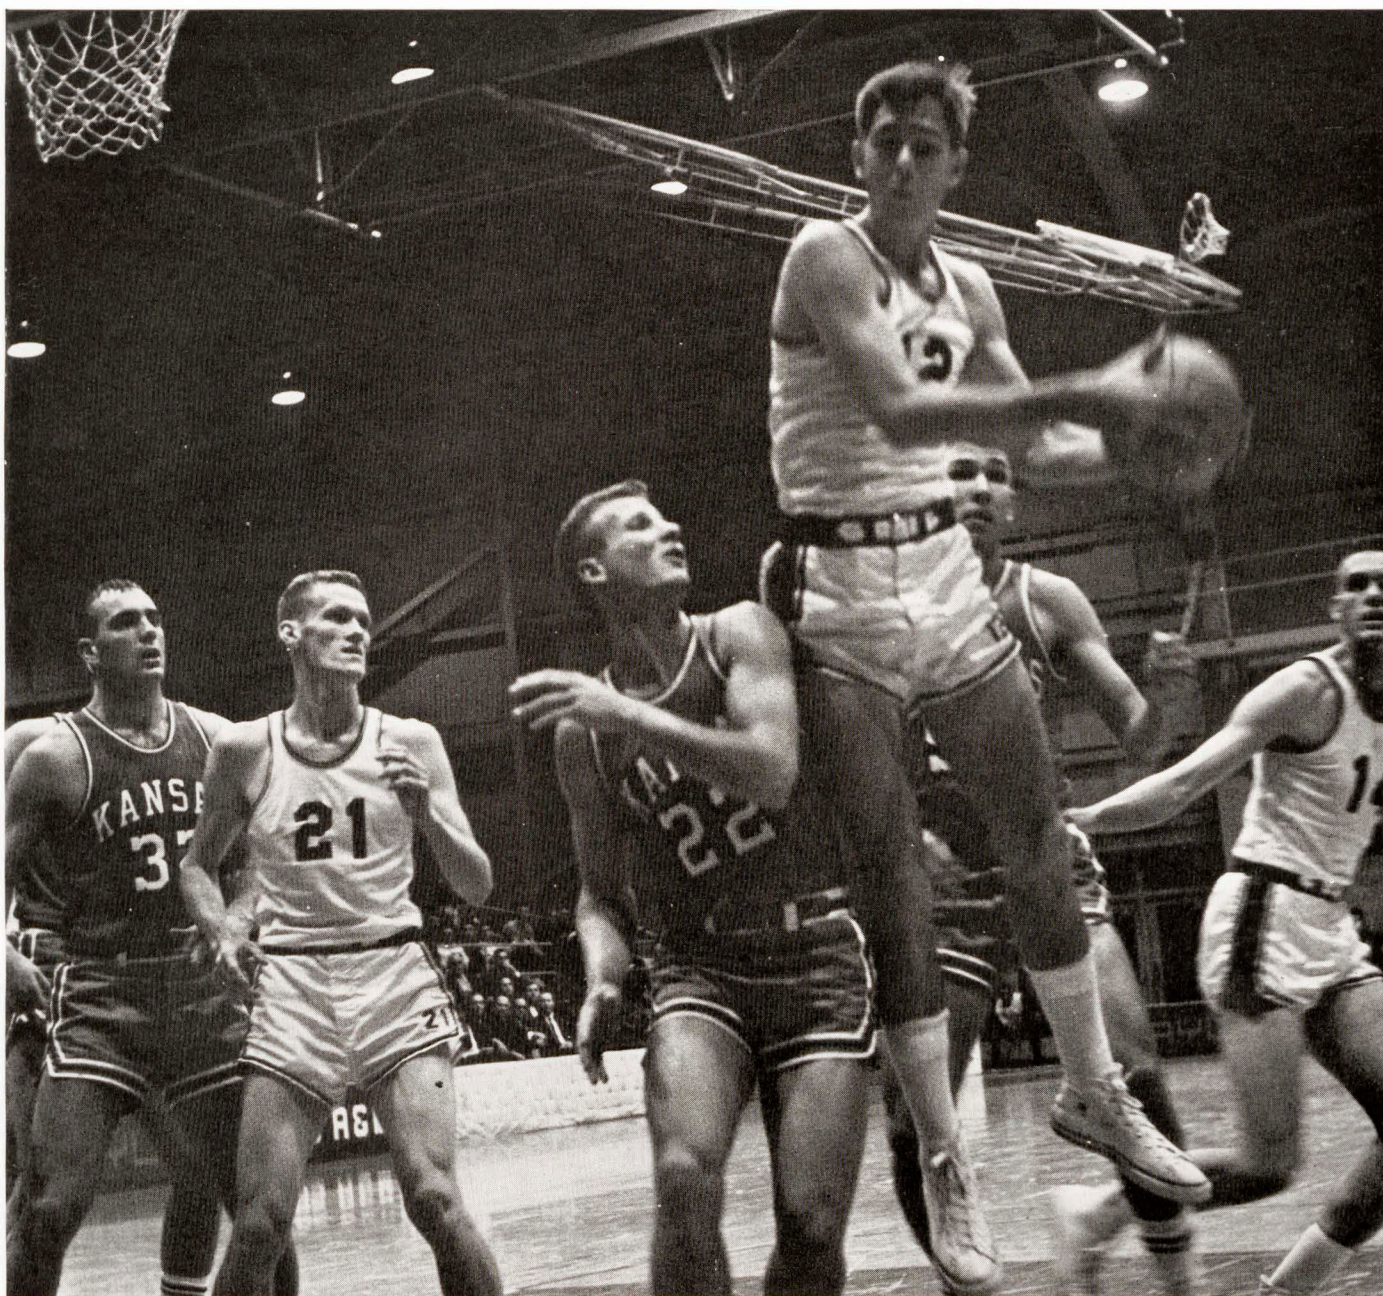

The following Saturday the Hogs faced their second Big Eight opponent, Missouri and jumped off to a quick 39-35 halftime lead, but the Tigers cracked the Razorback zone defense midway through the second half and downed them 81-71, in Columbia.

Arkansas' victory hungry Razorbacks next traveled to Stillwater to meet the Oklahoma State Cowboys, but the Hogs were not to win as O.S.U. handed them their third defeat 66-52. They returned home and gained the long awaited first victory over Hardin-Simmons 68-63. Next, came the University of Tulsa, as the Hogs paced by J. D. McConnell with 20 points and Steve Rousseau with 19, led the Arkansas attack in a game that saw a fourteen point Arkansas lead dwindle away to a one point defeat with 2:15 left in the game. A shot by McConnell and then one by Rousseau with 24 seconds left gave the Hogs a 65-64 victory.

The Hogs then entertained the Phillip "66ers" in Little Rock. Arkansas again pulled a mild upset as they defeated the "66ers" 72-70.

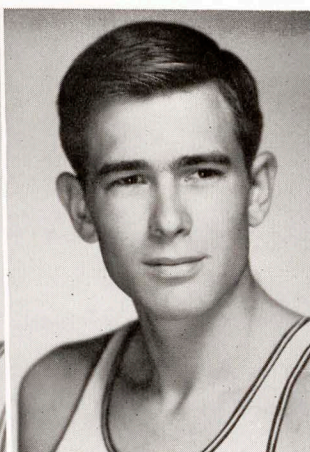

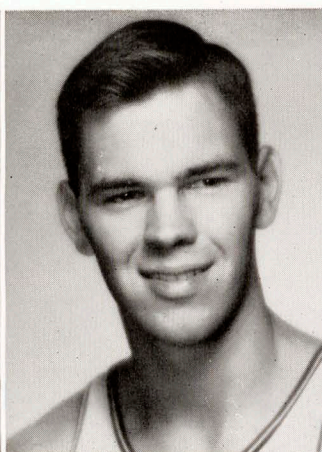

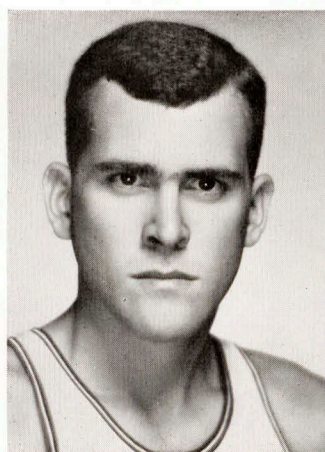

The Porkers next action was in the Gulf South Classic in Shreveport with Centenary, Ole Miss, and V.M.I. In the first game Arkansas played their old nemesis Ole Miss.

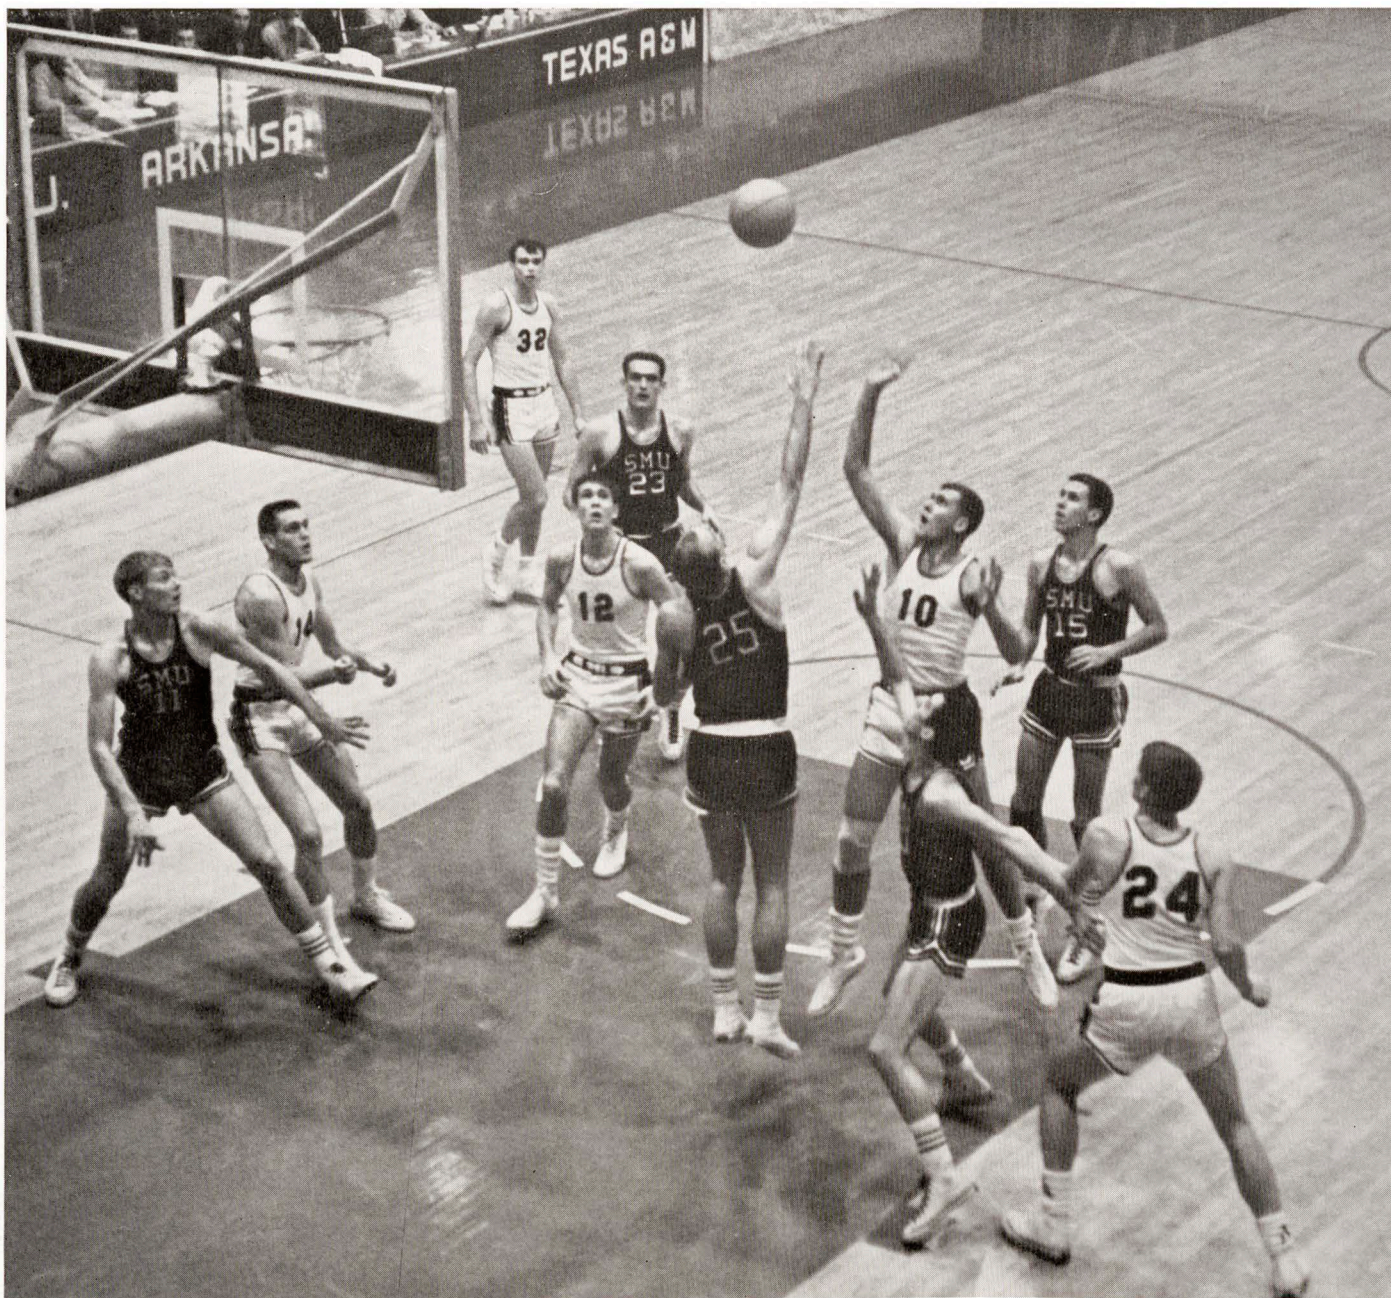

Junior Steve Rousseau, the ever-present little guard, goes up for two points against hapless Rice Owls.

The Hogs handled the Rebels easily by a score of 82-48 and established their longest and only winning streak of the season. V.M.I. joined in the action the following night and ended Arkansas' hope for grandeur as they defeated the Razorbacks 72-70 in one of the hardest fought games of the season.

With the non-conference warfare temporarily ended, Arkansas trotted to an easy 88-70 victory over the Texas Christian University Horned Frogs, in both schools' opening Southwest Conference games. The Arkansas cagers then tried for their second win of the young conference season against the pre-season choice for conference laurels, the Texas Tech Red Raiders. The Hogs had never won in Lubbock and tradition was not to be broken as Tech defeated the Hogs 93-78. The Hogs returned to Fayetteville and entertained the Rice Owls and, to the pleasure of the partisan crowd, Arkansas throttled the Owl attack and marched away with a decisive 79-61 victory.

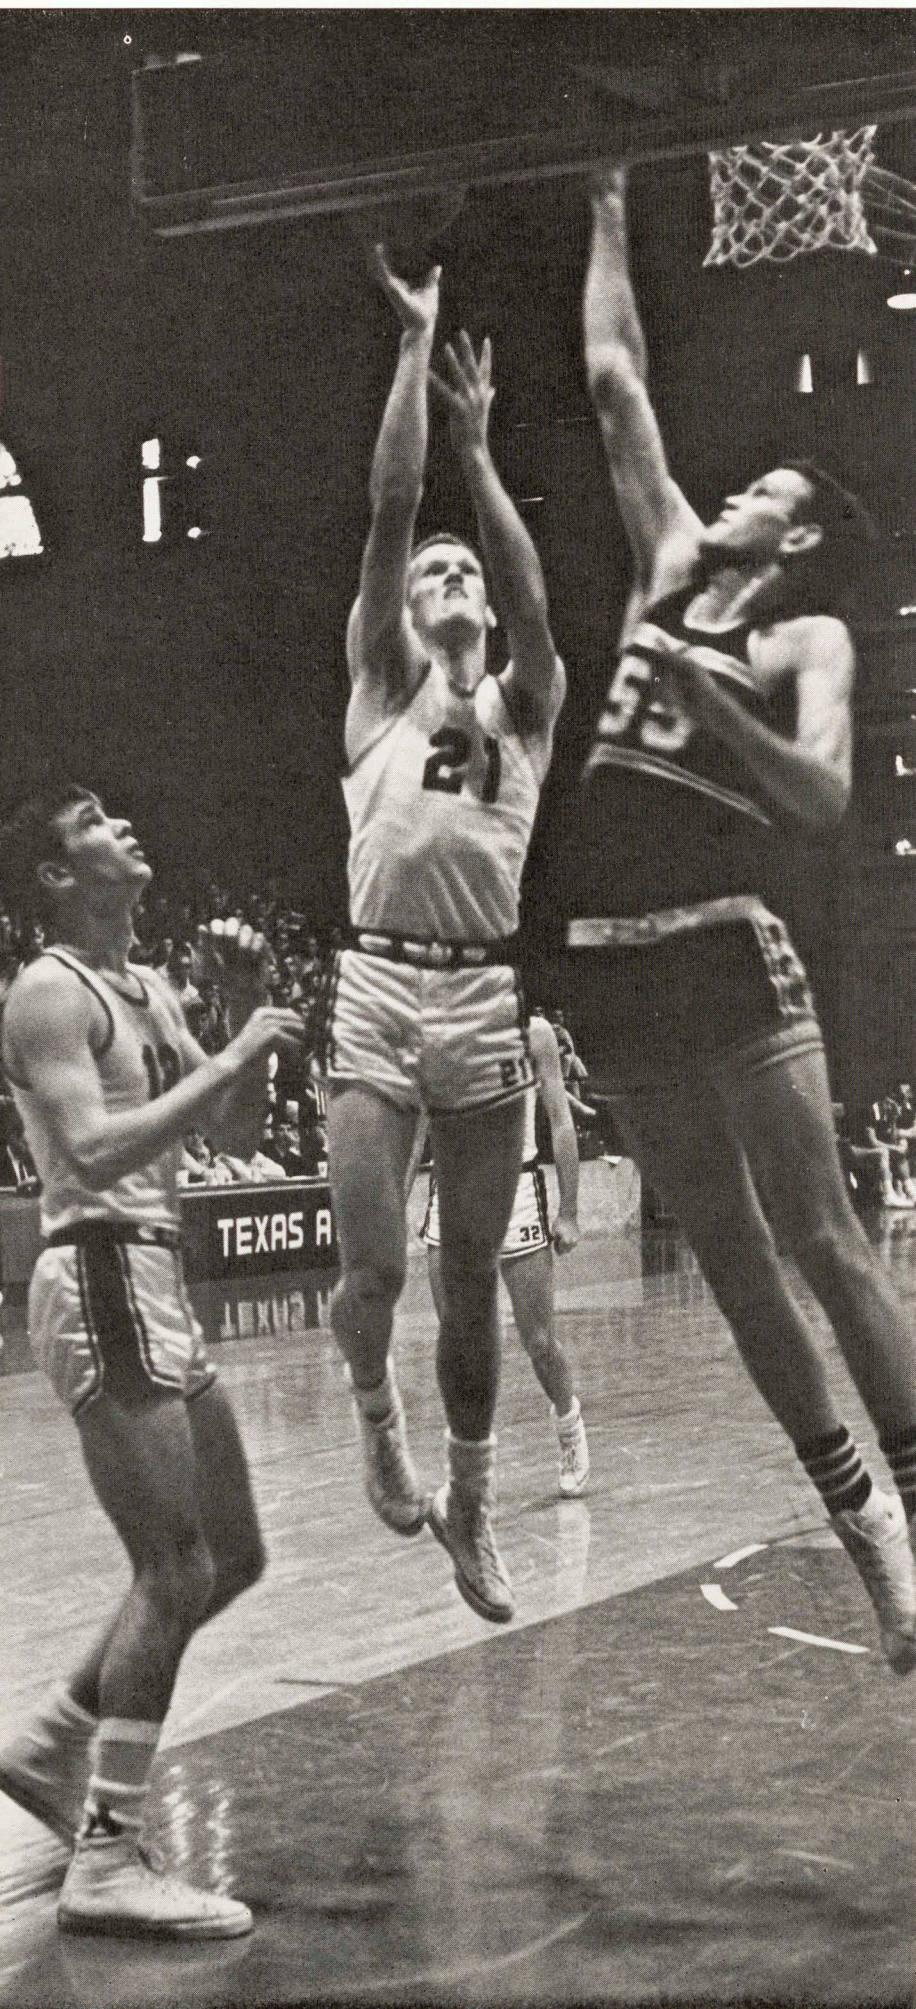

In the final appearance before semester tests, the Porkers traveled to Waco to battle the Baylor Bears. Yet, to the disappointment of the fans and the players themselves, the Bears waltzed away with a 85-75 victory. After tests Arkansas traveled, first to Starkville, Mississippi, and dealt Mississippi State a 84-69 defeat, then to Atlanta, Georgia to be defeated 93-83 by Georgia Tech.

The Razorback title hopes were lost as Texas A&M and Southern Methodist defeated Arkansas in the same week. In the A&M game, the Porkers had a five-point lead with 2:12 left in the game after a great comeback effort. But the Aggies used a three-point play, a tip-in, to pull even at the end of regulation play. A&M scored seven straight points in the overtime and coasted to a 82-79 victory.

Cook lets go with an outside shot as the Hogs dropped their opener against Kansas.

ARKANSAS BASKETBALL: A FRUSTRATING YEAR

In the second conference loss of the week, S.M.U. starved off another second half catch-up maneuver by the Razorbacks and went on to win 84-76. It was the largest home crowd of the season as the fans saw the last hope for conference honors fall.

With some of the pressure of the conference race gone after the S.M.U. defeat, the Hogs assumed the role of would-be "spoiler". However, the role was not fulfilled as the Razorbacks traveled to Austin and were swatted down by the Texas Longhorns 81-65.

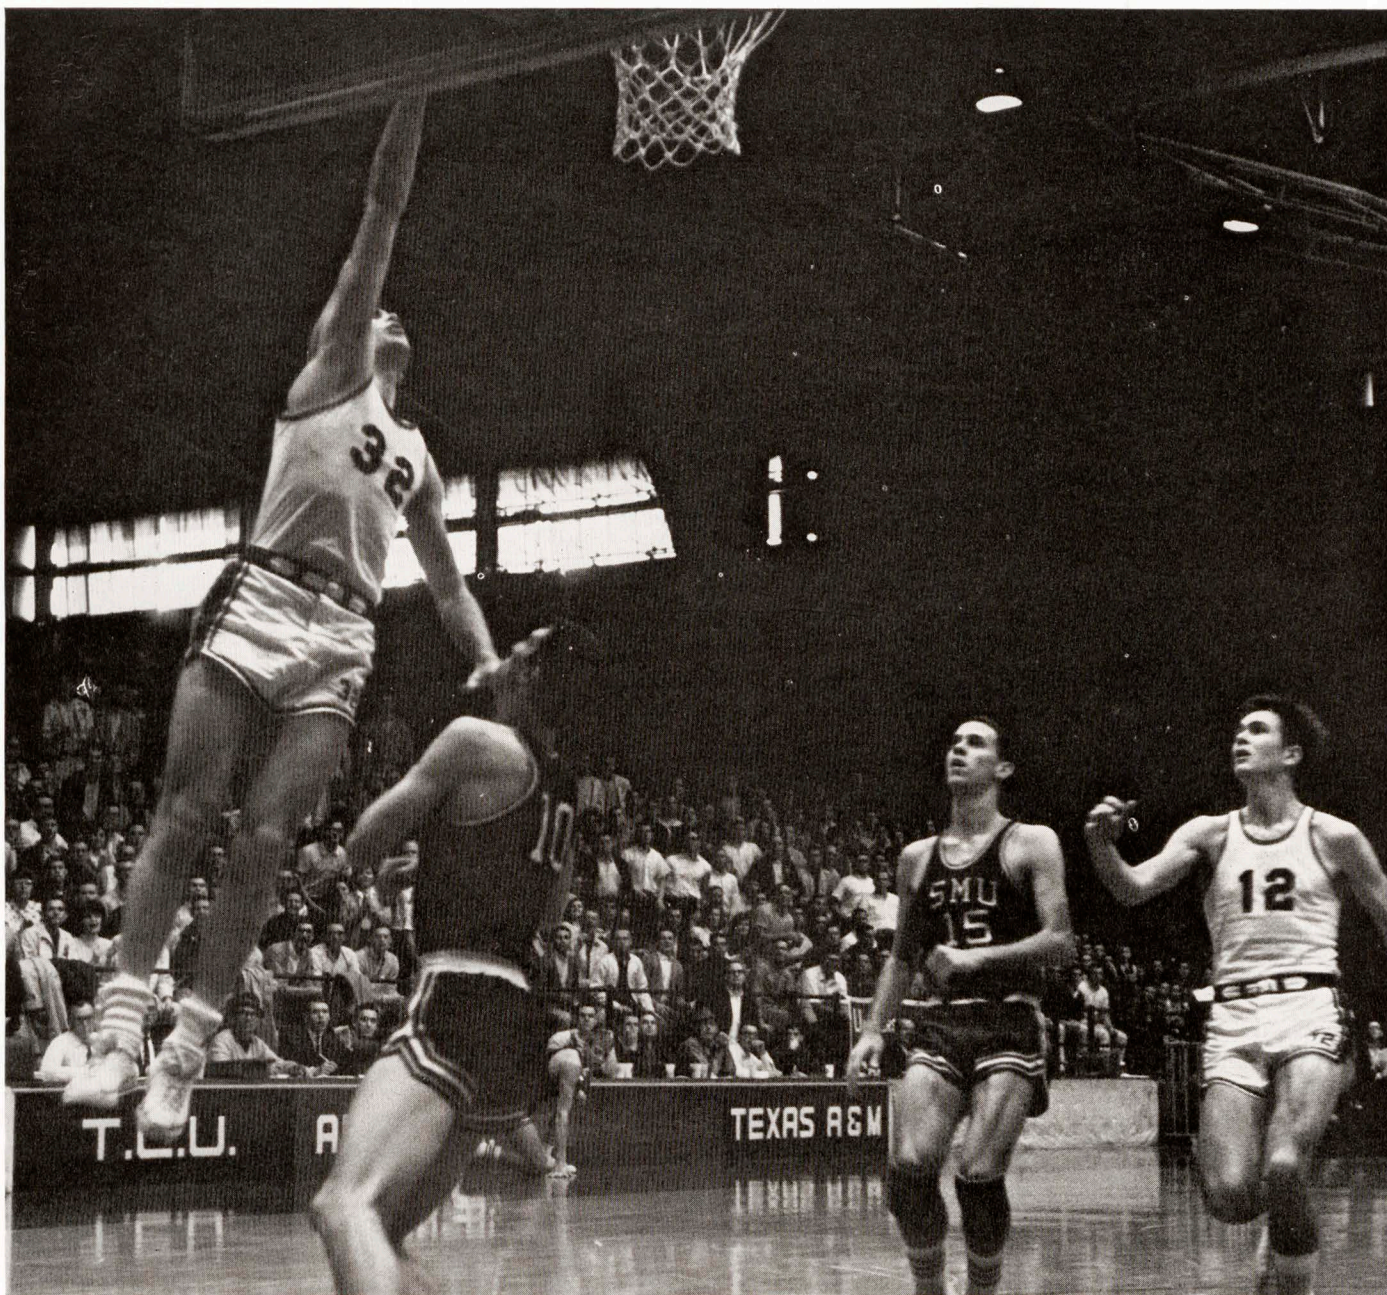

Nineteen straight points by J. D. McConnell in the first fifteen minutes of play paced the Razorback cagers to a 46-31 halftime lead and an eventual 96-72 victory over T.C.U. This victory kept the Porkers out of the conference cellar. Glen Rose's Razorbacks stopped their down-hill slide with the victory over T.C.U. and spoiled Baylor's chances for the SWC title with a stunning 78-73 victory. With these two victories the Porkers established their second winning streak of the season with a record which now read 9-10, almost to that beloved .500 mark.

After the two fine and well deserved victories over T.C.U. and Baylor, the Hogs traveled to College Station to again battle the Aggies of Texas A&M. However, the tall, sharp shooting Cadets manhandled the Razorbacks 91-77.

The Hogs then returned to Little Rock for their second appearance and also their second clash with the soon to be conference champions, Texas. The last time Arkansas met the Longhorns they were the laughing stock of Austin's Gregory Gym, but this was not the case, Texas had to use every trick to survive another Arkansas second half rally that fell only two points shy, 74-72.

The Porker cagers easily handled the Owls of Rice in Houston 84-77 without the services of McConnell, Cooper or Guest who were out with the flu. Arkansas returned to Fayetteville to do battle with the leaders, record-wise, Texas Tech. However, due to the ineligibility of a player the Raiders had to forfeit any right to the championship. This did not stop Tech though, as they roared to an 87-80 victory over the hapless Hogs in their final appearance before a Fayetteville crowd.

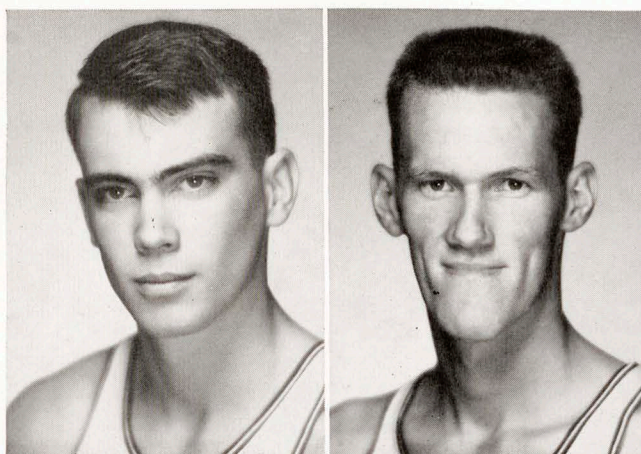

Arkansas' only senior, Jim Kisse, goes up for a tally in the Hogs second defeat of the Rice Owls.

Ricky Sugg uses a helping hand as he takes aim in the contest with Southern Methodist University, as Rowland follows up.

Arkansas closed out a mediocre basketball season against the Mustang's of Southern Methodist in Dallas. With only one senior on the squad the Razorbacks hoped to close the season on a successful note, but the Ponies, the conference co-champion, an NCAA representative, had other ideas as they soundly defeated the Porkers 88-75.

The Arkansas track team had weak showings in the relay events; cold, wet weather during the Arkansas Relays helped very little.

TRACK

Now serving his eleventh year at the University of Arkansas, Ab Bidwell developed a Razorback team that lacked the individual stars, but possessed a good amount of overall strength. A young team, it reached its peak late in the season as several boys began to show promise for future meets.

While not setting the world on fire by any stretch of the imagination, the 1965 Razorback thin-clads remain shy of depth or gold metal speed in the sprints, but once again the distance corps held the key to success. With the loss of Ed Renfrow, one of the best hurdlers in the nation last year, the Porkers hopes lie with Dodd Daggett, who finished third in S.W.C. frosh division, and Bobby Burnett, Arkansas' great tailback. The field events again showed promise of a few gold metals, especially in broad jump and in the pole vault, in which Barry Bearden won the Drake and Kansas Relays with vaults of 15'0".

BASEBALL

A spring of cold and rainy weather forced the Razorback baseballers to drop from their regular 25 game schedule to a 17 game slate. The team was forced to stay in most of the spring and missed the much needed practice and confidence gained only from work on the diamond.

The 1965 squad enjoyed the experience of nine returning letterman, providing a veteran mound staff, speed in the field, and power at the plate. There was also an abundant supply of senior leadership with sophomores filling in to round out the team. The starting lineup varied during the season as coaches Bill Farrell and "Duddy" Waller looked for better hitting from the outfield and more consistent defensive play in the infield.

GOLF

The Razorback golf squad carries a record of four ties and two losses into the Southwest Conference meet in the middle of May. The season mark was good enough for fourth place in the conference.

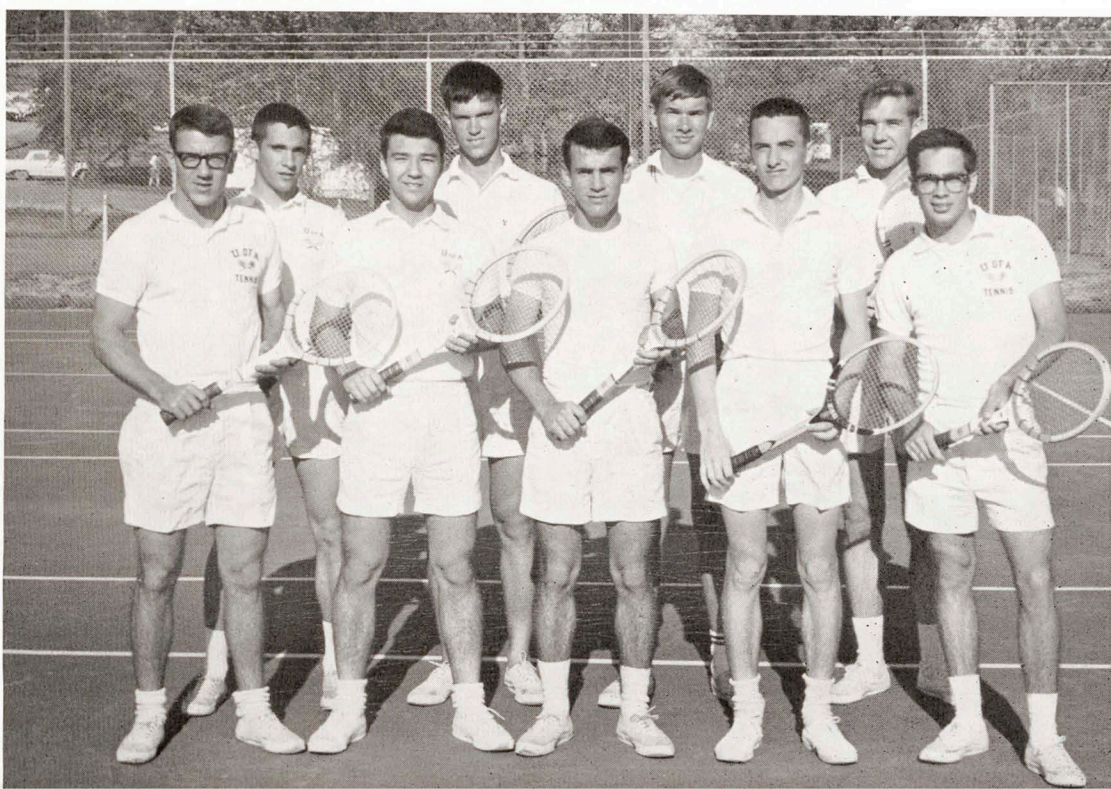

With Bill Hall pacing the team, the Porkers tied Texas Christian, Texas, the conference leader, Baylor, and Texas Tech, 3-3; while losing to Southern Methodist 4-2 and Texas A&M 6-0.

TENNIS

The Porker tennis squad managed to improve last seasons record, although only posting a mediocre 4-3 record. Two returning lettermen, Roy Murtishaw and Jim Cunningham, along with several fine sophomores offered hope for an improved program in the future.

The big guns for the Razorbacks this year were Don Setliff, the number one man on the squad, and Vince Long, another promising sophomore.

SHOAT SPORTS

The 1964-1965 Shoat football, basketball, and track teams compiled another fine set of records as the football team completed its third straight undefeated season; and the track team displayed promise of some record setters in the future.

Under Coach Jack Davis, the Shoat football team continued to secure the success of the Razorbacks for the future. Riding the crest of a highly successful recruiting season, and the example of the varsity, they combined a balance of outstanding offensive and defensive play that climaxed in a 5-0 record against a tough schedule.

Richard Baldwin and Bige Wray assaulted the records in Shoat basketball and track.

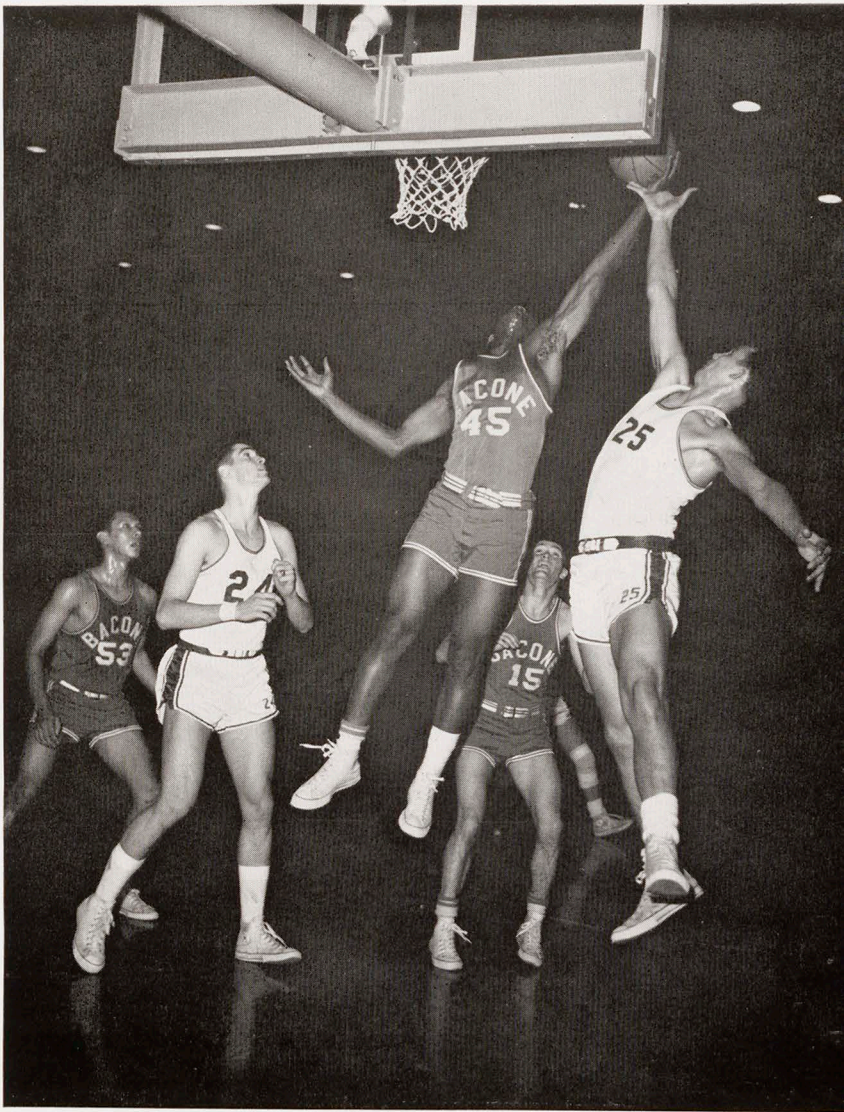

The Shoats mile relay team holds the Southwestern Conference mark which they defended in the conference meet in Lubbock.

The Shoat offense will provide strength for the varsity to help defend the the undefeated records compiled by both squads.

MEN'S INTRAMURALS

With the influx of a record number of teams in all intramural sports this year, the competition for the sweepstakes trophy was closer this year than in any of the past several years. Sigma Nu jumped off to an early lead by winning football and maintaining their lead as they swept basketball, defeating Sigma Chi in the playoff finals.

However, as the leagues moved into the final stages of competition with only four sports still in contention, Sigma Alpha Epsilon was leading the race with a total of 782, compared to 692 for Phi Delta Theta and 653 for Sigma Nu. The Alphas were able to grab the lead by sweeping many of the smaller sports along with the championship in volleyball.

In the AA league, newly founded, Alpha Kappa Lambda currently maintained a slim 24 point lead over the Mauraders of Phi Delt. In close pursuit of the two front runners were Farmhouse, Tau Kappa Epsilon, and the Sigma Chi Skibee's.

In independent competition the Sabers were in first place going into the final sports, with the Roadrunners, and Hustlers fighting for top position.

Under the capable direction of Dr. Richard Worthington, the "Marching Razorbacks" once more completed a very successful season. They marched at the home games and many out-of-town games. The pep rallies were memorable experiences due to the humor and good spirit the band displayed.

One of the highlights of the year was the band's trip to Dallas for the Cotton Bowl game. They marched in the parade and made a television appearance as well as performing in the half-time ceremonies.

Late year Bill Kidder and Kay Hafenbrak left the the Razorback with some fine workers. This year Nan Allmon and Jim Williams express all their thanks to Bill and Kay for the training and background they left with us.

Getting the Razorback out has been classified as being everything from hell to a Sunday afternoon project. I guess its all in the way one organizes. Nan and I began the year with the office over organized. Around Christmas we realized that not too much was being done, and tried to destroy our organization and get something done. This is where the trained helpers mentioned above saved our lives and the book.

Nan is going to give an almost honest bit on each of our staff members on those two pages where we try to say something that people will remember or care about, but I will go through the day laborers here so that they might receive adequate publicity.

The opening section, which I will try to explain on page 519, is the baby of Ellen Ann Ragsdale. It was rewritten by Barbara Hallam who did the Administration section.

fashion. And God bless Sue Smitherman for Organizations, which were ready before Nan and I realized that they went in the book.

In the area of living groups, Sandra Moore handled Dorms and Pat Weed messed with the Greeks. Both did a fine job; copy in on time and all that.

The Index kind of belongs to the Alpha Chi Omegas under the direction of Carolyn Hall. There was some sort of attempt to add a General

Index to the regular one, and I am not sure what direction this thing went in as the girls typed the thousands of names.

The sections which I have not mentioned were, for one reason or another, office babies. They were mostly worked on by Associate Editors Missy Alford and Sam Yager.

The Business Staff ran around a lot, and when their leader wasn't playing politics, got the job done.

Photography is a problem. Most of the work is Bill Riner's. If a yearbook has good pictures, it will usually be well accepted — we'll just wait and see. When Bill wasn't around Mike Barkley helped out.

It was a small staff, but we worked well together and the end result should be 520 pages of Arkansas Razorback.

ARKANSAS TRAVELER

One thing can be said with certainty about 1964-1965: it was a great year for University, state, national and world news. And for the Arkansas Traveler, it was a hectic, challenging and busy time.

For those who had a part in the daily production, the Traveler was a living, breathing, creative thing. It was not to be abused by misuse, but it was not to be restrained when it felt that it had a responsibility to fulfill.

The Traveler, printed four times a week, IS the black-and-white personality of those that staff it. Indeed it must be a campus bulletin board at times, for it is the only communications link that ties all UofA students and faculty together. But it can be more. It is felt by those that staffed it in '64-65 that it was more.

One problem that surrounded the Staff's mind early in the year was where was any controversy going to come from. It took very few weeks to solve that stigma.

The battles?

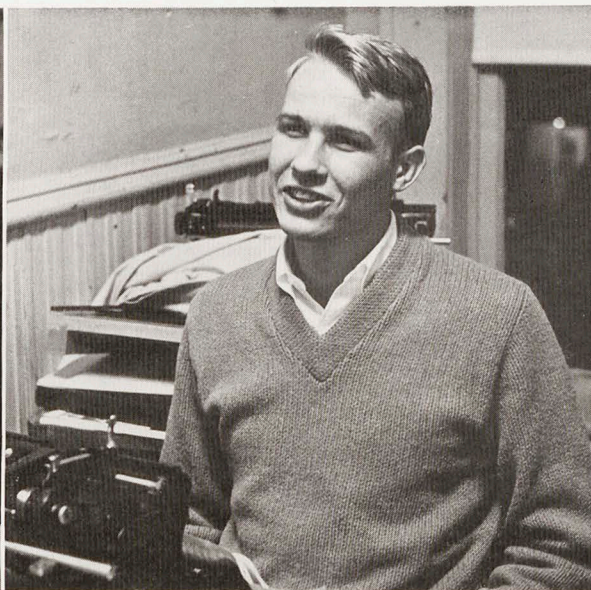

Texas game football tickets and the George Cole controversy; speaker policy riff over a Bulgarian attaché's speech and the administration's back to the wall; proposed judicial amendments and the AWS backlash; kingmaker control of student politics and the campaign against ring domination; Sammy Hilburn and the presidential oust on a committee's ruling on extra-curricular grade-point; fourteen student grievances and the legitimate battle to get administration answers and action; and student elections and the insertion of of major issues in place of another popularity contest.

These and many more stories made life on the Traveler an exciting adventure. That's why so many good people hung around to do the job that had to be done.

Pam Mitchell was a consistently hard worker and felt no task too large or too small for her talents.

Jack Hill waded through the thousands of words of copy with precision and in dull moments added his unique point of view and a few stares.

Tom Cardin whipped the feature pages out with professional attitude and quick hand when not hustling the bods of Hill Hall. Johnny Shelby turned in an unmatched job as sports editor, lived and breathed the Razorbacks and took a lot of knocking from Dr. Roberts. Ginger Shiras and Sylvia Spence, both always concerned about acting like a freshman turned out to be two of the most valuable writers any editor would want. Cid Sutoris with a proud and sarcastic perspective picked the plum or persimmon that comes with an editor's job.

Sandra McAdams and Kem Mosley kept the ChiO's in the Traveler ring. Sandra pumped the crabby wire machine and supplied the air raid shelter with essentials. Kem kept society on the scene with regularity.

Beth Yancey made a journalist out of herself and always had a cheerful word. Carl Lumpkin stuck around for a semester and then took his talented pen to Tulsa.

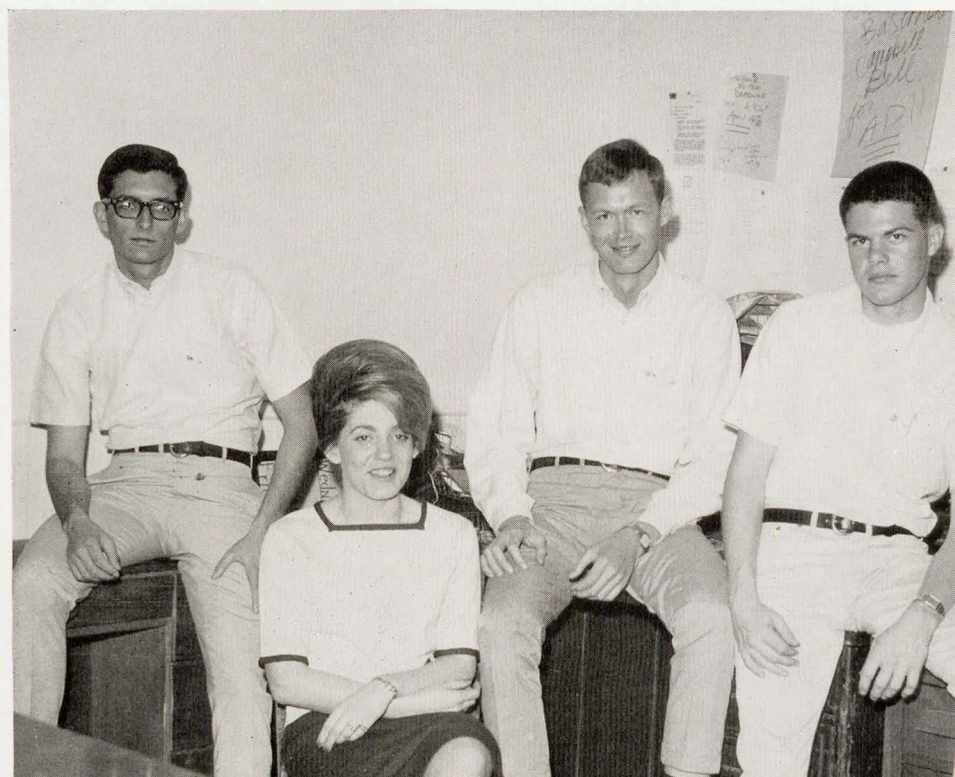

The business staff with Jerry Cooper at the helm sailed another cool $30,000 into port in a timely and always ready manner.

And there were others; Sue Walk and Tessie Tuck with giggles; Jackye Shipley with determination; Hal Sears with humor; Lina Davis with persistent work and few words; Mike Barkley with padded reviews and perfect pictures; and Bill Riner with graphics, good and bad, occasionally on time.

For the Traveler: there were 105 issues and then there were none as it reported the year that was.

Agriculturist staff reads copy for current issue of the magazine.

The Arkansas Agriculturist is published quarterly by students in the College of Agriculture and Home Economics to inform students, prospective students, faculty, and alumni of activities in the College. It covers everything from the most intense research studies to student projects.

Circulated throughout the state in high schools and extension offices, the Agriculturist is also designed to attract students to the University by showing them some of the activities of the Agri school. Outstanding students such as the Danforth and 4-H winners, scholarship winners, and students elected to membership in honorary organizations have been featured.

A highlight of the year is the traditional Agri Day issue, which contains the Agri Queen and her court, the winners of ASA keys, and Who's Who in Agri school.

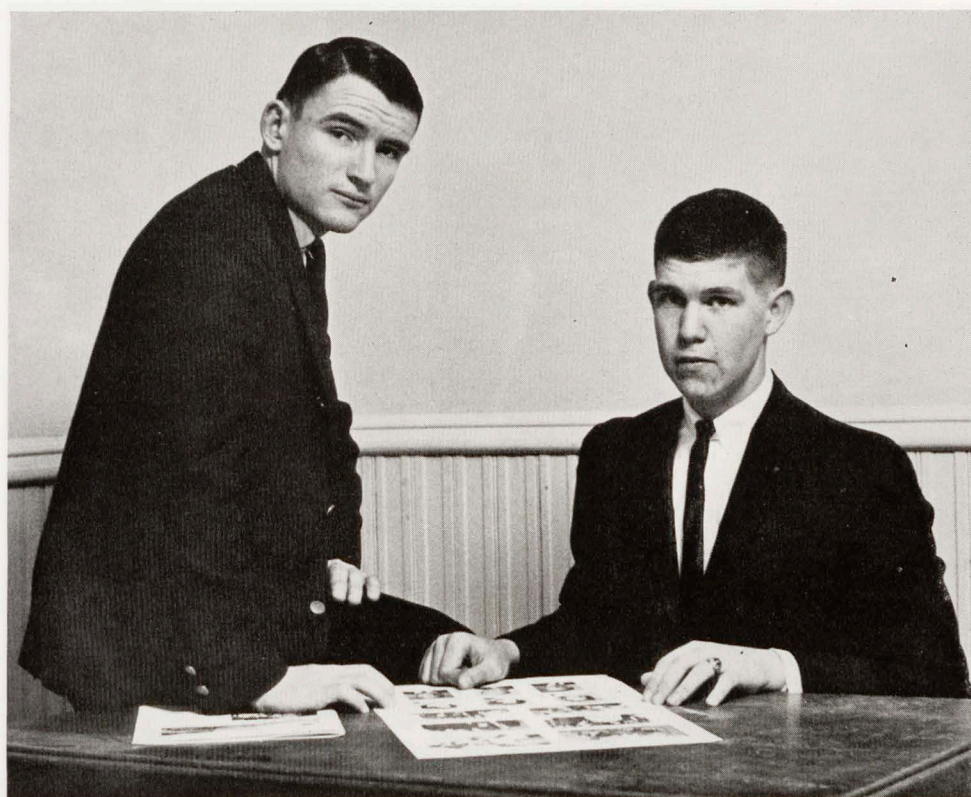

Staff members of the Agriculturist are selected from the student body of the school. The magazine provides valuable experience for agri students interested in journalism.

Unlike many student publications, the staff of the Agriculturist is kept rather small. This is a good thing, both for efficiency and because there's not much room in the Agriculturist's office.

The Arkansas Engineer is the official publication of the College of Engineering. It is published quarterly, but only one of the issues is looked forward to by the engineering students. This comes out in March about the time St. Pat celebrates his birthday. It contains cheese cake pictures of all the St. Patricia candidates which are usually kept for pin-ups.

The Engineer is devoted mainly to articles of a technical nature, but also contains a joke page to enlighten the minds of the dreary Engineering students. There is, of course, a dean's page and an editorial that sometimes causes some excitement. This year there was an added feature in the center of the January issue that caused the Engineers to perk up and another editor to fall.

The magazine is sent to the high schools around the state to promote enrollment in the College of Engineering. This year's editor was Charlie Martin, who has since been retired from the editing business for reasons unrevealed.

The many long years of successful publication are still making history for the Guild Ticker. The editor and his staff combined their talents to produce the only official publication of the business school.

The publication contained articles of interest to all students enrolled in the College of Business Administration. One of the unique features of the book was the section covering the 1965 Commerce Day. This section included all of the Day's activities which were climaxed that evening by the presentation of honors and awards.

The Commerce Queen of 1965, Miss Janis Funk, Pi Beta Phi from Little Rock, was featured in the Ticker along with the candidates.

Who's Who in the College of Business Administration was also announced in the publication, along with pictures of all the seniors in business school.

Tribute was also given to those members of the 1965 National Champion Razorback football team who are in the School of Business Administration.

The tradition of a literary magazine on this campus is almost as old as the University itself. A publication called The University Magazine appeared as early as 1893, and a magazine known as The Ozark was published monthly during the years from 1895 to 1901. From 1913 to 1920 the campus boasted both a literary magazine (The Arkansan), and a newspaper.

This is the "Apologia" in the May 14, 1947 issue of Preview printed as, "Lambda Tau Literary Supplement to the Arkansas Traveler". This year marks the 19th consecutive year of Preview's publication. The magazine format was adopted in 1948 about the same time collaboration with the Art Department began.

The Arkansas Law Review and Bar Association Journal is published quarterly by the School of Law and the Arkansas Bar Association, acting through a non-profit, benevolent association which was founded for this purpose in 1947.

A copy of the Law Review is sent to every member of the Arkansas Bar Association and every state and territory in the Union. Some copies even go as far as Belgium and Australia.

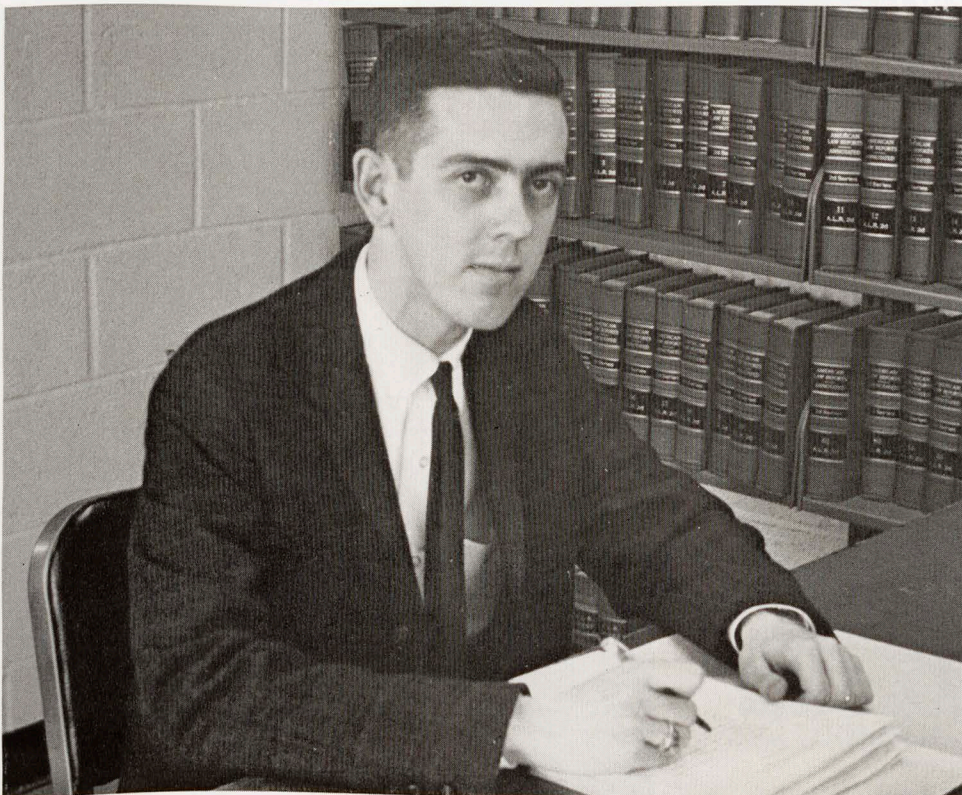

Members of the editorial staff credit hours toward graduation for work on the Law Review. Each published student article is afforded a fractional credit hour. Students seeking membership on the staff must meet certain grade point requirements and submit one or more articles of acceptable quality.

The articles appearing in the Law Review can be generally classified into three categories: recent decisions, case notes, and comments. The articles are under the supervision of the student editorial board and a faculty advisor.

Student Government Handbook

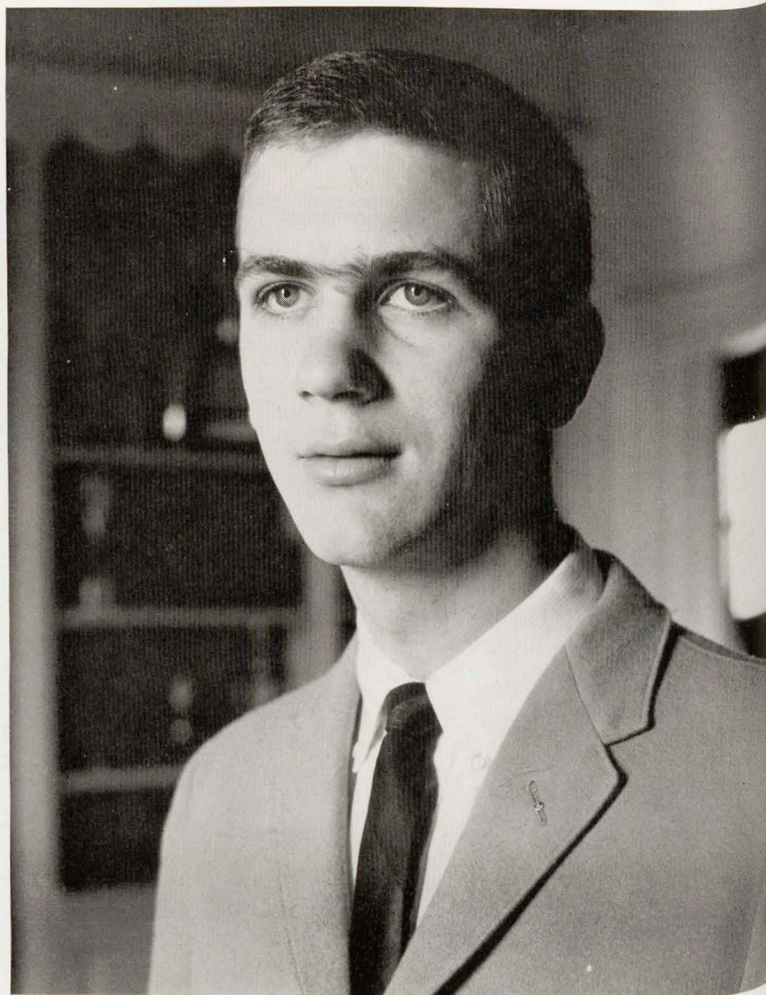

The A-Book is the official handbook of the student information for the University of Arkansas. It is published in the spring and distributed each fall to entering freshmen during the orientation program.

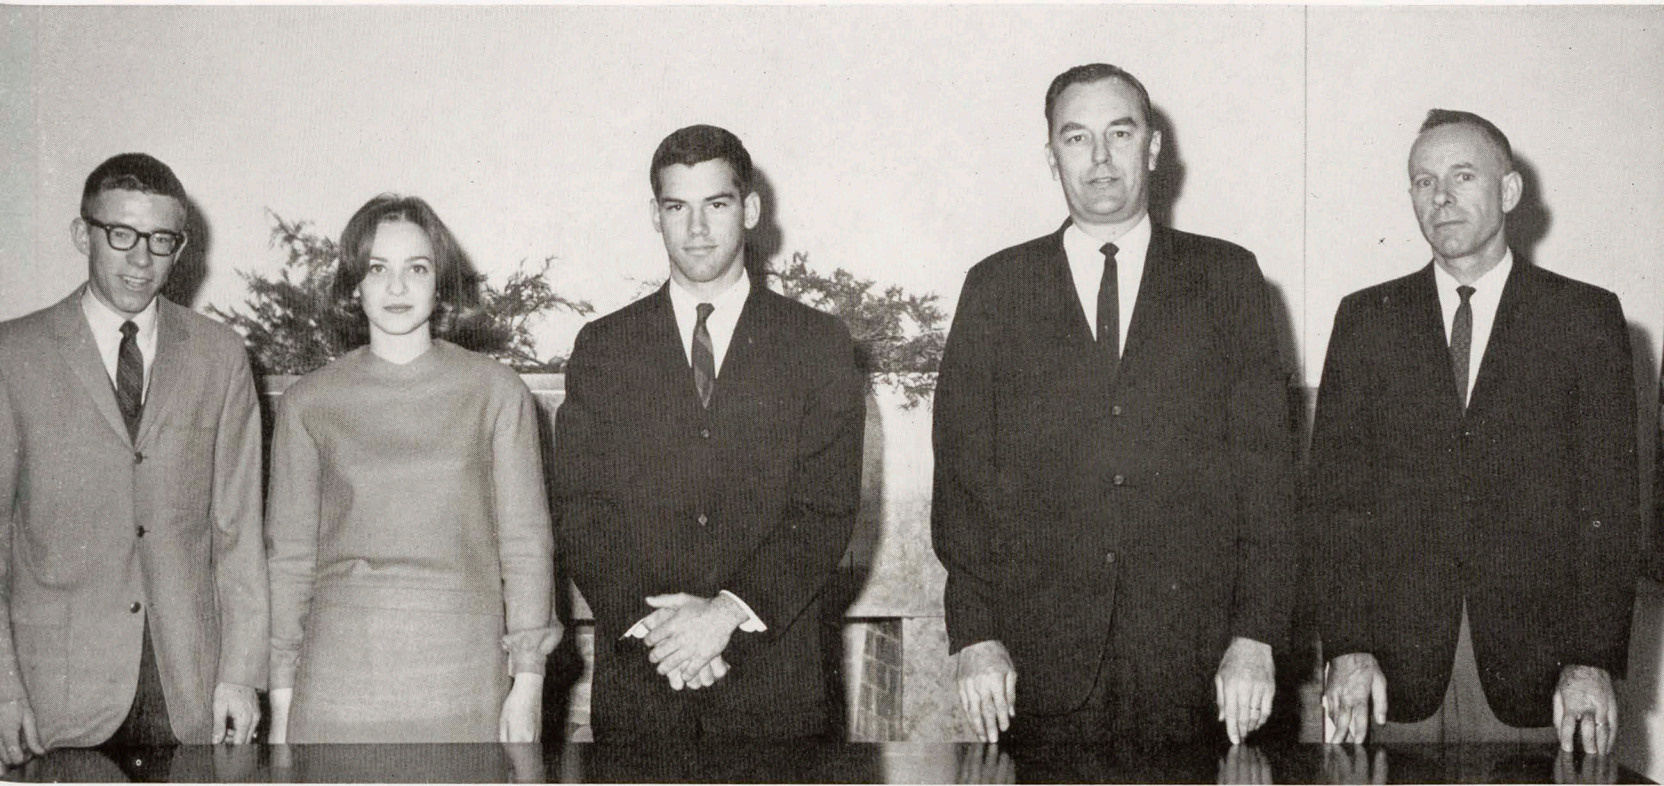

This year's A-Book, in addition to serving as the handbook of student information, contained other features concerning activities at the University.

Editorship of the Student Directory mainly concerns a mad rush in the fall to tabulate names, addresses, and phone numbers of 7,000 students and getting them in form for the printer. The Directory also contains some artwork and minimum ads.

This year the Student Senate allocated money for the publication of the Student Government Handbook to explain the functions of student government.

Students (Chairman); Mr William Hughes, Director of Information; and Dr. Jess Covington, Chairman of Journalism Department.

BOARD OF PUBLICATIONS

In its fifth year under the present organization, the Board of Publications did business as usual; and business was pretty slow as no one was making trouble.

Student membership of the Board rotates, in an obscure manner, among the presidents of the major campus organizations. Permanent members of the board are the head of the Department of Journalism, the Director of Information, and a Presidential appointee, usually the Dean of Students. The Vice-President of the student body serves as chairman of the board and votes in case of a tie.

Ex-officio membership on the Board is extended to editors and business managers of the Traveler and Razorback, the editors of the A-Book and the Student Directory, and the business manager of the University.

The Board has the responsibility for seeing that journalistic ethics are adhered to in all publications.

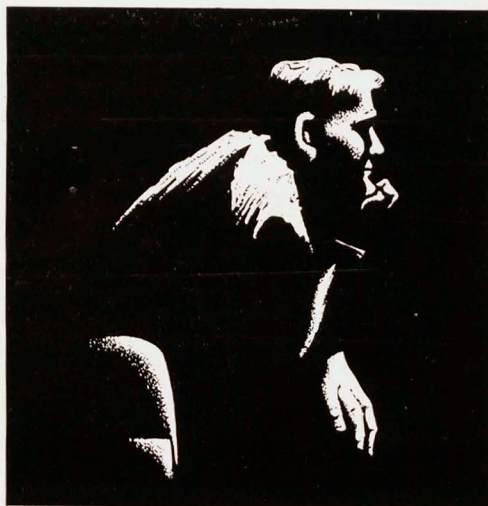

It also elects the editors of all campus publications; and, as might be expected, there is a bit of politics involved.

Members of the Board control the letting of contracts for printing, engraving, and other services. The Board did not censor any publication this year.

Members of Board of Publications discuss problems that arise with budgets, printing contracts, and the election of staffs.

COLONEL LAWRENCE G. BROWN
PSM

In 1873, the Reserve Officers Training Corps was established at the University, and has become part of the daily life of the students since that time. Because the University is a land grant school, some form of military instruction is compulsory for two years. During this time students are introduced to the role of the modern Army and what may be expected of them in the event of a global war.

The freshman receives instruction on the organization of the Army, small bore rifle marksmanship, and the role of the Army in modern warfare. As a sophomore he learns the traditions and history of the U. S. Army. He is also introduced to map reading and tactics.

After the completion of the two year basic course, qualified cadets are offered an opportunity to enter the advanced course in preparation for a commission upon graduation. The cadet is considered on the basis of proven military leadership, past performance as a cadet, overall academic standing, as well as intelligence, character, and aptitude. The final decision rests with a board of officers who interview the cadet.

Once accepted into the advanced program, the cadet receives instruction in tactics, military administration, law, radio communication, and other topics. Advanced students spend six weeks during one summer at a summer camp where they put into practice what they have learned. Twice a week drills are held where all cadets learn military parade and leadership techniques. While in the advanced course cadets are paid $27.90 a month. Upon graduation, they are commissioned 2nd Lt. and incur a two year military obligation.

PERSHING RIFLES

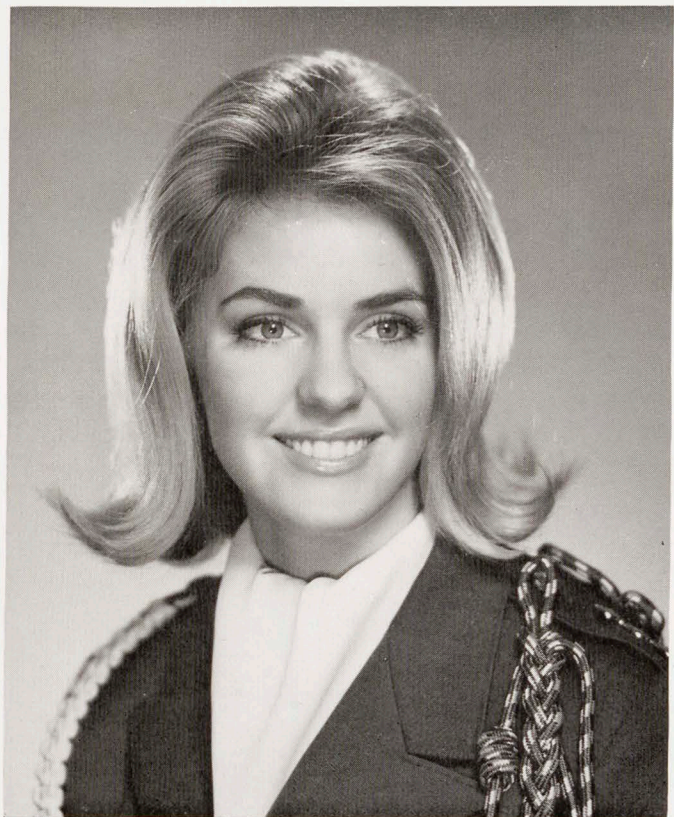

Company D, 7th Regiment of the Pershing Rifles, is the University's honorary military organization for outstanding cadets in the basic course of ROTC. It is a member of the national society of Pershing Rifles, founded by the famous General John Pershing in 1894.

The purpose of the Rifles is to develop the military precision and drill ability of its members, giving the University a crack drill team which has won many honors in the past. Members are drawn from the ranks of the Freshmen and Sophomores who wish to achieve the high proficiency required of a drill team.

The Pershing Rifles have become the showpiece of the Brigade, and represented the University at Eureka Springs during the Folk Festival. In past years, all the members have traveled to New Orleans to participate in the Mardi Gras Parade. They have been cited by the New Orleans mayor for their skill and contribution to the event. During the year they serve as ushers at the football games in Fayetteville and perform at the Military Ball.

The Pershing Rifles elect their own sponsor. This year their choice was Maureen Welty.

The other military instruction program at the University is under the auspices of the Air Force. With an aim similar to that of the Army, the Air Force ROTC trains cadets for a tour as an Air Force officer. Basic cadets can elect to serve in either Air Force or Army ROTC to fulfill their two year obligation to the University.

In AFROTC, first year students learn the principles of flight, the various parts and roles of the modern Air Force, systems and tactics.

At the end of two years, cadets may apply for admittance to the advanced program. They must complete and pass physical and mental exams, and be approved by a board of officers. As advanced cadets, they have the opportunity to study navigation, military law, weather, and in addition get to make flights with various tactical wings in Arkansas. They attend a four week summer camp at an Air Force base where they are introduced to modern weapons and methods of the Air Force. Advanced cadets are paid quarterly and receive $85.00 each quarter while they are in the course. Upon graduation, they are commissioned 2nd Lieutenants and incur a four year military obligation.

"Operation Warm Heart", sponsored by Angel Flight and Arnold Air Society provided toys for underprivileged children.

ANGEL FLIGHT

The Angel Flight is an honorary service organization of selected and dedicated women from leading colleges and universities across the nation. It is sponsored by the Arnold Air Society, a selective Air Force ROTC cadet organization which is named in honor of the late General H. H. "Hap" Arnold, the first Army Air Corps Chief of Staff.

A very important part of all Angel Flight activities is to act as hostesses and co-sponsor the many Air Force ROTC, Arnold Air Society, and university functions conducted on many campuses.

Angel Flight on the University of Arkansas campus was started by Captain Carl E. Rose, Col. Bryden E. Moon and other interested parties.

This year's activities have included T.V. appearances, trips to area conclaves, Operation Warm-Heart, pancake supper, selling Easter lilies, helping with the blood drive, and sending delegates to national convention in Washington, D. C.

ARNOLD AIR SOCIETY

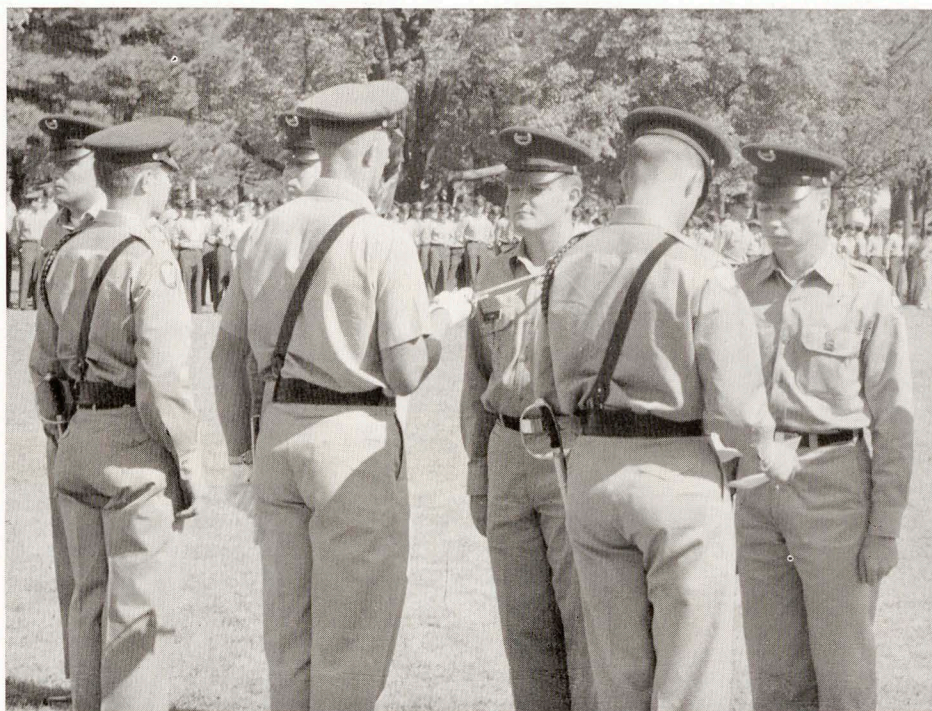

Made up of Advanced Air Force cadets, the Arnold Air Society is the honorary Air Force Military organization. Members are selected by invitation of present members, and must possess a good scholarship record, including a 3.00 cumulative in Air Science.

The local Squadron sponsors the drill team, and sends it to several public events and competitions in the Southwest. It also sponsors the AFROTC Band, and the Air Police who can be seen directing traffic at football games and aiding with crowd control at Gaebale.

Since the completion of Hotz Hall, Air Force ROTC Cadets hold drills and reviews at Leroy Pond Intramural Field.

Members of Scabbard and Blade, honorary military organization, hold annual tapping ceremony on drill field.

SCABBARD AND BLADE

The Honorary Organization for Advanced ROTC cadets of both services is Scabbard and Blade. Made up of 3rd and 4th year military students, Company B. of the Regiment has the mission of raising the military standards at the University and to unite the two military departments in a closer relationship, to encourage and foster the essential qualities of efficient officers, and to promote friendship among cadet officers.

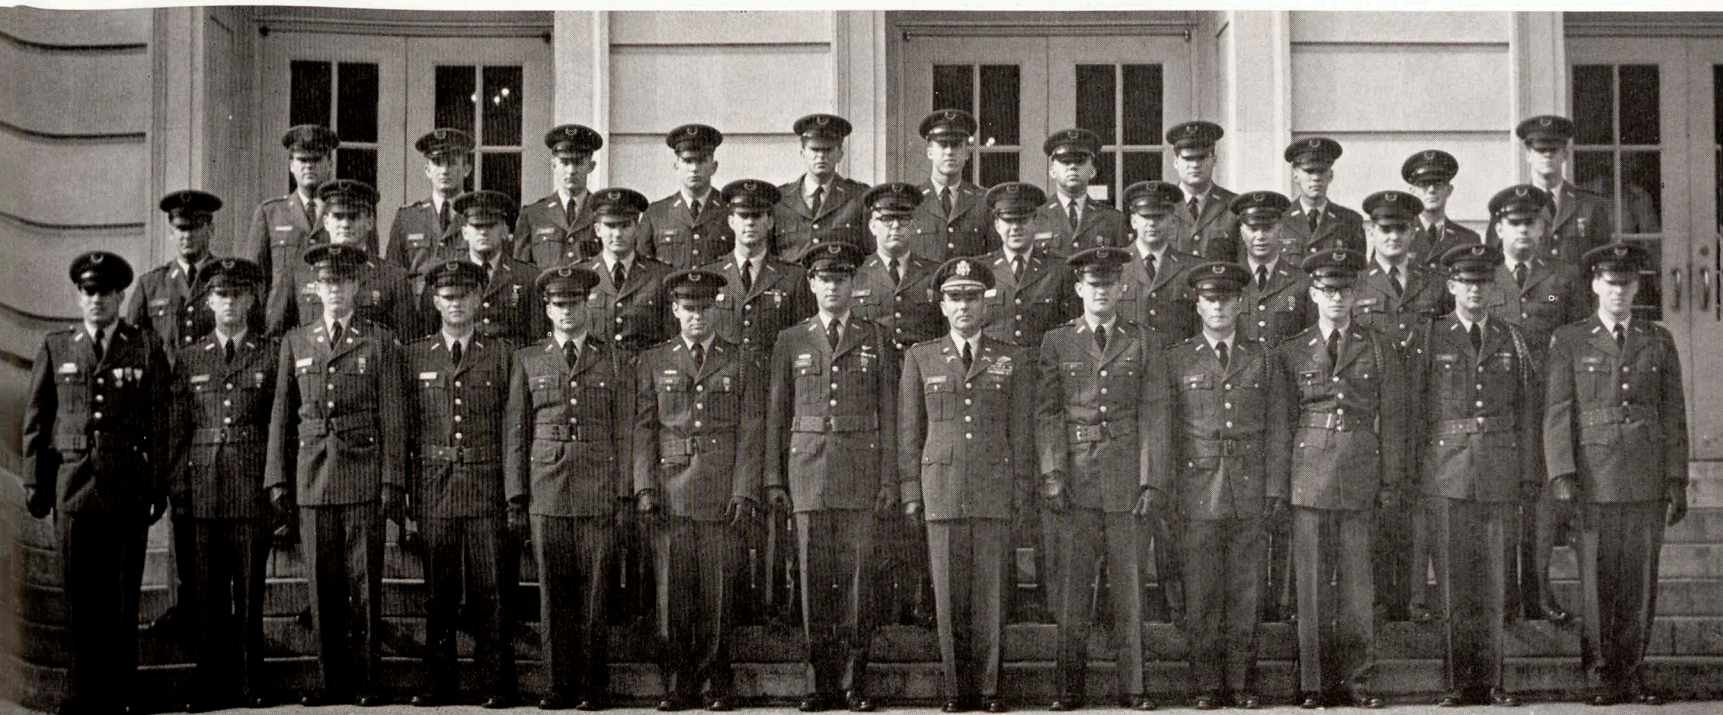

Scabbard and Blade inducts its members by an impressive "tapping" ceremony on the drill field. After being chosen, the inductees must go through a trial period, cumulated by formal induction into the Society.

The Society meets once a week to discuss problems occurring between the army and air force units, and to suggest improvements in drill procedure. In this way, the best ideas of both groups are available for use.

Zuper Zecret Zociety

Re-founded in 1965 on the campuz of the Univerzity of Arkanzaz, the only purpoze of thiz organization iz to full up the zpace left when the number of organizationz appearing in the yearbook was not divizable by three. Thiz made a definite layout problem zince the pagez in the organizationz zection were zet up on a three-per-page baziz. The group'z name was arrived at becauze it had to ztart with a "z" in order to be in the lazt group lized. It was thetefore inevitable that thiz group be formed quickly. Thiz was done, the memberz remaining zecret becauze it zeemed at that point that the yearbook would not be out on time and no one wanted to zhare in the blame. Anyway, the need for thiz group to be re-activated haz once again arizen.

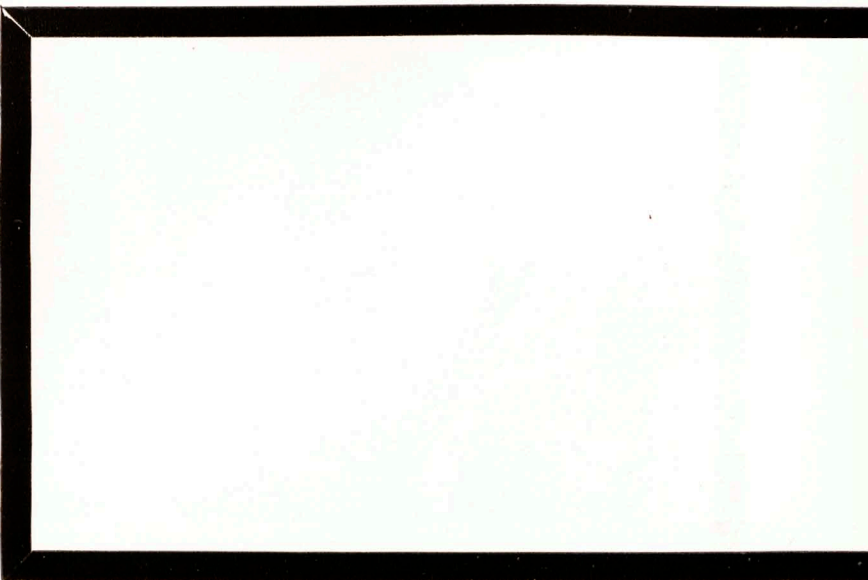

Zuper Zuper Zociety

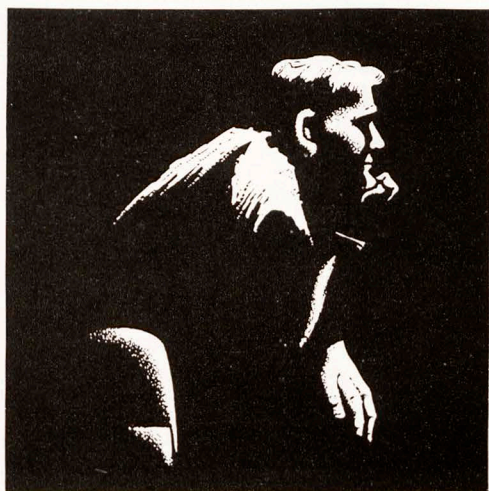

The organization known az the Zuper Zuper Zociety was founded on the Univerzity of Arkanzaz campuz in May of 1965. It iz a branch of the recently re-organized Zuper Zecret Zociety and itz memberz alzo wizhed to remain anonymouz. Thiz organization was founded becauze it did not meet all of the needz of itz memberz and they preferred to break away and have their own group.

If one is wondering about the black and white picturez of the Zuper Zecret Zociety and the Zuper Zuper Zociety, they are juzt like any other picture in the book — black and white.

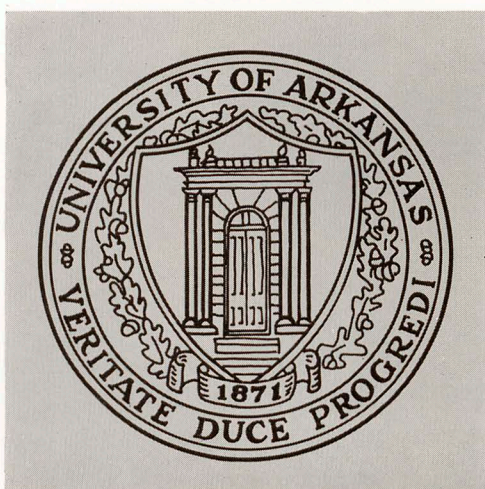

It iz hoped, however, that the need for theze two groupz will not arize again in the near future az it putz an extra hard burden on thozе anonymouz memberz who do not like to have their picture'z take.

Pauline Appleton ----- President
 Evelyn Bowen ----- Secretary
 Jamie Newton ----- Treasurer

2nd Semester

Ann Leeseman ----- President
 Jennifer Jones ----- Secretary
 Susie Irby ----- Treasurer

Fulbright once again ranked high in scholarship and leadership among other dorms in campus activities. Fulbright ranked second scholastically in dorms the first semester and won second place in the Homecoming float competition.

Elizabeth Richards was selected as Razorback Beauty, and Alicia Gayer and Sharon Tatman served as members of Angel Flight. Twenty-one of the members of Alpha Lambda Delta came from Fulbright and thirteen Fulbright girls were selected as Chimes. Residents were also active in WIHC, Civic Club, ABC, PEM, People-to-People, Sophomore Counselors, Young Republicans, Young Democrats, and WRA.

The highlight of Fulbright's social calendar was a spring formal with an underwater theme. Other events were Drop-ins, a Christmas dinner and party for underprivileged children, a dinner honoring the football team, and a "Section Beautiful" contest.

The Fulbright Formal had a Greek theme this year. The theme was carried out by the band which was aptly named "The Greeks."

Spring Semester

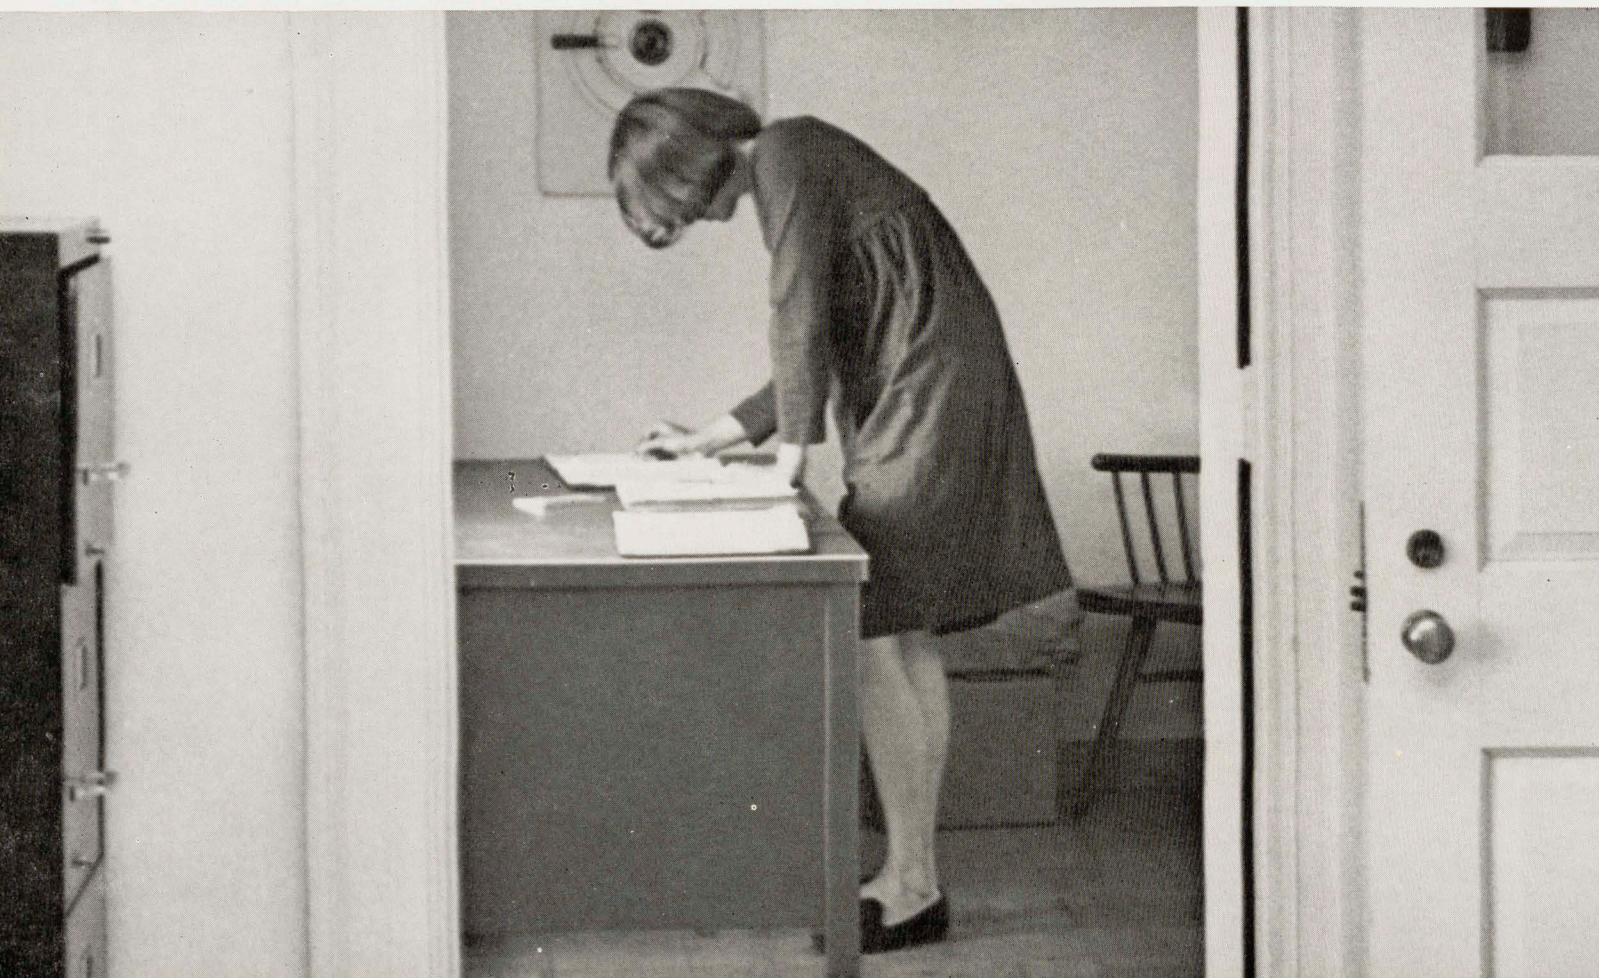

Carole Ann Maus ----- President
 Paula Giles ----- Vice-President
 Sarah Covington ----- Secretary
 Sue Nodler ----- Treasurer

The residents of Holcombe Hall experienced an outstanding year filled with various social activities and participation in many campus organizations.

Leadership was shown by Kathleen Barden who was elected Commander of Angel Flight; she was also chosen as a Razor-back Beauty. Carole Maus and Martha Ray served on AWS Executive Board. Serving as WIHC senators were Martha Ray, Zanette Martinkus, Pam Grissinger. Holcombe was also active in PEM, ABC, WRA, BSU, ACEI, Band and Civic Club. Paula Giles was on the Student Religious Council, and was Publicity Co-Chairman of the Newman Center.

Under the supervision of capable officers, the hall rounded off the social calendar with Halloween and Christmas parties, a Christmas Faculty Dinner, and open houses. A check was sent to the Salvation Army instead of having the Christmas Party for the underprivileged children.

Many rules have changed for women on campus but one of those rituals that is almost certain to remain the same is that of signing out.

After four hour tests and a pop quiz this resident of Holcombe staggers back to her room to prepare for tomorrow.

WOMEN'S INTER-HALL COUNCIL

The purpose of WIHC is to coordinate the activities of the women's residence halls and to promote scholarship, leadership, and general well-being of women in the residence halls.

Each year WIHC tries to match funds put up by one or more halls to pay room and board for a foreign student living in a residence hall. It also has a rotating scholarship trophy which is given to the woman's residence hall with the highest grade point at the end of each semester. An outstanding senior is selected each spring.

WIHC sponsors several social functions during the year, as well as social functions given jointly with MIHC.

WIHC OFFICERS: Janice Turner, Treasurer; Susan Benton, Secretary; Carman V. Holder, Vice-President and Social Chairman; Patsy McCoy, President.

Phi Beta Kappa Scholarship Cup, highest achievement of any living group on the UofA campus, was captured again by Psi, the Mother chapter of Chi Omega. However, the scholarship award was not the only trophy achieved by Chi Omega this year. On either side of the cup lies the first place Homecoming float trophy and the Sigma Nu Relays Cup.

Individual honors of Chi Omega's members were the Secretary of the Student Body, Diane Allen and senior senator, Sandra McAdams. Grace Ann Coleman served as AWS State Treasurer. Grace Ann and Diane Palmer were chosen for Angel Flight, and Dana Kay Hill was selected Honorary Lt. Colonel in the Army ROTC. Jephrey Phipps was tapped for Phi Beta Kappa and Motor Board. Other Chi Omegas in Mortar Board are Chi Chi Hargraves and Rita Foster. Chi Chi was also listed in Who's Who. Alice Barnett and Claudia Heath served as counselors. Margaret Heard and Sally Harrington were Homecoming Maids; Judy Adams reigned as first runner-up to Miss UofA; and Jan Ellis was IFPC Secretary.

After trying to get several fraternity pledge classes to take them on a walkout, Chi Omega pledges gave up and went skating.

PANHELLENIC COUNCIL

OFFICERS: Jacque Wilson, President; Charles Mary Webb, Secretary; Claudia Heath, Treasurer.

With the president and rush chairman from each sorority as representatives on the U of A campus, the Panhellenic council strives to maintain harmonious Greek life and interfraternity relations and to cooperate with college authorities in their effort to maintain high social and scholastic standards.

Activities of the council are to make and formulate all rules that govern rush and pledging. A scholarship cup is given each year for the highest grade average.

Each year the council gives a coke party, held during the spring semester, for all freshmen girls interested in participation in fall rush. Panhellenic also awards two scholarships annually at the AWS Spring Festival.

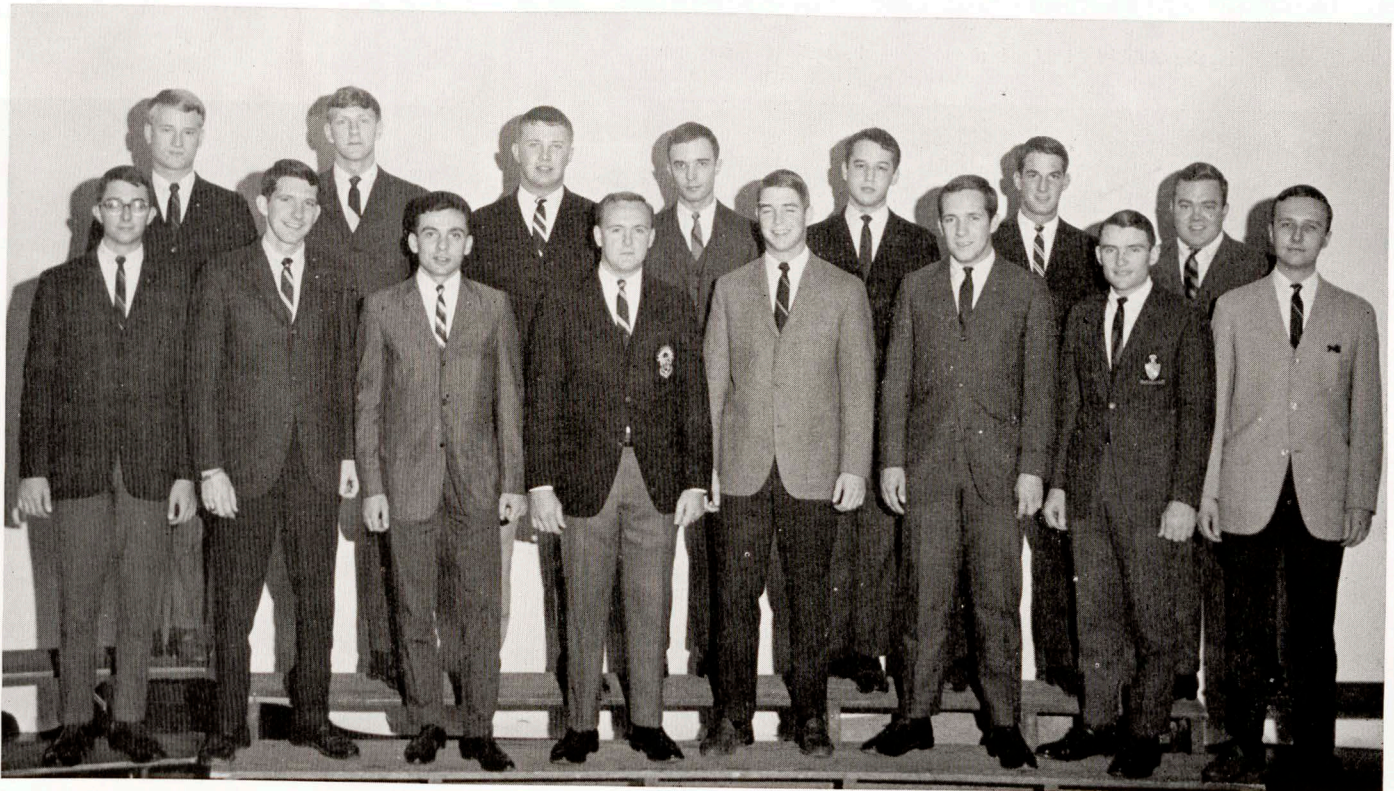

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL

The organization designed to regulate and govern the activities of all social fraternities on the University campus is the IFC. The primary function of IFC is to serve as a governing body of the fourteen fraternities. It is composed of the Dean of Men and two representatives, the president and one elected member from each fraternity, and is governed by four officers elected from the membership of the council itself. The council meets bi-monthly to discuss the mutual problems of the fraternity system. It also enforces all rules concerning fraternity rush and social activities.

Throughout the coordination of activities, IFC attempts to unite the fraternities in a spirit of friendly brotherhood, to promote scholarship, to encourage new fraternities and to develop existing chapters and individuals in the fraternity system.

Acacia Fraternity continued a record of growth and leadership in all phases of campus life in 1964-65 as it celebrated its fourteenth year on the Arkansas campus.

Social highlights included the traditional "End of the World" party and Holiday Formal during the fall, with the Sack Dance and Black-and-Gold Formal in the spring. A full calendar of lesser events rounded out the year's program.

While intramurals remained a leading activity, the chapter received its national trophy for general Campus Leadership. Activities included Student Senate, IFC, publications, ODK, and other honorary fraternities, and a number of offices in campus organizations.

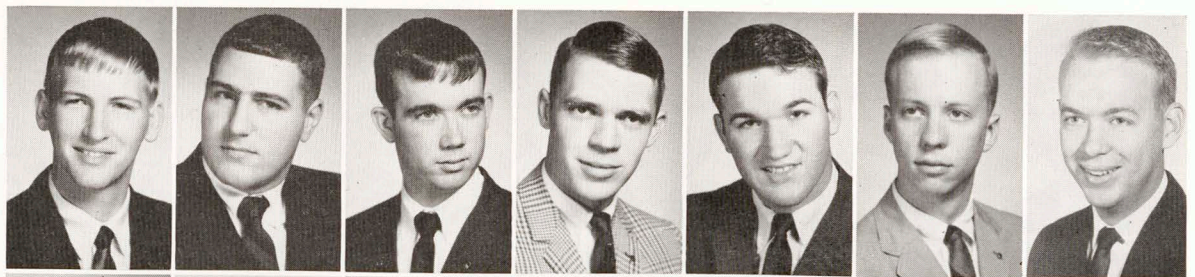

Acacia was founded nationally at Michigan University in 1904, and now has a national organization of 60 chapters. The new house at Arkansas was finished in 1962, and is at the north end of Stadium Drive's "fraternity row".

The occasion is the Acacia "End of the World Party." If Missy goes into the pool, the snow will surely melt, Acacia leaders will lose admirer.

Farmhouse achieved its basic aim for the past year by once again leading the fraternities in scholarship achievement. It was also designated a Summa Cum Laude fraternity by IFC.

Men of Farmhouse holding campus offices are Charles Hooks, Alpha Zeta Chancellor; Jim Shearer, AI Club President; and Bill Townsend, Agronomy Club President and an officer in ASA. Members of ODK include: Charles Hooks, Bob Bridges, C. A. Ivy, and Jim Young. Robert Harris, Richard Ivy, and Charles Denver were members of the poultry judging team that won first place in the national contest.

In addition to scholastic and individual honors, a full social calendar rounded out the group's activities with the Halloween Party in the fall and the Sweetheart Ball in the spring. In intramural sports, Farmhouse ranked third.

Xi Chapter of Kappa Sigma celebrated its Diamond Anniversary on the University of Arkansas campus this year. Since 1890, Xi has been active in every phase of campus life. Nineteen sixty-five was no exception. Bobby Fussell and John Fulton represented Xi in Blue Key. In Omicron Delta Kappa was Walls McCrary, and Bob Wright served as Faculty Sponsor for that organization. Bill Rush and Mark Reif filled positions on the Guild Ticker. Chuck Hayden held membership in Alpha Kappa Psi and was a member of the U. of A. Athletic Committee. Kappa Sigma was represented on the athletic field by Jim Lindsey, Travis Mauldin, Guy Jones, Dick Cunningham, Tommy Sain, and Jerry Jones.

Once again, the social calendar was a full one for the Kappa Sigs. Numerous drop-ins, exchange dinners, the Christmas Formal, the Spring Outing, and the large Spring Party were held during the year.

Kappa Sigma prisoners have captured a young coed at the first and hopefully decisive (Halladay) Prison Party.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

As in past year Lambda Chi Alpha was a leader in campus activities. Dick Holbert served as Vice-President of Associated Students; Larry Wallace, John Harmon, Dave Gardner, Billy Ross, and Ray Owen were in Blue Key; while members of ODK were Dick Holbert, Dick Remke, Ricky Raper, Brice Weinberg, and Tom Cardin. John Harmon served as editor of the A-Book, and Dave Gardner was co-editor of the student directory. Lambda Chi had two senators: Jim Coffield and Dave Gardner. Billy Ross was president of the Civic Club. Dick Holbert and Larry Wallace were in Who's Who.

Social activities included the Watermelon Bust Party, Playboy Party, Western Party, Purple Id Party, Crescent Girl Party, and the Spring Outing. Lambda Chi was strong in intramurals.

Lambda Chi's in varsity athletics were Glen Ray Hines, Jerry Welch, Wally Freeman, and Max Peacock.

The year 1964-65 once again saw Phi Delta Theta increasing and bettering its brief sixteen year record at Arkansas by diligently seeking achievement in scholarship, leadership, athletics, and social life. During the football season, Phis cheered Brothers Bobby Burnett, Bobby Roper, and Tom McKnelly on to Cotton Bowl fame. Other Phi Razorbacks are Ronnie South, Robert Trammel, and Tommy Tranthum.

Among the campus positions held by Phis this year were: "Traveler" Editor, Ron Robinson; President pro-tem of the Senate, Mac Glover; AFROTC Wing Commander, H. H. Rhoden; Alpha Kappa Psi President, John French; Cardinal XX Vice-President and Secretary, Robert Trammel and Pat Mayo, respectively. Six Phis were tapped for ODK and two for Blue Key.

Socially, the year was highlighted with many fall and spring outings, drop-ins, Dad's Day and Homecoming parties, Founder's Day, and, in April, the outstanding Viking Party. For Phi Delt it was another great year!

Social whirl at Phi Delta Theta hits a frenzied peak at Christmas every year, when Phis try to see how much they can get away with.

PI KAPPA ALPHA

Pi Kappa Alpha in 1964-1965 enjoyed continued success consistent with its more than sixty year tradition at the University. Various phases of campus activity found Pikes in active participation. Jim Wellons in Blue Key, Dave Fitton in Cardinal XX, and Tom Price in Who's Who were the outstanding representatives of the many PiKA's in the honorary service and scholastic societies. Jack Brasuell, Harry Jones, and Stu Berryhill were PiKA starters on the National Championship Razorback team. John Talkington was a starting, high scoring regular on the basketball team.

The social and scholastic records were equally impressive. Scholarship was of primary concern with a variety of exchange dinners, drop-ins, outings, and major parties. Of the major social events, the Roaring 20's, the Christmas Brunch, and the Dream Girl Formal, (honoring the Chapter Dream Girl and National Dream Girl, Miss Kathleen Barden), were again the most popular.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon was founded on March 9, 1856 as the first Southern fraternity. After seventy-one years of outstanding service and leadership on this campus, SAE continues to excel in all phases of campus activity. Alphas serving in honor organizations include twelve members of Blue Key, two members of ODK, and three in Cardinal XX. Paul Ray was Student Court Associate Justice and Bart Lindsey was Spring IFC Rush Chairman. Campus offices include: Claud Prewitt, Circle K President; Jack McNulty, Phi Eta Sigma President; and Jack Giles, president of the Engineering Council.

In intramural competition SAE is again finishing as a strong contender for the Sweepstakes trophy this year.

The Initiation banquet in the Spring was highlighted by the visit of our National fraternity president Dr. Glen T. Nygreen, Dean of Students and Professor of Sociology at Hunter College.

A good time was had by all at the SAE pledge party this year. SAE is considering a new type of pledge program.

SIGMA CHI

The Omega Omega chapter of Sigma Chi accented its 60th year on campus with outstanding achievements, and continued to accumulate honors in campus activities and organizations. As a result of their leadership and scholastic accomplishments Sammy Hilburn, Ed Penick, Dick Hatfield and Ken Hatfield were selected for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. The Skis were also well represented in leadership. Dick Hatfield and Denny Hurley served as President and Secretary of Omicron Delta Kappa. Other members of ODK were Donnie Smith and Pete Maris. Representing Sigma Chi in Cardinal XX were Ladd Scriber, President; Arthur Hornick, Bruce Switzer, and Dick Wyatt. Doug Hurley served as ABC President and IFC Treasurer. Ladd Scriber and Dick Wyatt were selected for Phi Eta Sigma.

Social activities included many fall and spring outings, parties after the Dad's Day and Homecoming games, and the first annual Derby Day. As usual Sigma Chi was strong in intramurals.

In another year of outstanding campus achievement, SPE was well represented in all phases of campus activity.

Bobby Jones was chosen by the Engineers as St. Pat and also as the president of the American Society of Chemical Engineers. David Malone was IFC President; John Stanley edited the IFC Rushbook and was also Student Union Vice-President. Bob Porter acted as Business Manager of the Guild Ticker and as Circle K President, and Jim Womble was president of the American Society of Civil Engineers. SPE had three student senators.

Outstanding Sig Ep social functions of the year were the Christmas Party, the Golden Heart Ball, and numerous drop-ins and football parties. The social season was brought to a fitting climax by the Sig Ep Luau.

SPE was well represented on the athletic field by all Southwest Conference choice Jim Williams and by Charles Daniels, Jim Britnum, Jim Wiesen hunt, and Paul Ramey.

Theta Xi Chapter of TKE began its fourth year of active participation on the University of Arkansas campus with education as its main objective, by placing fourth in the first semester grade tallies among all fraternities.

The Tekes, once again, were among the top contenders in the AA Intramurals this year, and received honorable mention in Singfony during Christmas.

Social activities included the celebrating of National Founders Day and Installation Day on the UofA campus. The S.O.B. (South of the Border) Party was again brought into the program, and the Tekes masqueraded as their favorite South of the Border personality. Other social functions included the Red Carnation Formal and various drop-ins and exchange dinners.

Although Theta Tau is primarily concerned with scholastic achievements, its social calendar is not lacking. Early in the year, the Founders Day Banquet was held, followed by the fall and spring outing and the St. Patricia Banquet. On April 7 an all day celebration in honor of the thirty-seventh anniversary of the founding of Theta Tau at the University of Arkansas was held climaxed by a banquet that night.

Along with an outstanding scholastic record, members of Theta Tau continued to show leadership ability in many phases of campus life and were especially outstanding in the various engineering organizations. Buzz Arnold and Bill Harrison were selected for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities; Mickey Mayfield was president of Blue Key; and Gray Campbell was president of ODK.

Lion Oil Company—a member of the huge Monsanto Chemical family—derives strength from a complex of research laboratories, oil fields here and abroad, 'round-the-clock refineries and chemical plants, 3500 people.

These people and these physical resources are dedicated to bettering our products and markets—and to the discovery of new ones.

Look to Lion—major producer of gasolines, lubricants, asphalts, and more than 150 other petroleum products for industry and agriculture.

Through education, expansion of agriculture and industry and renewed hope and faith in our future, ARKANSAS MOVES FORWARD.

Arkholia has used these principles for many years and pledges to move, and help
 Arkansas move steadily forward.

A BOON FOR ARKANSAS

Under the leadership of J. Robert Welsh, president of Southwestern Electric Power Company the internationally sponsored $25,000,000 Southwest Nuclear Research Center was located in Northwest Arkansas near Fayetteville.

Research is an important part of Southwestern's program of providing efficient electric service for progress. It helps keep the cost of electric service down. It helps provide new business for more jobs for better living.

ODE TO SLAVE LABORERS

It's been a good year — sure, it's had its ups and downs — but all in all it's been a good year. One of my favorite people once remarked that a yearbook was probably the only lasting history of the school for the year. I guess it's really something to be a part of history in the making. Anyway, it was an experience. There were always those who by their hard work and good attitudes kept us moving along. There were those who made us laugh when we wanted to cry. And there were those who generally made life bearable. These are just a few of them:

Bill still hasn't learned that when we wanted a picture today it didn't mean a week after tomorrow. But when we got the pictures they were usually good. He's in good spirits most of the time and really, a very likeable fellow.

We decided last spring on the opening section and asked Ellen Ann Ragsdale if she would do the writing. Ellen Ann was in Madrid, Spain this year which seemed to be quite inspiring. Re-read the opening section. Unfortunately, we had no picture of Ellen Ann, but I'm sure there are those who remember her. I wish there were more like her. Bless you, Ellen Ann, and Thank You!

We asked Barbara Hallam to take the administrations section. The next time we turned around there it was typed perfectly and ready to send. Thanks, Barbara.

Sandra Moore and Pat Weed handled the dorms and the Greeks, respectively. Other than a few minor mishaps — misplacing a dorm or two, losing some officers, and then trying to find both — Sandra and Pat came through with few scars. Pat gave us a lot of laughs and, in general, kept everyone in good spirits when she was around.

This year we asked Sherman to take over organizations. He gave this glorious task to Sue Smitherman. Knowing full well the pressures of this section, I had much sympathy for her. But Sue took over completely, did the job well, and never once uttered one complaining word.

A time consuming and rather unpleasant experience is typing the index. Carolyn Hall and many Alpha Chis deserve much credit for this.

Missy had a lot of activities this year, but had time to drop by and check on things. She ran around a lot and kept the section editors busy.

The personalities section was completely finished in a remarkably short time by dependable Jan Bryant.

Dick Albin, a rather talented actor, managed to get through the arts section between rehearsals.

Janice Bourg tried to keep up with the beauties section, but it ran away from her. She wrote us a note to tell us what it was supposed to contain after we had already completed the section.

Hank came over last spring and asked to do the sports section. Nothing pleased him more than writing the football copy and nothing pleased him less than writing the rest which had to be rewritten anyway. Nothing pleased us more than his hard work.

Many thank yous should be extended to those individuals who typed — Penny Brannon, Jan Bryant, Jane Ware, the ChiO, Zeta, Sigma Nu pledges and others who spent many hours over here. I wish I could thank all personally, but I don't know all of your names.

I've saved the best for last and one of these is Sam. A devoted, self-disciplined, hard-working individual is hard to find, but fate sometimes is kind and sends one of these people your way. Sam's kind of a miracle in a way. He's the one who told us how to organize the class section — that's the one with 5200 pictures and cards and cards to file with those pictures — that's the one that requires continuous days and nights without sleep — that's the one that can almost kill you — but it didn't thanks to Sam. That's not all he did — he kept our spirits high by never letting us down. I screamed and hollared and threw things, but Sam always took it good-naturedly. I think I scared some people. Anyway, he'll have a darn good book next year.

Our association with Mr. Walker and Miss Gene McRae has been nothing but pleasant. They have been a guiding light and a helping hand all year long.

Finally, the King — Jame-o. He's another miracle — miracles aren't meant to be understood — you're just darn glad that they're around. The first part of the year we fluttered around a bit trying to stay organized — there are some who think we never did — the second semester Jame-o and I went our separate ways. I started rounding up copy and worried along with the class section and what not. Jame-o tackled the feature section and more pictures and wrestled with cutlines. I thought he might catch spring fever, instead he caught Kay, or vice versa, who is an excellent typist and helped me a great deal. Thanks, Kay, and best wishes.

All in all it's been a good year. Thank God for miracles and "Long Live the King".

NCA

I'VE HAD MY MOMENTS

"We have found from experience that it is futile to try to explain to outsiders (ie., those who have never worked on campus publications) just what is so fascinating about Hill Hall. Sometimes we have trouble explaining it to ourselves. We are over-worked and under-paid; we sleep little and study less; we are regarded with suspicion by the administration and indifference by the student body. But we have our moments."

The above paragraph is from Doug Smith's 1963 Razorback. Nothing could better express the life of those of us who become involved in publications. Read it again; this is the way we view our existence.

In a funny way Nan and I worked together. I will never be able to explain to the Board of Publications how co-editors work sometimes, but they do. We will not know exactly what we have done until we see it in print, but for practical purposes it is done, and we did it.

It is traditional that I thank our staff. The fact that this book will appear in print, and they will be able to read their own stuff is thanks enough. I know this from experience.

The features section is a bastard. Jack Hill helped me roll through this with relative ease, and if he doesn't know that I appreciate it, I do.

If Bill Riner ever gets caught up, he will be a fine photographer. Most of the stuff is his, and he knows how I feel about every picture. There isn't much reason to tell you.

I told you earlier that I would explain the opening section back here. Well, I don't know how. Most of it belongs to Ellen Ann; a little of it is Barbara's, and we all like it.

How do you thank people who have helped you most? Gene McRae, R. C. Walker, Wallace Hurley, Tom Walker, Sam, Sherman, and Kidder — for these people, and several more, I hope this is a little of what you would want the Razorback to be. If it is, then I will know.

The 1965 Razorback has no major changes; we cannot afford them. We try hard with what we have, and if you are not satisfied, come around and let us show you our collection of "yearbook jewels." I say this realizing that other books are no excuse for the Razorback.

Custom allows me to say anything that I might get away with on this page. Ed Dohoney tells me from experience that if I put "alleged" before anything it will pass. Here are a few observations, for those who expect them, and I have not used alleged.

The Board of Publications is beginning to get upset at the sight of Sigma Nu editors and business managers. They almost took care of it this year, but I'll make you a deal. If you want to edit this thing, come around and talk to Sam early next year. I bet he'll give you a crack at it.

I would like to call any person who has said that we will not give out information on these publications a liar. This involves calling one person a liar, but I hardly know him and care less.

I remember poor old Kidder working up a sweat trying to explain my advent to the Board. Well, he explained it, and though I have thanked him above, it goes further back than that. He knows; he's been here once.

Bill Ebbert came in one day and told me all about campus politics. I'll tell him now that I already knew everything he was telling me, but it was kind of nice to hear a review. It was hard to keep up with.

Anyway we got rid of what we had, but we had it for a couple years. We saw what it got done, and I hope this is why we got rid of it. I am sure we will be none the worst for what we did. I just cannot understand why it couldn't have been Sherman. Mac should do fine.

I guess I had better commit Ronnie Robinson to print. If you thought I couldn't, damn you; if you thought I could, thanks; and for the times I made you mad, I am sorry. I still say that we can get a lot done on guts.

Another observation is the pine tree below my window. For what its worth, I hope before I graduate that I will have a chance to do something to that tree. Please walk that way, since it was put there to keep us from doing it.

For the benefit of those of you who don't live in Fulbright or the Sigma Nu House, I am getting married this summer. Small wonder how anyone could put up with someone who was putting up with this all year long, but Kay did. We went through the drop, pin, and now engaged deal, so its official. Thanks, Kay.

This book is published by the Associated Students of the University of Arkansas. That's you; this means its your book. We hope you enjoy it.

For those of you who have been waiting for a list of my enemies, I am sorry to say that it will not be included. They know who they are, and actually its none of your business. Sorry you had to read this far.
